

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put from spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The question of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regular food and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for a few days as he gets out of his head. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the pangs of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, well-known to the confidence of physicians as well as the people. It is absolutely free from any harm.

In the same way "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither narcotics nor stimulants, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other poisonous drugs. All ingredients printed on the outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

SPRINGFIELD

OLD QUESTION OF SEWER OUTLET STILL PUZZLES SPRINGFIELD

Sewage Empties on Gravel Bar and Accumulates Till High Water Comes

Springfield, Jan. 24.—A question of engineering in regard to the city sewer outlet that has been bothering Springfield for the past few years is again before the city authorities, and this time to be solved. It seems that at present the city sewers empty into a gravel bar that extends along the river for some distance in front of the city. This bar, especially the part over which the sewers empty, is only covered by water in the high stages of the river, and for the greater part of the year the sewerage accumulates in a stagnant pool at the foot of the city. Emerald Heights, rising abruptly from the river, prevent the running of the sewer into the river below the bar, and the impossibility of maintaining a pipe line across this gravel bar the year around prevents the sewerage from reaching the running water. The object to the accumulation of sewerage from a health standpoint for Springfield alone is not the only one, for during the periods of high water this accumulation is carried out in one mass and endangers the health of the city of Eugene very much more than if carried away in small quantities. It is believed that to this cause alone originated typhoid scare in that city, which is now past but which began immediately after the first freshet.

There are three systems proposed. The first is to tunnel through Emerald heights and empty the sewers at the northwestern corner of the city. A second is to run a pipe close to the bank of the river channel, for a few hundred feet below where the present outlet now is to here the bank becomes solid rock. Here an opening can be cut in the rock that extends beyond the gravel bar. The third plan is to endeavor to construct each year a temporary pipe line across the bar, which will doubtless be taken out at each high water. This problem must be solved at this time before the some three miles of new sewer mains, which were ordered by the city council a few days ago can be constructed.

RUMOR OF RAILROAD WORK MAY BE TRUE

Springfield, Jan. 24.—The rumor that the Southern Pacific company intends to bring a crew of men to this city to begin some form of construction in the city or near here by the offer to purchase two two-story wooden buildings from August Vitus of this city and move them from their present location on Fifth and Main streets to a lot adjoining the Southern Pacific property, that is held presumably for terminal yards, and convert it into bunk-houses for the crew. Vitus, it is understood, has intended to vacate this property preparatory to the construction of a brick business block. The deal, however, has not yet taken place because of no agreement upon price. The Southern Pacific company offered it is said, $750. Representatives of the railroad a few days ago approached owners of houses near the depot yards in regard to engaging board and rooms for a crew of 80 men.

SPRINGFIELD'S BOOKS TO BE EXPERTED

Springfield, Jan. 24.—At a recent meeting of the city council an ordinance was carried providing for the experting of the city books from an early period in the city's government to the present date. An expert from Portland will be secured. The purpose of this is to strengthen the credit of the city and is being done at council's own volition. There has been no question raised as to any finances of any administration.

At this same meeting an ordinance was proposed requiring that there be no screens before any windows on the main streets. The law is aimed at "soft drink" establishments which have "bars" behind closed doors at which are sold beverages the softness of which has at times been questioned.

The city will construct a building shortly to house its street machinery and roadmaking apparatus, of which it has a full equipment. A committee will decide upon its nature and location.

Springfield, Jan. 24.—Examination began in the Springfield schools a week from today. The new semester begins Feb. 2. There will be over 12 new students enter the high school, increasing the present attendance over 70 per cent. A new teacher will be employed to handle the overflow from the first and fifth grades.

Springfield, Jan. 24.—J. C. Mulligan has been appointed as the newly created position of Springfield's first night watchman. He has been formerly connected with the Booth-Kelly company in a similar position.

Springfield, Jan. 24.—C. A. Bolin, an organizer for the Order of Foresters, one of the strongest fraternal organizations in this city, is here and has begun an active membership campaign which will last for a month or more.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Man of the Hour." At the Eugene Theatre on Friday, January 27, "The Man of the Hour" will be presented, and as the theatergoers have heard and read so much of this great play, there is no doubt standing room will be at a premium. While George Broadhurst the playwright, has taken for his theme certain conditions which exist in every large city, still there is said to be interwoven in "The Man of the Hour" a delightful love story. The plot in it concerns a young millionaire who has been refused by his sweetheart because he has "done nothing worthy." He then enters politics and is elected mayor of his city. After assuming the duties of the office he manfully refuses to how to the political boss. One of the first bills brought to him for his signature has to do with a franchise grab, and is prompted by the uncle of the girl with whom he is in love. It looks to the new mayor as if his refusal would cost him all the friends of his family, but after pursuing the rough road, in the end he wins his sweetheart and demonstrates that honestly always pays. The company to be seen here is said to be exceptionally strong while the production is complete in every detail.

"The Squaw-Man."

