

SOCIETY

Socially this week has been conspicuous for its absence of social events. One of the events which occasioned much comment was the Damrosch concert at the Theatre on Tuesday evening with Mme. Anderson and Mme. Van der Veer as soloists. The meetings of the Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F. and Rebekahs which brought to our town hundreds of guests has enjoyed everyone's attentions. Wednesday evening the visitors were tendered a reception in the White Temple given by the local lodges. A short program made up of musical numbers and addresses was given. In the banquet hall light refreshments were served. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way getting acquainted with the delegates and visitors. Junior Week End is now the prominent event which is attracting attention. It was ushered in Thursday evening with the presentation of "The Professor's Love Story," given by the Dramatic club. Friday morning was given over to the improvement of the campus by the boys and at noon they gladly partook of a sumptuous lunch prepared by the co-eds. In the afternoon was the annual track meet with O. A. C. in which U. of O. was victorious. Junior orations was the event scheduled last evening. Tonight the Junior Prom will take place in the new gymnasium. It has anxiously been looked forward to, as it is the biggest party of the college year and the only one to which outsiders are invited. The patronesses are Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mrs. F. W. Benson, Mrs. G. F. White, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Mrs. J. V. Beach, Mrs. R. S. Bean, Mrs. P. F. Moray and Mrs. S. H. Friendly.

Mrs. L. L. Whitson, who with her husband leaves very soon for California to make their future home, was given a farewell party by Mrs. J. H. Bingham at her home on West 5th street Tuesday afternoon. The members of the Alpha club and Mrs. C. S. Dillon and Mrs. Ben Bingham were the guests. An enjoyable afternoon was spent with cards. Mrs. Finko winning the prize. In serving Mrs. Bingham was assisted by her daughter, Miss Grace.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church met with Mrs. J. T. Rowland on South Willamette street Tuesday. It was the annual mite box opening and there was a large number present. An interesting program in charge of Mrs. Breton was provided on "The Negro as a Citizen."

Wednesday evening the young ladies of the Westminster Guild of the Central Presbyterian church, gave a Japanese party in the church parlors to about forty of their friends. The costumes worn, the decorations, games and refreshments were all in keeping with the Japanese idea, which was cleverly carried out.

This morning at ten o'clock Miss Belle Keeney and Miss Nettie Kress entertained the Alico club at Miss

Kress's home on East 12th street. The event took the form of a kimono party, the guests being dressed to suit the occasion. The Misses Marion Tinker, Martha Tinker, and Genevieve Dickey served. Besides the club those present were Miss Brown, Miss daughter, Miss Winifred Cockerline. The invited guests of the club were Mrs. J. W. Kay, Mrs. R. A. Booth, Mrs. C. M. Elpass, Mrs. W. F. Osburn, Mrs. S. M. Kelly, (Roseburg), Mrs. McBroom (Washington).

Mrs. R. H. Dearborn entertained this afternoon in honor of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Dearborn of Portland. An informal afternoon was pleasantly spent with needlework and conversation. Mrs. Dearborn served dainty refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

The Aid Society of the Central Presbyterian church met on Tuesday

Queen Mary, First Lady of Great Britain

English mothers are ready to receive their new queen with open arms. Queen Mary won her way into the hearts of the mothers of England when she was the Princess of Wales by her talks and defense of mothers. She has certain theories on raising children that she has expressed in public on many occasions, one of the principal ones being that her children must obey; that they must come in contact with other children and not grow to manhood and womanhood without knowing the world outside of court circles.

Stringham, Mrs. Harry Keeney and Mrs. Geo. McMorran.

The Sunshine Club met this week with Mrs. A. T. Cockerline of Mill street. Needlework was the afternoon's pastime, followed by a luncheon, served by Mrs. Cockerline and afternoon in the church parlors. A short business meeting was followed by a social session during which delicious refreshments were served by the joint hostesses, Mrs. Dalzell, Mrs. Baisch, Mrs. Kinler and Mrs. Helen Duff. There were about forty ladies in attendance.

to-dateness to a greater degree than the coat or wrap. We will consider these as apart from the coat of the regulation suit, although the suit coat if chosen with care as to cut, finish and color, may do a double service in being worn with the one-piece dress of the separate skirt.

A long loose coat for traveling or motoring has become a necessity. It may be developed from serge, covert, chevot, homespun, and cravenette mohairs and silks. For rainy weather or a cravenette coat is a necessity. A dressier coat for wear over a light gown or for just that amount of warmth needed for summer evenings is best gained by a pongee, or a bersaline, white satin and silk are also liked.

