

E. D. MATLOCK DIES AT PORTLAND FROM ACCIDENT INJURY

Broken Back Proves Fatal After Fourteen Days; Funeral to Be Held Tuesday.

E. D. Matlock, of Eugene, who sustained a broken back which resulted in total paralysis, in an automobile accident on New Era hill two weeks ago, died at Good Samaritan hospital in Portland Sunday morning. Mr. Matlock had shown signs of improvement a few days prior to his death, but Thursday his condition changed for the worse.

The remains will be brought to Eugene this Monday afternoon and the funeral held Tuesday, with interment in Odd Fellows cemetery.

Mr. Matlock was the son of J. D. Matlock, former mayor of Eugene, and had been in the mercantile business here for the past 18 years. He was a man highly esteemed among the people of Eugene, as was evidenced by the many inquiries as to his condition made daily since the accident.

He was about 45 years of age at the time of his death.

Mr. Matlock is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie M. Matlock, a son, Earl Matlock, two brothers, Caswell and Eugene, both of this city, also three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Ponderbush, of San Francisco, Mrs. Bertha Emons of Salem and Mrs. Lily Jerger, of Portland.

The automobile accident which caused Mr. Matlock's death occurred at New Era Sunday evening, August 5, and caused the instant death of Miss Ollie Marquies, sister of Mrs. E. D. Matlock, and injured Mrs. Matlock, her mother and two brothers who were in the car when it went over a grade.

all around the front which swings about Lens in semi-circular form.

The eastern exits of the city are now subjected to a constant and harassing fire of the artillery and machine guns. This makes difficult the bringing up of provisions and ammunition.

At 2 o'clock this morning a trench raid on the enemy's front northwest of Avion resulted in heavy fighting in which a considerable number of the enemy were killed in hand to hand fighting.

RAID GERMAN BASES.

(By The Associated Press)

London, Aug. 20.—German military establishments in Belgium which have been attacked repeatedly by British airplanes were again raided Saturday night, the admiralty announces. The statement follows:

"Many tons of bombs were dropped on the night of August 18-19 by the naval air service on the following military objectives:

"St. Pierre station and sidings at Ghent; Thorout station and dump; Bruges docks.

"A raid was also carried out yesterday morning on the Seelghem airfield where a direct hit was made.

"On their return our machines were attacked by hostile aircraft which were beaten off with the aid of a royal flying corps patrol. One enemy machine was shot down. All ours returned safely."

BELGIANS ISSUE REPORT.

Paris, Aug. 19.—The Belgian official communication as issued through the French war office tonight, reads:

"On the night of the 17th and 18th our patrol combated the advance elements on the left bank of the Yser and Saint Jacques Capelle. Yesterday and today the artillery executed destructive fire on the enemy batteries and neutralized several others.

"The aviation service showed great activity last week despite the continual barrage of the enemy, operating in dense formations. We executed numerous missions above the enemy lines. On the 10th Sub-Lieutenant Thierry brought down his seventh German machine."

GERMANS ARE REPULSED

London, Aug. 20.—A German counter attack on the positions captured by the British yesterday morning southeast of Epehy was completely repulsed after sharp fighting, according to an official statement issued today by the war office. A successful raid was carried out last night south of Lens. On the Ypres battlefield the British line has been advanced slightly southeast of St. Jena-book.

EGGS WILL BE HIGH HERE THIS WINTER

Poultry Raisers Who Sell Hens Making Mistake of Lives, Says E. J. McClanahan.

Because of high price of feed small flocks of poultry in the state are being reduced at an alarming rate, according to E. J. McClanahan, president of the Oregon State Poultry Breeders' association. He asserts that many of the people in the cities are disposing of all their chickens, and that poultry raisers who had 180 chickens last winter will average but 100 chickens, during the coming winter, according to present indications.

"As a result of the reduction in the number of laying hens," says Mr. McClanahan, "the people of Oregon will pay from 60 to 75 cents per dozen and possibly higher prices for eggs during the coming winter, as compared with 40 cents last winter."

"The poultry raisers are making the mistake of their lives when they sell their hens at 14 cents a pound. My advice is that they keep all hens. They will make big money before Spring and at the same time perform a patriotic service by helping keep down the cost of living."

Mr. McClanahan says corn is one of the best feeds for chickens, and with prospects of the greatest corn crop in the history of the nation it is not improbable that poultrymen in this state will get together and ship in corn during the coming winter, providing as cheap feed as possible.

ed to be necessary to prevent the destruction of property and the hampering of industry," said Major Wilkins. "The arrests were made after I had held a conference with Mr. Blaine, representing the governor."

No Resistance Is Offered.

None of the men offered any resistance and the matter caused little excitement. The prisoners were lined up, in double column, between files of the guardsmen, with fixed bayonets, and marched half a mile to the jail. Here they were searched and their names were taken, and they were placed in cells on an upper floor of the building.

The soldiers, with their guns slanting over their shoulders and the prisoners in their midst, moved so rapidly that there was little opportunity for a crowd to gather.

Word Sent to Haywood.

By the time the column had reached the Monroe street bridge, however, a dozen automobiles and 100 persons on foot were hurrying along after them. From the sidewalk, a sympathizer shouted to one of the prisoners:

"Moran, I've sent a telegram to Haywood."

"No talking to the men in the ranks," came the sharp command from Captain Jeter.

Later the man who shouted from the sidewalk was arrested outside the jail. He gave his name as Jerome Baker. At the Main avenue hall, two men, who insisted on mounting the stairs after the soldiers had been placed on guard, were arrested.

NO STRIKE AT SEATTLE.

Seattle, Aug. 20.—No Industrial Workers of the World construction workers in the vicinity of Seattle are on strike this morning, so far as can be learned. The recent release of a large number of members of the organization held in Ellensburg and other central Washington jails has brought a decision at local headquarters not to call strike, and the arrest of the leaders in the Spokane district yesterday has not changed this decision.

It was announced from local headquarters that there would be a referendum vote on a construction workers' strike, though plans for it have not yet matured.

NO EFFECT IN OREGON

Portland, Or., Aug. 20.—So far as early reports from over the state indicated there was no interruption to industry in Oregon as a result of the I. W. W. strike scheduled to go into effect this morning. Federal, state and local officials declared themselves prepared for eventualities. Special deputies attached to sheriff's offices in the threatened districts were on duty, and it was planned to make prompt arrests of leaders in any disturbances. At I. W. W. headquarters here there was no untoward activity, and leaders in the organization said they anticipated no general movement by their men at this time.

fine gardens up Cottage Grove way.

He states that shortage of water has caused much loss and that the good dens he saw were those where judicious use of water is combined with good cultivation. M. S. Currier, of Cottage Grove, is proving what intensive gardening can do.

Mr. Currier has a piece of land by 222 feet in size, including that which his house and chicken house occupied. From this place, he has not failed Mr. Currier would have over $500 worth of produce this year.

Mr. Currier was for 15 years a true gardener in Los Angeles and an expert double cropping and irrigation. Mr. Currier plants early potatoes and after taking them off, puts beans, carrots, beets or cabbage. Between his cabbage plants he transplants a head of lettuce.

He plants five rows in a hill, 12 inches apart in two rows a foot apart, then leaves 12 inches and plants two more rows. The two close rows as they grow are pulled together into one.

A. T. Gobler, of Saginaw, is another believer in double cropping and irrigation. He plants his tomatoes between the rows of his sweet corn, believing that the corn protects them from the frost. He also sets kale plants between the rows of corn, for late fall and winter growth. He says that with irrigation and inter-cropping and double cropping a small acre may be made to bring satisfactory returns.
