A MATTER OF HABIT

Oh, yes, I am a joyous jay--I chortle all the livelong day; I alidestep grief and sorrow; on yesterday I was as gay and frolicsome as I am today, and I'll be gay tomorrow. It's just a habit, and no more; some men may practice being sore, and looking round for evil; for them each rose is musty thorn, they see the cob and not the corn--their wheat is full of weevil. They can't enjoy a sunny day; they'll paw around and snort and say: "A storm will soon be ripping; 'twill knock the steeple off the church, and blow the rooster from his perch, and paralyze the shipping." If they are healthy, sound as wax, they'll search dog-eared almanacs to read of fell diseases; and when some pages they unfold they'll swear until they have a frightful cold, and fill the air with sneezes. All that's a habit, friend of mine; it's just a habit to repine, and deal in gloomy phrases, to say that things are out of whack, that all the wheels have jumped the track, all bound for merry blazes. It's just a habit to believe that it is waste of time to grieve in these dim worldly regions but such a habit makes you strong, and helps you as you prance along, and brings you friends in legions.

WHEN LINCOLN'S FORESIGHT FAILED

When we point with pride to our hundred millions of people, we do not always remember that we have fallen short of the expectations of fifty years ago. President Lincoln, in his message to Congress December 1, 1862, presented a close study of figures of population compiled by the census takers for 70 years, which showed for the nation, in his words, "an average decennial increase of 4.60 per cent population through the 70 years from our first to our last census yet taken."

He continued: "It is seen that the ratio of increase at no one of these seven periods is either 2 per cent below or 2 per cent above the average, thus showing how flexible and consequently how reliable the law of increase in our case is. Assuming that it will continue gives the following result: 1870, 42,323,300; 1880, 56,967,216; 1890, 76,677,872; 1900, 103,208,416; 1910, 138,918,526."

The growth of population immediately slackened so that not one of President Lincoln's calculations was verified. In 1870 the count showed 38,558,371 persons; in 1880 the total was 50,155,783; in 1890 the figures were 62,022,250, and in 1900, inclusive of Alaska, less than what he had fixed on for ten years earlier, or 70,303,287. The difference between the estimate of Mr. Lincoln for 1910 and the actual population is even more striking. His computation gave 138,918,526, while the census bureau found only 91,972,266 men, women and children in the continental United States.

It may be that Honest Abe, himself no great exponent of multiplication, did not foresee the epidemic of race suicide which spread over the land during the past 25 years, yet by overshooting the mark a trifle of fifty millions, he has shown that as a ready reckoner he was not nearly as successful as in other, albeit, nobler roles.

We understand that certain alleged promotion "boosters" have hired boycotters, and are working on businessmen who advertise in The Guard to induce them to withdraw their business from this paper. What do the people think of that for free America? This boycott business, especially when it is used to stifle free speech or a free press, is a double-edged knife that cuts both ways. It will hurt the men who invoke it worse than those whom it is directed against. In this instance it is the last stand of the Southern Pacific Co. to coerce The Guard into silence. Well, it won't work, and the highbinders who are attempting to work it will soon hear from the people who are with The Guard in its fight for right and justice against the railroad monopoly. The knockers will get knocked themselves as soon as their names are given to the public.

The trade territory of a town is not dependent upon the distance to neighboring trading points, says the Redlands Spokesman. The trade territory depends upon the enterprise of the merchants and residents of the town. If a town does not reach after the trade, it will come only as fast as it has to, and will grow as it is forced to. If the merchants go after business in the surrounding country, however, advertising in every possible way, and making good every word of their advertising, trade will come from an ever-increasing radius, the town will gain a reputation for being awake and it will forge to the front. It is the men in the town, and not altogether the men living within a certain number of miles from it, that makes the town.

Democratic politicians all over the country have been studying Governor Dix, of New York, perhaps because he is a new star in the political firmament. It is their opinion that Mr. Dix is very amiable, with a streak of humor, tactful and naturally a conciliator, a smoother out of wrinkles. In his manners Dix is very courteous, old spoken, gracious of demeanor, seldom flustered and not much of an orator, so the newspaper correspondents say.

Poor old Chauncey Depew shows what fate awaits a public man who values a laugh above a moral conviction.

Lorimer's wings may grow so long before his term expires that he will compete with the aviators.

The Medford Mail-Tribune says the greatest need of that town is more money. Which proves that the boom city of Southern Oregon is only an ordinary town, after all.

A Washington correspondent says that "President Taft has discovered that he is not a good politician." Somebody hold our sides, please.

Why should reductions stop with the upper berth?

GREAT CLEARANCE SALE

(Tribune, Great Springs, Ill.)

Our lease with Uncle Sam having practically expired and having decided to retire to private life, we the undersigned will offer at public sale at our residence National Capitol at Washington, D. C. Monday, December 5, 1910 all of the following described property, to-wit:

One Elephant, about forty-nine year old.

One set of instructions of High Cost of Living. Old enough to swear; Shred by Gold Bugs and damned by everybody.

One Republican platform, good as new; only been used for campaign purposes.

One Big Stick, same what worn from over use.

One Republican machine, somewhat out of repair, but good as new.

One Financial System, well supplied with Clearing House Certificates and a little cash.

A large quantity of Old Dinner Pails, Grandpa Hats, Coon Skins, Teddy Bears, Taft Smiles, and many other things too numerous to mention.

This sale will positively take place on above date regardless of weather. First made known on day of sale.

Stocks will be served by the Old Boy's Republican Club.

Every body, regardless of past political servitude invited. This stuff must be cleared away.

Joe Cannon, Auctioneer; Colonels Rockefeller, Morgan and Vanderbilt, G. O. P. Managers.

Waddy Roosevelt, Clerk.

"FLY, CHERRISM"

The habit of chewing one's food and spit it out is almost universal and is a source of trouble to many. It is a habit that is not only unsightly but is also a source of danger to the health. It is a habit that is not only unsightly but is also a source of danger to the health. It is a habit that is not only unsightly but is also a source of danger to the health.

There is one thing sure, however, much less distress and much more assimilation of the body-builder elements contained in every act food would be experienced by the people with poor or impaired digestion if they would only believe what we tell them about Vinol.

There is no mystery about it, or misrepresentation. Vinol simply contains the necessary elements needed to reestablish normal condition of the digestive system. There is no need of going into it, it is a simple reason why--it simply does it, that is all.

Thousands of genuine testimonials from reliable people prove this claim, and to further support the fact and prove our faith in what we say we unhesitatingly declare that any one who will buy a bottle of Vinol for stomach disorder and malassimilation, will have their money returned without question if they are not satisfied that it has done them good. The Red Cross Drug Store.

MARX DRY CLEANING

The art of Dry Cleaning is comparatively new, and is misunderstood by a great part of the public. Much of the so-called Dry Cleaning is "dry" but not "cleaning."

The inferior work is the result of the method employed by many small places who have no machinery or proper equipment for doing the work and consists merely in brushing the material, either by hand or with a small apparatus (so-called vacuum cleaner), and spraying the surface with a liquid other than water. This method cleans the surface of the goods to some extent, but leaves all the dirt and grease on the reverse side and in the center of the cloth, and in the case of coats, jackets and other lined garments, the dirt is left in the interlining, padding, etc., and in a short time will work out to the surface and the garment is as soiled looking as it was before it was cleaned.

Dry Cleaning in its proper sense means an absolute and thorough cleaning of all articles, through and through, without the use of water. This is done by the employment of solvents and specially constructed machinery and appliances, the use of which are only properly understood by the chemist.
