ADMISSIONS FORCED FROM RAILWAY OFFICIALS

Interstate Commerce Commission Learns Facts of Real Interest

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Alleged stock inflation and manipulation, designed to turn over to the stockholders large sums of money without putting in the company's records any reference of more than passably fair dividends, was the subject into which the Interstate Commerce commission delved Monday at its continuation of "freight" rates of western lines, scheduled to take effect September 1. "The stock manipulation feature of the inquiry was suggested by Commissioner Clements and was immediately taken up by the commission's attorney, Frank Lyon, and by attorney Atwood of Kansas City, who appeared for the general shipper's committee, which is fighting the increase.

Illinois Central Man Witness

Controller Blauvelt of the Illinois Central railroad, was the witness from whom the disclosures which followed were obtained.

Commissioner Clements called the witness' attention to figures he had furnished on direct examination by the railroad's counsel. The commissioner said:

"You say, Mr. Blauvelt that in 1891 your capital stock was $40,000,000 on 2875 miles of road, and in 1910, on only about 1700 miles more it was $199,000,000? Also, that in 1891, the bonded indebtedness was only $62,000,000, while in 1910 it had reached $176,000,000. Why is this?"

"Well," was the answer, "what would appear to be the excess went to improve the roadway and for equipment and purchase of other roads."

Dividends Are Hidden

This part of the testimony opened a new question of the disposition of a corporation's stock and commissioner Lane, after asking if it was to make the stock value approach the cash value and being informed it was not, allowed the attorney to delve into the par stock deals.

"If your stock sold at 150 in open market," asked the attorney, "and you gave it to your stockholders at 100, what became of the extra 50 per cent of its value?"

"Why, it went to the stockholders," was the answer.

"Then the question of it was your company added to its capital stock by letting stock go to par, when it needed money, when it could have sold less stock on the open market, satisfied its needs, and kept the capital stock down, giving less capital to the shareholders upon isn't that so?"

"$100,000,000 is Manipulated"
Controller Blauvelt was unwilling such an impression should prevail, he said, and he explained by saying:

"Supposing we owned $15,000,000 in stock on the market at $100. I would send its value way below par. I consider it a good business policy to sell where we are sure it will bring par and keep control of the stock where it was."

Attorney Atwood asked how much of the company's $285,000,000 in stocks and bonds had thus been sold since 1900.

The reply caused other attorneys and the shippers to examine the records that had been submitted by the company.

Mr. Blauvelt answered:

"I find the sum was $49,000,000 value."

"That, sold in small dabs on the market prices would have amounted to about a third or half or more addition to that figure, wouldn't it?"

"I don't know," replied the witness.

Stockholders' Profits Large
"I think I can help you," added the attorney. He read from a stock and bond company's pamphlet which quoted the high and low market prices in the period covered as between 122 and 174, with an average of about 150.

put, and the possibility that actual gains of the company might be hidden in its owning stock and bonds in subsidiary companies.

The controller answered this question by insisting that when the parent company paid out maintenance costs for subsidiary companies and the subsidiaries paid back dividends, those returns were not properly sources of income to be considered in computing dividends.

The commissioner asked: "Some of this additional property which your company acquired was purchased by earnings, wasn't it?"

"It was," was the reply.
