

WAR'S SUPREME TEST IS GIVING ANSWER TO YOUTH MALIGNERS

The Spirit of '76 and '61 Is Just as Strong in American Young Men Says Secretary Daniels of Navy.

Secretary Daniels in an address at the Southern Society banquet in New York, December 12, said in part:

A few months ago there was a prevalent notion that American manhood had become soft and was dominated by materialism. We saw the young man immersed in business and pleasure, and we asked ourselves, "Is the youth of our day made of the same stuff as the men of '76 and of the sixties?" There were many voices telling us of moral feebleness, physical untidiness, and spiritual death. They said the only motto of today with American young men is "Get rich and have a good time." And there was a measure of truth in this diagnosis, but the grim business of war has already taught us that we had accepted the life of the few as typical when it was the exception. Perhaps we would have always accepted this unfavorable view of the youth of our day, and thus wronged them, if there had not come a time of testing. But the time came to measure manhood. Is it soft or is it hard? Is it of the stern stuff that gave us Nathan Hale and Paul Revere? Or is it debilitated Americanism that lacks virility and readiness to die for principle?

War Has Brought Answer.

War has given the answer. The accepted misconception of the youth of today has been removed amid the perils of the deep and in the liquid fire of the trenches, where American youths have freely given their lives. American valor in 1917 is seen as well in the cantonments and training stations and on the ships where a million men are undergoing the rigorous training to fit them to do the big task they will accomplish. Our sorrow over our earliest sacrifices in this war is assuaged by our pride that America possesses 10,000,000 valorous and chivalrous young men and more, ready to fight until the world is freed of the monster of Military Autocracy which knows no law except:

"Let him take who has the power
And let him keep who can."
Not a War of Hate.

We have entered in to this war with no passion, no envy, no prejudices, no desire for anything that belongs to any other man or nation. No shibboleth of hate, or semblance of it, has been raised. When our ships have been ruthlessly sunk and women and children have been murdered, we have highly resolved to make the sea safe and never to rest until crimes are made impotent to repeat them but in all America there is no flame of rage, no passion for vengeance, no hatred of the people of Germany, who have been made the instruments of the bestial warfare. We have looked beyond the men under the sea, whose piratical acts shocked civilization, and we have seen that they were the pawns and agents of a Juggernaut which compelled them to commit murder or to themselves face the death squadron.

A long imposed autocratic imperialism has made German soldiers efficient vessels of vengeance. Now and then, as when certain sailors threw their captains overboard in the vain attempt to save their souls from undesired slaughter of children, there has been an attempt to revolt against the most highly organized internal tyranny the ingenuity of subsidized service could impose. But ingrained submission, trained skill in the use of weapons of war, and the certainty of cruel destruction by even the whisper of protest to the enforced barbarism, have made the Kaiser's war machine a potent thing of evil. We have seen this monster destroy small states, ravage peaceful territories, and seek to invite the whole world to sedition and murder. But, deep as is our determination that the world shall never be dominated by force, it is the glory of America that its voice is the voice of resolution and justice, and not of hate and vengeance.

May we not hope, should we not pray, that no matter how great the provocation, the American people will ever keep out of their minds and out of their hearts any passion of hate toward those who war against the world's justice and the world's peace and the world's civilization?

Mind you, I counsel no smooth words in describing the murderous deeds conceived by the German autocrats. I favor no quarter for the men responsible for the world's war, though as to them our attitude should not be one of hatred.

America Pledged to Stay.

We shall stay in this war until Germany shall see its war lords deposed, and we shall live to see that capable people freed from the master of militarism that has made every home a house of mourning. To this accomplishment, because until it is accomplished no people can be safe under their own vine and fig tree, America has pledged its sacred honor, and to the pledge every man and every resource and every dollar are dedicated.

SPRINGFIELD NEWS

Buy War Certificates for Christmas Presents.

By buying War Savings Certificates the American people will contribute to their own success in war far more than the amount they lend to the government. Every economy they practice in order to save money for this purpose will be a double benefit.

By saving food they both save money to buy certificates, and they add to the supply of food which will make good the shortage of our allies.

By avoiding luxury they not only save money to help win the war, but they save labor and material which may be used in producing necessary war material.

In both cases by reducing the demand for commodities of which they reduce consumption, they hold in check the rise in prices and thus increase their savings. They also reduce the cost of the war, and, consequently, the sum which the government must borrow.

AMUSEMENTS

Civil War Veteran Dies at His Home in Eugene

John Disher died at his home, 557 Sixteenth avenue west in this city, Thursday at the age of 85 years, after a long illness.

Mr. Disher was a well known veteran of the Civil war and a member of the local post of the G. A. R. He was also a member of the Methodist church. He had lived in Eugene for 25 years.

The funeral will be held at the Gordon and Veatch chapel Saturday at 2 p. m., with interment in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. Rev. G. H. Parkinson will have charge of the service.

"When 'The Whip' was first shown privately in New York City to a little group of leading film men, the verdict was unanimous that here was a wonderful picture.

"It has everything that a motion picture should have," said one man, "and none of the things that a motion picture should not have. It has snap, dash, fire, romance, youth, thrills, excitement, big scenes and splendid actors. It is staged on a lavish scale. It has been superbly directed and the photography is perfect. This is a wonderful production."

This opinion is being echoed by the hundreds of thousands of people in all parts of the country who are seeing this memorable production. They are being immensely entertained by the consistently intense and wholly pleasing story; they are being amazed by the magnitude and immensity of the big scenes; they are being thrilled by the exciting train wreck and the automobile wreck and the exciting horse race at Saratoga, and they are leaving the theatres after seeing "The Whip," declaring that it is the biggest motion picture in the world.

The people of this city will have the opportunity of adding their chorus of approval to the general verdict of all people who like a good entertainment, for "The Whip" is coming here. This supreme offering of filmdom will be the attraction at the Eugene theatre on December 21-22.

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE

Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples

A headache remedy without the dangers of "headache medicine." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts at once! Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can it affect stomach and heart, as some internal medicines do.

Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (if often prevents pneumonia).
