IDLE TEARS

Idle are transient, woes are fleeting, soon they'll all be with the past. It's by tending to his knitting that a man wins out at last. Statesmen kick up fuss and flurry, viewing daily with alarm; not a minute do I worry; I am busy on my farm. I am planting boiled potatoes, boneless beans, and things like those; I am sowing stewed tomatoes, and I haven't time for woes. I am working, striving daily, treating fair my fellow man, and the old world treats me gently, for I do the best I can. Let the statesmen paw and thunder, in their ancient, foolish way, till the welkin's torn asunder—I will do my chores today. If you think that you are toting burdens that you should not bear, you won't get relief by voting—that won't lessen your despair. Read the story of the ages, written through the grinding years, and you'll find the statesman's wages always wet with tollers' tears. When have noisy statesmen aided in the drying of men's eyes? All they've ever done is faded save their promises and lies. He who looks to legislation for a solace when distressed, but invites new aggravation. Plant potatoes—that is best.

—WALT MASON.

MAKING THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

Atlanta, whose municipal housecleaning attracted considerable attention in the newspapers of late, is not the sole city to promote cleanliness in the community. A Massachusetts town, unnamed to fame, has a scheme that stands out as a model of resultfulness and tact.

Mr. Brown, whose front yard left much to be desired, planted a hedge. The lawn still needed attention badly, the rails of the porch were broken badly and the steps tottered. But the hedge seemed to the secretary of the improvement association a praiseworthy start. So he wrote to Brother Brown to this effect:

"The society has noticed with pleasure the new hedge you have planted. It thanks you in the town's behalf for your contribution toward beautifying Bankville."

This courteous recognition of Brown's endeavor rendered it unremittable. The lawn was turfed anew, the steps and rails of the porch made shipshape, and trees planted.

Then Neighbor Jones down the street was stirred into rivalry in good works. Neighbor Smith up the street became ashamed of his broken fence and unkempt lawn. Soon the look of the street changed entirely. From this street the zeal for improvement overspread the town.

A large new pump is soon to be added to the city water plant, and water for irrigation purposes should be plentiful next summer. This fact should insure a more beautiful city than ever before, if the people will take the proper pride in their homes, keeping their lawns green and well trimmed, as well as cutting the unsightly weeds along the streets and parking.

"The Cornucopia," a monthly paper printed at Albany, is the best "booster" publication in the state, according to our opinion. It is full of good reading matter and impartially sets forth the advantages of every section of the valley. Such a paper deserves the support of every community and we should like to see it become a permanent enterprise.

A Georgian one hundred years of age says he expects to live to see Parker president. The heartiest birthday greetings we can think of extending to him is to say that we hope his expectations will be fulfilled.

Madero says Diaz must quit before peace can come to Mexico. It certainly does look that way.

The Oregon prune crop seems to have been little damaged by the frost—and it will bring millions of dollars next fall.

STALLION LICENSE LAW EFFECTIVE MAY 25

Corvallis, Or., April 20.—The new stallion law which was passed by the last session of the legislature will go into effect May 25. The stallion board has been organized and plans for the work are being made, but no licenses will be issued until after May 25. Stallion owners should, however, get in their applications before that date.

It will not be possible to register and have examined all the horses in the state in a day or two, so that some time may intervene between the receipt of the application and the issuance of the license. It is not expected that the owners stop using their horses during that period. But it is expected that no horses will be used after May 25, until an application for license has been made.

Animals having county licenses will also have to get state licenses under the new law, as there is no connection between the state license and that issued by the county. Money paid for county licenses will not count toward securing state licenses. Copies of the law and application blanks may be obtained from the secretary of the board at Corvallis. It is not necessary, however, that the applications be made on the regular blanks. A letter will do as well, providing the necessary information is included. All applications must be accompanied by a $10 fee, and in case of registered horses, by the pedigree certificate. These pedigrees will be returned. For horses not pure-bred the owner must give a complete statement of the horse's breeding.

E. L. POTTER, Sec. Stallion Registration Board.

MONEY BACK

Hyomel Cures Catarrh Without Stomach Dosing, or Money Back
Yes, dear reader, catarrh can be cured; but not by pouring vile, nauseating drugs into the stomach.

And catarrh germs thrive, flourish and multiply in the nose and throat.

Can you kill these tough and persistent little health destroyers by swallowing pills or nostrum? Any physician will tell you it cannot be done.

HYOMEL (pronounced High-ome) is a germ killing vaporized air which, when breathed either through the mouth or nose, will kill catarrh germs and soothe and heal the inflamed and mutilated membrane promptly. It gives relief in two minutes.

NEWS OF CRESWELL AND VICINITY

Miss Ata Mulkey, of Eugene, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Boyd, and family, this week.

E. Boyd, proprietor of the Creswell hotel, reports that 49 of the guests at his house since March 1 have become residents of Creswell. Miss Mae Higbee, of Salem; A. C. Bohmstedt, of Minneapolis, and C. F. Kent were entertained at 6 o'clock dinner Friday at the Teoman home.

W. A. Mitchell has purchased 16 lots in the Bohmstedt addition and will erect a bungalow on the same and move his family here from Tacoma.

Contractor Roy Riggs is erecting a five-room cottage 16x20 with a woodshed 14x10 for Mrs. M. E. Buoy on a lot just west of the Baptist church.

The Eugene and Great Western Land Co. have a crew of men at work setting out a nursery of 100,000 trees on the place they purchased of G. E. Everson.

The desired handstand for the Creswell band seems to be about to materialize. Plans for the same have been drawn by R. E. McDaniel and may be seen at the office of the Orchard Homes Land Co. The cost of the material in the proposed structure will not exceed $75, and it is thought that no difficulty will be experienced in raising this amount. If money enough can be raised to pay for the material, work sufficient to build the stand will be donated.

Arbor day was observed in a fitting manner by the school last Friday afternoon. Each class in the high school and each room of the grades planted some shrub on the school grounds, giving a short program at the planting of each one. After the planting a program was given in the assembly room by the high school, which was much enjoyed by all present. Many patrons of the school attended the exercises. —Chronicle.
