former years, don't fail to see him when he comes to the Eugene Theatre on Friday, September 22 with his latest success, "Jumping Jupiter," for disconcerting critics have said that the elongated comedian was never so funny as in this piece and never appeared in a funnier play. Carle's plays are all constructed for laughing purposes only, and as he writes them himself, stage them himself and acts the star part in them himself he certainly has every opportunity to be as funny as the law allows. Crowds always flock to see Carle, but the papers that only Richard (Himself) Carle can cut, and sing the songs in that placid, quaint style that only Carle can assume. Carle has never been in this vicinity before since he became a star and the public has missed a treat in the tall, bald-headed, bespectacled genius who has a talent for amusing in a way strictly his own, so there can be little doubt that "Jumping Jupiter" will attract largely.

New Bill at the Aloha. The new week-end vaudeville program opens at the Aloha theatre tonight, when the curtains rise on the first act at 7:15 p. m. This popular playhouse is offering four acts for the week-end, in keeping with the Lane county fair. Murphy's Educated Dunc, who made many friends here during their previous engagement last winter, have been secured as a special added attraction and will appear at each performance with new scenery, etc. in addition to the regular bill. Grace Huntington and A. LeRoy Patterson, who recently completed a tour of the Oregon circuit, will present their clever dramatic sketch, "A Timid Awakening," which made them favorites where they have appeared. Two queer men, A'dean and Caselder, comedy acrobats and gymnasts have fifteen minutes of real fun, with comic stunts as well as exhibiting a feat extraordinary feat of agility. A clever team, William Brewer and Florence Bell will appear in "A Daughter of Eve," a clever sketch full of bright, clean comedy situations that are sure to please. Two reels of photoplays will also be shown, with a comedy "How Auntie Was Fossil" as the feature, which, with music by the Aloha's six-piece orchestra, makes up one and one-half hours' entertainment of real fun.
