Womens's Natural Wool Underwear $1.50 Reg. 75c

This is a man's store, yes; but occasionally the opportunity presents itself whereby we are able to sell women's underwear way below the prices asked in stores that sell women's wear exclusively. This is such an occasion, and every woman in need of Winter Underwear ought to take advantage of this opportunity to save.

Just in time for your Winter needs comes a rousing sale of Woollen Goods at the Brownsville Woollen Mills store—a great reduction event to which hundreds look forward every year. This timely sale is an annual event with us and we have made tremendous preparations for it this year by taking the entire surplus stock of the Brownsville Woollen Mills, of Brownsville, the Thomas Kay Woollen Mills, of Salem, and the Eugene Woollen Mills, of Eugene. All of these well-known mills have been fairly ransacked from cellar to garret in order to supply a plenty of woollen goods for this wonderful special sale. Thousands of pairs of warm Blankets are on hand—and, mind you, we didn't overlook the slightly damaged ones, all of which will be sold at just HALF PRICE.

Men's $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2 95c Wool Underwear, the Garment

A startling reduction made possible by the fact that we are discontinuing to handle in our regular stock, a half dozen or more styles, because we cannot fill in sizes because of the mills stopping the making of them.

A speedy disposition of those on hand is desired, hence we have grouped the entire lot on a separate table, where you can help yourself, as long as they last, at this mammoth reduction. Values worth up to $2.00 for only, the garment 95c

Blankets Seconds at Half Price

There's nothing wrong with Blanket "seconds" as far as durability goes. During the season's "run" at the mill every pair that is not entirely perfect is laid aside as a "second." The reason may be only a slight defect in color, or perhaps the border woven in wrong, or a few stitches dropped in the weaving.

A great saving opportunity during this sale, for all of these blankets go at HALF PRICE.

Colored Wool Blankets

Included in this lot are dark mottled grays, light silver grays, sanitary browns and dark golden brown, all on sale at the following price cuts:

State Fish Warden Makes Visit to McKenzie River Plant

R. E. Clanton, the state fish warden, who left for Portland last evening, after spending several days at the fish hatchery on the McKenzie, is very proud of the situation there, and only declares that it is the most ideal situation in the state, but declared that as soon as funds are available the hatchery will be enlarged until it will be made the most important in the state. He said in speaking of the Vida hatchery: "I consider that one of the most ideal locations for a trout hatchery that I know of. The water supply is good, the temperature is just what is needed for the raising of trout, is good and moreover even. As soon as funds can be obtained with which to work, I hope and intend to see a great hatchery built there. But at present there are no funds to work with. In this district the only money available are those received from the fishing license."

There is a general opinion from local sportsmen and mill men who are interested in the fishery question, that an effort be made to secure an appropriation from the legislature to carry on this work for the money that is now available is far inadequate. If this could be secured the McKenzie hatchery would be made one of the largest in the state and the fame of this river for trout fishing would never be diminished. A move will probably be made by local parties to interest the legislative body in this for the coming session. But what would be as serviceable to the fish hatchery as an appropriation would be a law or an amendment that would allow the licensees of the sportsmen to go to the hatcheries. At present it is combined with the game license money and goes in to the hands of the game warden who is not allowed to expend it for fisheries. If the fish warden could get the money that belongs in his department or the game warden could spend it on fisheries it would provide ample funds. The money from fishing licenses last year was over $2,000, yet Mr. Clanton says that with $1,500, he could produce 10,000,000 fish or enough to stock the whole state.

HARRISBURG NEWS.

E. C. Hill of Eugene was here Monday. Said he came especially to buy the big pumpkin.

Mrs. J. P. Schooling has been quite ill at her home in Coburg, having been practically confined to her bed for the past month, with no indication of relief at the present time.

J. M. Murphy, wife and daughter, Mrs. Scott, have taken the contract of supplying the construction gang of the electric power line with their meals. They have secured an outfit consisting of cook wagon and sleeping quarters, and arranged that the camp may be quickly moved from place to place along the route. The job will possibly last until spring.

The Southern Willamette Valley Ram Breeders Association held a meeting in town last week. The officers were T. C. Vitus of Junction City, president; G. G. Betts, secretary and treasurer, both of whom were re-elected for another year. This association has been organized about three years, its object being to bring buyer and seller closer together and to raise the standard of ram. Its officers claim it has been a success.

Grant B. Dimick, of Oregon City, republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, filed his statement of expenses for conducting his campaign. The nomination, which he did not get, showing that he expended $709.20, and John Manning, democratic candidate for the nomination for congressman in the second congressional district, also filed his statement of expenses today showing that the campaign cost him $29.25.

