TEN MEASURES WILL GO ON BALLOT

Legislature Puts Several Matters Up to the People of Oregon

Salem, Or. Feb. 21.—While stand-pat members of the legislature were ready at all times to complain of the overburdened ballot, and Senator Jay Bowerman took great glee in referring to the "nine foot ballot," the completed record of the late session shows the legislature has done its share toward loading the ballot for the next election.

No less than six amendments to the constitution have been ordered submitted to the people in 1912. Besides these the legislature gave its approval to re-submission of the woman suffrage question by a formal joint resolution, and it named a committee to frame and submit initiative laws on the subject of taxation, from which it may be expected that two or three bills will emanate. Eight or ten propositions on the ballot in 1912, therefore, will owe their position upon directly to the legislature of 1911.

Most important of the amendments are the three dealing with taxation, one of which repeals the amendment carried at the last election, whereby counties may adopt their own tax systems and experiment, of they choose, with the single tax idea. The other two submit to the people once more what, were known as the grange amendments, defeated last November. These are based upon the Wisconsin law and permit the classification of property for tax purposes, through preserving the requirement that taxation must be equal and uniform.

The legislature thought well of the two bills introduced by Representative Beals, imposing increased taxation upon gifts, legacies and inheritances. The house passed both of them, but they were halted in the senate, where certain features were objected to and would be to let all tax bills, as distinguished from constitutional amendments, be framed by the special legislative committee.

If the Beals bills had been passed, they would still have required submission to popular vote, under the amendment adopted last November. Thinking the Beals measures were defective in some respects, the senate yielded to the argument that they should be defeated, and the special committee given a free hand in framing comprehensive legislation. The only other important measure affecting taxation was the bill imposing a tax of one-half of one per cent on mortgages. As Senator Calkins, one of the strong champions of this bill, is a member of the special committee, this may also find its way to the ballot one year from next November.

Miscellaneous Items for Ballot.

Aside from the three tax amendments ordered submitted, the people are certain to vote on the following has so determined:

Creation of the office of lieutenant governor.
Making stockholders of safe banks liable to depositors for twice the amount subscribed, the same as stockholders of national banks.

Requiring a majority of all votes cast at an election to carry a constitutional amendment. Instead of a majority question at issue.

Although the woman suffrage question will go on the ballot by the initiative, the legislature passed a resolution commending it to the people of the state, and thereby gave formal approval.

In addition to all this, numerous local measures have been passed with a clause providing for the use of the referendum if desired, and several counties will vote on salary increase bills if these bills escape the vote.

In just one respect did the legislature take steps to reduce the length of the ballot. This was by the passage of Senator Wood's bill, providing a manner for voting on county division or annexation by the people directly interested. This plan, if the bill becomes a law, will make the elections on such subjects local, and also probably limit the number as well, for many new county divisions which took a chance on the vote of the state at large will not find encouragement in the localized vote.

The Automobile World Acknowledges That The "White Steamer" Reigns Supreme In the Steam Field Its Simplicity and Ease of Operation Established Facts

EVIDENCE

Mr. George Wilhelm and Mr. E. E. Upmeyer, of Harborsburg, both purchased White Steamers in June, 1910. Neither had driven an automobile before purchasing theirs, and during the following five months each covered in the neighborhood of 4000 miles. During these 8000 miles neither car experienced a blow-out or change of tire. One broken spring covered the repairs, and neither has seen the inside of a repair shop. It might be well to mention that their town has neither garage or mechanic, the nearest being in Eugene, a distance of 18 miles.
