EUGENE DRUM CORPS PROVES ITS LOYALTY TO HOME COMMUNITY

Boys Decide to Forego Eagerly Anticipated Ashland Trip to Assist in Big Celebration at Eugene.

The Radiators' drum corps will be one of the attractions of Eugene's Fourth of July celebration. This was settled when the managers, Carl Washburne and Bert Pennington telegraphed the management of the Ashland Roundup Wednesday that the trip to that place planned for July 3, 4 and 5 had been cancelled. The drum corps had planned for a big time on that trip. They intended to make a side trip to Crater Lake, and drink of the mineral waters in Ashland's Lithia park, as well as take in the three days' celebration and roundup. They decided, however, that inasmuch as Eugene will hold a big patriotic celebration it would not be right for them to leave the city on that day. The managers stated Wednesday morning that the boys had been most enthusiastic over the proposed trip and were eager to go, but decided that every effort should be made to make this the greatest celebration in the history of Eugene, and that they should "do their bit" by staying at home and furnishing inspiring martial music for the occasion. They believed this to be especially true because of the hearty and generous support accorded them by the people of Eugene in the past. Another trip will be arranged later to take the place of the Ashland trip if dates can be arranged. The drum corps will drill every Wednesday night under the direction of Wayne Hurd, from now until July 4, so that they will be in shape to make a good appearance.