Great numbers of pongee coats are shown; both in the very plain models and these intended for quite dressy wear. The latter are trimmed and it is to the trimmings that they owe their elegance. One mode of decoration that is extremely popular is the use of black satin. They are usually loose or very slightly fitted, almost full length, coat sleeves with big deep cuffs of the black satin of which material also is the collar that reaches very nearly to the waist line with the left side overlapping the right and fastened with a black silk knot. The collar is wide and extends quite to the edge of the shoulder. Linen coats, too, are modish.

Some of the coats and wraps are of great proportions but they are made of such fine materials that they are not bulky. Cloaks of chiffon broad cloth with or without linings will be used for real warmth and are liked as utility cloaks. One of these is almost indispensable for the woman who will take either the long journey or the week end trips. They are much in use at the seaside where one is pretty nearly sure to need a wrap in the evenings and early mornings. A heavy serge coat is also a garment that is of great service for the seaside or for the short river rides.

Crabnet buttons of very beautiful patterns are being used on coats of linen and pique and others are of passementerie of large size. Many of the wraps and coats of woolen goods are fastened with silk cords and bows.

Cretonne effects are again in vogue and in millinery it is said to be making its way. Fine cotton in cretonne patterns veiled in chiffon cotton cloth is liked for waists.

Suede trimmings for the motor coats are much liked. The brown cloth wrap and coat will have cuffs of suede bound with a fine satin or leather. It is a jaunty effect for such garments.

A new belt has an elastic back that comes to the sides and is finished with a leather piece on each side to the front, where it is fastened with a big buckle, leather covered. The leather should be soft and crushed. The most prominent color as far as its effect is concerned is the chamois red, which probably will last through the summer because of its picturesque effect.

For All Bowel Troubles. Use Dr. Bell's Anti-Pain. Relief is almost instantaneous. It is also good externally for all kinds of pains. Sold by Dillon Drug Co.

MRS. CHICK GETS DIVORCE AND MONEY

Wife of Well-Known Timber Buyer Freed by Portland Court

Portland, May 21.—Dore E. Chick, wife of Charles H. Chick, a wealthy lumberman, was given a divorce by Judge Bronaugh, of the circuit court yesterday, on the ground that her husband had treated her cruelly. She recently brought suit, charging that he had carried on a clandestine love-making with Mrs. Dora E. Thomson, formerly of Eugene. Chick declined to contest the suit, and it went by default, the wife offering only enough testimony to support her claims. Chick has given his wife property valued at $100,000, in addition to their home at 673 Wasco street, on the East Side, and $5,000 in bonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Chick were married in Michigan in 1873. In her suit she said that her husband had been paying attention to Mrs. Thomson for some time past. She made this discovery, she asserted, by finding in his desk, a copy of Tennyson's love poems with the tender passages underlined, in alternate masculine and feminine hands. She said she later learned of appointments with Mrs. Thomson, which her husband had made and kept at different hotels in the city. He failed to explain his action to her, she declared, and added that he confiscated the book of poems which she had relied upon in her suit for divorce.

Judge Morrow had arranged to try none of the usual divorce cases today, owing to the congestion of the docket, but consented to have Judge Bronaugh hear Mrs. Chick and one or two other applicants for matrimonial emancipation, whose husbands were not contesting the suits.

John F. Logan, representing Mrs. Chick, informed the court that all property rights had been settled and that the couple were mutually agreeable that the divorce be granted her. She testified that he slapped her on the occasion when she confronted him with the book of Tennyson's and this with one or two other occasions when she testified that he had used abusive language toward her, furnished evidence which satisfied the court. Mrs. Chick's grown son took the stand in corroboration of the testimony.

Afterward Attorney Logan formally dismissed a suit for $5,000 brought by Mrs. Chick against Mrs. Thomson in which it was alleged that Mr. Chick's affections had been alienated. It is understood that this was one of conditions under which Mrs. Chick was permitted to secure a substantial amount of her husband's property as well as an uncontested divorce. Attorney Logan also whitewashed Mrs. Thomson and said that none of the charges which Mrs. Chick had made in her two suits had been substantiated.

Mrs. Thomson is the widow of a timber cruiser who is said to have been in Mr. Chick's employ before his death. When she became a widow it is said that Mrs. Thomson gained entrance to the Chick home, although her husband had left a substantial estate.