Although born in Lexington, Mo., in 1852, just when the civil war was waxing hot, Edwin Milton Royle, the author of "The Squaw-Man", which comes to the Eugene Theatre on Tuesday, January 31, is looked upon essentially as a Salt Lake City man. His father and mother moved to Salt Lake City in the early '70's and the potential playwright's boyhood days were spent in and about that city. He was educated at the Collegiate Institute, Salt Lake; took a complete course at Princeton, and a post-graduate course at Edinburgh University. He began to study law at Columbia College in order that he might follow in his father's footsteps, but the allurements of the stage followed and were too many for him, so at the age of 20 he joined Edwin Booth's company. Later he became a member of Alexander Salvini's company, and there he met Miss Sallina Potter, a young woman of Louisville, just beginning to gain recognition as an actress, and who is now Mrs. Royle.

Fourteen years ago the Home Dramatic Company made of production of Mr. Royle's first play, "Friends," and both the author and his wife took the principal parts in the performance. The play became a success almost at once, and is even now a popular vehicle in the stock houses throughout the country. He also wrote "Mexico," though this was not quite so successful. Then the temptations of vaudeville assailed Mr. and Mrs. Royle, and they played in these theatres for two years with a number of sketches written by Mr. Royle himself. Three years or so ago "My Wife's Husband" as presented in New York and was pronounced a success. Nat C. Goodwin secured the rights to it, but owing to a breach of contract, litigation was involved and the play was thrown into the courts. Then came "The Squaw Man" and at present Mr. Royle has other plays in the course of construction.

"Mrs. Pauline Miller-Chapman, vocalist, was given a most hearty and enthusiastic reception at the Harris Tuesday evening by an audience which came to listen to her interpretation of an exceedingly difficult program.

"It was Mrs. Chapman's first appearance before an American audience since her return from a foreign concert tour.

Mrs. Chapman's selections were largely from Donizetti, Franz, Schumann and Von Weber. It was probably in the simple Scotch song, "My Ain Folk" by Lemon, that she best pleased the audience, in which the depth and richness of her voice were shown to the best advantage. The "piece de resistance", however, was the air "Oh Mio Fernando" from the opera "La Favorita."

"Mrs. Chapman sang with rare effect "Oh Mio Fernando" from "La Favorita" followed by four simple songs and ballads. "When Love Is Kind" (English), "My Ain Folk," (Scotch), "The Little Irish Girl" and "Beloved It Is Morn," the latter by Asylward. Each selection was heartily applauded."—Washington D. C. News.

Mrs. Miller-Chapman will appear in concert at the Eugene Theatre Wednesday evening.

HOPE TO FIND FLAW IN HETTING DECISION

San Francisco, Jan. 24.—The decision in the Ehat relative to the overruling of Judge Graham in the Hetting case is still causing considerable comment. There is in fact a tangle as to whether this decision was handed down by the national commission of the National association of Professional leagues, the organization of the minor clubs.

According to the dispatch from Farrell, the decision was handed down by him. If so, he made the decision without recourse to members of the national board of arbitration, including Cal Ewing and Tip O'Neill.

If the commission handed down the verdict it would appear that this final tribunal in baseball law is taking action in a matter that pertains to the minor leagues entirely. If Farrell wrote the decision he should have consulted other members of the national board, on which he can have no more than one vote. Farrell also said that copies of the decision had been mailed to J. Cal Ewing and to D. W. Long, and the arrival of the document will be awaited with considerable interest.

PORTAGE TEAM WILL PLAY HERE MONDAY

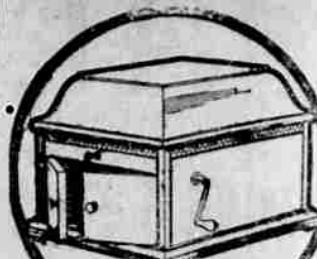

Word was received by the University of Oregon baseball management this morning that the Co. F. team of Portage, Wis., which is making a tour of the coast, will be here Monday to play against the University team that night. This team is considered the champion of the United States, and is winning a great majority of its games on this trip. They played the Pacific University team last night, winning by the same score that Oregon did here Friday night. This puts the two teams on an equal footing, insuring a cracker-jack of a game Monday night.

J. A. C. SHOWS LITTLE ENTHUSIASM

Report from Corvallis indicates that O. A. C. is not as enthusiastic over basketball this year as it has been in other years. Their coach, who was to have arrived from Grinnell, Iowa, some time ago, has not shown up, and it is understood he has given up the position, because of financial reasons. Two of their star players, May and Keck, will probably be barred because of their low standing in their studies. Several of the old men, however, are on hand, one or two of whom, including Bert Burdick, and Captain Ted Reed, are very fast, and will form the nucleus of the new team. It is quite probable, however, that O. A. C. is congratulating itself upon the fact that it does not play the University of Oregon this year. The Corvallis college is getting an early start on baseball, by playing the indoor sport, and may expect to make up their basketball deficiencies in this sport.