During a horse race, a Myrtle Point man was killed by his head coming in contact with a telephone pole.

FREIGHT DEPOT IS NEWS AND PROBABILITY IN NEAR FUTURE

Railroad Men Say That Eugene Is Next in Line for New Building

That Eugene is to have a new freight depot within a short time is a fact that is recognized by many of the railroad men who are in a position to know. And there is good reason to believe that it is an improvement of the near future, although one railroad man today expressed the situation about as it stands, when he said: "As long as Eugene transfer men can haul the freight away without having the store-room entirely filled there will be no new depot." But this point will soon be reached, for even now on some days the store rooms are so filled that goods have to be piled on the outside.

A new freight depot has been recently constructed at Klamath Falls, and the railroad men think that Eugene here is much larger than that of the central Oregon city, and facilities here are not any better for the handling of freight than they were at Klamath.

However, it is known that no definite action has been taken by the railroad as yet, and it may possibly be still another year. Yet next spring prospects are very good for a new and larger freight depot that will probably be built on the site of the present one.

It cost George H. Burnett $257.67 to be nominated for supreme judge. M. McKnight spent 28 cents and was defeated for representative in the 25th district.

London, Oct. 8.—Great Britain is more interested in the controversy between church and state in Spain than is generally understood. It is a known fact that the Spaniards put much of the blame for their trouble with the Vatican upon the shoulders of Queen Victoria, who is an English woman by birth and training. There are certain Spaniards who declare that although she became a Catholic before her marriage to Alfonso, she has never been able to dethrone the love of Protestantism in her religious affections. During the lifetime of King Edward VII, his Majesty's frequent conferences with his niece led to the belief that he guided her solely in her actions with members of the Spanish royal family and government, but since the accession of King George the influence of Queen Victoria is not so noticeable about the Marlborough House. It is said that though his majesty is intensely interested in the outcome of that controversy, he has informed his royal cousin that it will be impossible for him to consider the affair in any way except as a rank outsider.

In four weeks more Parliament will re-assemble, and during the recess the conferences of the two dominant parties have done much toward composing the constitutional differences of the House of Lords and the House of Commons. It is very difficult to get any one in authority to express a view upon the matter. In fact, several of the leading members of the cabinet are still away on their holiday, several being at their shooting lodges, but from what can be gleaned in a general way, it is believed that the negotiations will continue until a satisfactory agreement can be reached, thus avoiding another bitter conflict when Parliament re-assembles.

Early in the season it was said that King George would hold the winter court because he is aware that the compulsory abandonment of the season imposed very great hardship on West End shopkeepers. Now it is declared in equally certain terms by those in a position to know what they are talking about that the reason George is to have a winter court is because of the intense rivalry of certain social leaders for supremacy. They declare that the royal court will be the method of announcing who are and who are not to consider the coronation takes place and the festivities of the spring season approach. Half mourning will be compulsory and the Queen Mother will not appear unless, of course, she should defy all precedent.

GOSSIP FROM BIG POND

A club for "lady servants" is about to open in London. The main object of the club, according to the secretary, is to give such servants an opportunity of enjoying the social life of which their social position deprives them. People would be astonished, she says, if they knew how many ladies had gone into domestic service in the last few years. Many of them belong to distinguished old families and others are the daughters of doctors, clergymen and lawyers. The chief hardship in the career of a lady who becomes a servant, it is pointed out, is the lack of congenial society, but she will be lonely no longer, for she can spend her future evenings at the club, which will permit these friends to meet at the club and enjoy a quiet rubber or

Poland furnishes the latest example of the grief that some times—too often, indeed, comes to socialistic empires in Europe. Two or three years ago, owing to pressure from the socialists, working men began to run factories and mills on their own account. Better pay, shorter hours and a fair share of the profits were to result from the new scheme. One by one these enterprises failed, and the latest to be added to the list is a small glass factory in Czentochowa. These failures have done much to discredit the socialists among the working classes, as the agitators promised them the profits from all the larger factories and mills as soon as co-operation became general.

"SPOONING ROOM" IN NEW CHURCH

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—"Spoonings rooms" will be among the conveniences to be included in the eight-story institutional annex to be built by Wesley church. In the neighborhood of the church are scores of boarding and rooming houses where hundreds of working girls have their homes. These young women seldom have parlors in which to receive their gentlemen friends, and the church will supply this deficiency in its new edifice. Married people, too, who have no adequate parlors of their own, may make use of the parlors in the church building. The project is the plan of Dr. S. M. Dick, pastor of the church, and has won many supporters, although some of the more conservative members of the congregation hold that the church should cling to its primary religious function of saving souls and let people care for their own bodies.
