OREGON WHEAT CROP LARGER THIS YEAR

Washington Falls Several Million Bushels Short of Last Year

Portland, July 21.—According to a Portland authority who has made an extended trip through the grain-growing districts of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, the Pacific Northwest will harvest a crop of about 42,000,000 bushels of wheat, as compared with 52,500,000 bushels last year. Considering the weather conditions the crop has had to contend with, this showing is considered excellent. The past winter was very severe and did great damage, particularly in the state of Washington.

Oregon is credited with a crop this season of 15,000,000 bushels, or 2,000,000 bushels more than last season. The gain is due to the showing made by the light lands and the increased acreage in central Oregon, where railroad construction has stimulated production.

Idaho also shows a gain over last year, with an estimated yield this season of 9,000,000 bushels, as compared with 8,343,000 bushels for last year.

The elements were unkind to Washington. In the Palouse and Big Bend districts, the cold winter inflicted serious damage to fall wheat and greatly cut down the yield. Washington growers are harvesting a crop calculated at 18,000,000 bushels, compared with 30,000,000 a year ago.

HOME INVESTMENTS BEST

Suburban acreage about Eugene is growing in value very fast. Two years ago I offered hill lands in City View Park at $40 per acre, and very few persons could be induced to buy. Last month I sold this same land at auction, without improvements, for $105 per acre, and at private sale on long time for $200 per acre. The future growth of Eugene will soon make it worth $1000 to $2000 per acre. Last month I sold Florence acreage by auction for 46 times what it sold for six years previously, and the joke of it is that the buyer resold it within thirty days for eight times what he paid for it, or 368 times what it sold for a little more than six years ago. This experience will be repeated many times in the next few years. Deepening the Siuslaw bar to eighteen feet will increase its shipping capacity over 400 per cent. If Lane county people, instead of sending their money to Canada and elsewhere for investment would invest it in Eugene and Florence real estate they would make more money and at the same time help develop local interests. Distance may "lend enchantment to the view," but as a money-maker, compared with home investments, it is a fizzle. For an investment near town that is a real money-maker see the veteran real estate man Geo Melvin Miller.

BANDON CLAIMS THE OLDEST LIVING PERSON

Bandon, Or., July 21.—Bandon boasts of one of the oldest, if not the very oldest, person in the state of Oregon, in the person of Mrs. Emma Wade, who recently celebrated her 106th birthday. Mrs. Wade has excellent health, considering her extreme age, and is in possession of all her mental faculties, although her eyesight and hearing are somewhat impaired. She has spent many years in Oregon, and is one of the pioneers of this section of the state. She has a host of descendants and is great-grandmother of several children.

Mrs. Wade has been making her home with her son on a ranch near Parkersburg, between Bandon and Coquille, but her son recently moved to Bandon and was accompanied by the mother. Mrs. Wade has every promise of living a number of years yet, but is certainly famous for her age at present.

40,000 YOUNG TROUT LET OUT

Cottage Grove, Or., July 21.—Forty thousand trout arrived here a few days ago from the government hatchery at Clackamas for the streams in the Cottage Grove territory. Wagons were awaiting their arrival, and the tanks containing the young fish were unloaded from the train and taken to the Coast Fork river, Mosby, Layng and Brumbaugh creeks. The Commercial club has been at work for months to secure the trout.

LOST HIS WAGER AND CAME NEAR LOSING HIS LIFE

Cottage Grove Man Tries Foolish Stunt for a Few Dollars

In an attempt to win a wager Charles Dyer came nar losing his life Sunday evening on Main street in Cottage Grove in the presence of many people. A company of young men were assembled in front of the Leader office, when someone offered to wager $2.50 that no one in the crowd could pass from one telephone pole to another, hand-over-hand, on the one-inch cable which is stretched from pole to pole, about 25 feet above the street. Young Dyer declared he could accomplish the feat and win the wager, whereupon he climbed up the ladder pegs on a pole, seized the cable and started upon his perilous undertaking. When little more than half way across he became exhausted and lost his grip in one hand, which caused his body to swing to one side. An instant more and the other hand lost its grip and he fell to the pavement 25 feet below, alighting broadside, sustaining a broken forearm, a badly bruised hip and bruises about the side of his head. He was taken to his home, where a physician attended to his injuries, and he is now on the road to speedy recovery.—Leader.

ANNIVERSARY OF BULL RUN.

Washington, July 21.—Veterans of the first battle of Bull Run, in which the Union army suffered crushing defeat, today observed the anniversary of that heroic conflict. It is possible that the semi-centennial anniversary of the battle next year may be celebrated with a great reunion of the blue and the gray on the spot where they met in bloody battle July 21, 1861.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. In was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt, clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treating the cause of sickness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by Yarrington drug store.
