GUARDS ARE PLACED ON PORTLAND WAR WORK

All Persons Without Business to Transact Ordered to Keep Away From Plants.

Portland, Or., Jan. 19.—Guards in charge of uniformed police officers today began duty at all docks, warehouses, shipping plants and other war work industries, with orders to keep all persons away who have no business to transact at these places. A warning to the public to keep away from these establishments under penalty of arrest was issued this morning by Major Baker.

A conference between city and federal officials yesterday resulted in the patrol arrangement. The reason was not made public, but Baker states the conference disclosed a good and sufficient reason, which he cannot give out.

DESERTER TO SPEND TEN YEARS IN PRISON

Private Charles S. McDonald, Who Flew From Camp Lewis, Is Sentenced.

Camp Lewis, Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 19.—The first clear-cut case of desertion since the establishment of this camp was disposed of today by the military authorities when Private Charles S. McDonald of the 150th depot brigade was sentenced to ten years at hard labor at the United States military prison on Alcatraz Island. The findings of the courtmartial were approved by Brigadier General Frederick S. Foltz, commanding the 91st division.

McDonald left camp on Nov. 10 last, going to San Francisco and thence to Alaska. He was arrested in Seattle on his return while preparing to sail for Japan.

California Woman Exonerated of Connection With Spy Plot

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 19.—Following close questioning of "Mrs. Nagel," whose name was signed to letters found in the possession of Count Franz von Schlebrugg, held as an alleged spy, federal authorities today completely exonerated the woman. They said they believed she was acting in good faith when she furnished Schlebrugg with money for a supposed business project.

LIEUTENANT WINS MAN'S CONFIDENCE

Cunning of Veteran Soldier in Outwitting Germans Makes Him Hero of His Soldiers.

BY J. W. PEGLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
American Field Headquarters, France,
Dec. 16.—(By Mail).—"I follow Mr. Short anywhere."

A young, slightly built Sammy paid this tribute to his lieutenant within a few hours after his arrival back from the trenches. He was sitting on a mile post at the roadside, before the barn where he sleeps, oiling the rifle that he carried in night patrol into No Man's Land with Mr. Short.

The lieutenant himself was making an informal inspection of his men—an inspection that seemed more like a friendly visit. As he passed on down the muddy lane, the soldier let his eyes wander after him admiringly.

"Mr. Short discovered that the barbed wire in front of our sector had been cut during the night," said the youngster. I supposed he would send for the engineers to come up the next evening and put new wires in the hole. But the lieutenant was a wise man—he said 'no.' "All day we lay in the dugouts with our shoes and socks and breeches soaked and no dry clothes to put on. Another bunch stood watch in the little ditch of a front line, keeping their heads down and ready with their rifles and a machine gun in case the old Boche would come over.

"At 5 o'clock in the evening Mr. Short woke us up. We had a cup of scalding coffee and started up the communication trench. It was raining and snowing, and the water in the communication trench was up to your ankles over the duckboards.

"It got dark early and the snow was so thick in the air you couldn't see the wire from the front trench.

"Mr. Short stopped us in the front line and explained what we were going to do. He had it figured out that the enemy cut those wires last night so he could make a raid tonight. And if he didn't intend to raid, he would certainly expect our engineers to be out fixing the hole—and would pot 'em.

"Our job was to crawl out under the wire on both sides of the hole. Mr. Short went out first and placed every man in position. We waited five hours. Then we saw a figure about 15 yards away. I asked him to let me shoot. He said 'no,' and went at that object himself.

"And what do you think it was? Just an old post. We had all been staring at it so long that we were sure we saw it creeping. Well, the enemy potted away at the hole in five-minute spells almost all night, and didn't hit a single American. Mr. Short simply outguessed him. And when there was a chance for someone to get hurt, he took the chance himself rather than give away our position by having me fire."

Mr. Short, be it known, is an old "top sergeant."

"They didn't get me in the Philippines and they won't get me in France," he said to his command.

The Sammy finished cleaning the gun and gave the bolt a concluding snap.

"A good gun is like a good watch," he remarked reflectively. "Treat it right and it's always on the job. I know something about both. I worked two years in the Waltham watch factory and six months in the Remington arms plant."

Help "Your" Railroads by Reducing "Truck" Hauling

"With control of the railroads of the country taken over by President Wilson, it becomes more imperative than ever that the people of the United States break all war garden planting records," said Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the national emergency food garden commission, today. "Every war garden planted means just that much of the food transportation problem lifted from the back of the railroads," continued Mr. Pack.

"We must each give Mr. McAdoo all possible co-operation for the roads are for the time being 'your' roads, and in raising as much food as possible for the kitchen door, you are helping yourselves just that much. A township survey of available garden land is now being made in many states. Through the activities of the General Federation of Women's clubs, the National League for Women's Service, and similar organizations co-operating with the commission, steps are being taken to see that there is some one to plant every available space. What is your town doing?"

"Universities throughout the country are planning food conservation campaigns for their thousands of students. At the University of Minnesota, for example, there will be an extensive campaign under Dean Alfred Owre, chairman of the economy campaign committee. Professor A. V. Storm will direct the work for the agricultural campus. Organize your community garden campaign now, thus help to help 'your' railroads and help to feed yourself in this crisis which confronts 'your' country." Write to the commission and get a war garden primer."

The local branch of the Red Cross at Pullman, Wash., realized the sum of $825 from the sale of farm products. Included among the articles were a number of pigs, a calf, chickens, ducks, apples, potatoes, canned fruit and vegetables.

CZERNIUN WILL REPLY TO WILSON'S ADDRESS

Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister Says Territory Nor Indemnities Not Wanted.

Berne, Jan. 19.—Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, is shortly to make formal reply to President Wilson's outline of the allies' war aims, according to word reaching here today. Czernin was quoted in an interview reaching here as asserting:

"It will not be the annexationists' views which will end the Brest-Litovsk meetings. For our part we wish to maintain friendly relations. We do not want territory nor indemnities."

Cities of East

Rulings regarding the provisions of the order are made for the most part at the national headquarters, but the state fuel administrators, working through county officials, have the more important work of diverting all such fuel as arrives in their communities to essential needs in the order of preference, stated in the order.

SITUATION IMPROVES.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The transportation and fuel situation in Chicago and the middle west improved slightly in the first 24 hours of Fuel Administrator Garfield's conservation order, railroad and coal company officials reported today.

Railroad traffic, which has been prostrated by the excessive demands upon it during the last eight months, was able to throw off some of the old burdens, under relief from new ones, officials declared. Congested freight was being cleared as rapidly as possible. The greater part of the tremendous amount of freight moved was coal. Several thousand cars were unloaded. The fuel was being rushed to consumers in the order specified by the fuel administration's order.

While there were a score of violations of the order, only one—a small tailor shop—was wilful. The others resulted from misinterpretation of the rules. The tailor shop was quickly whipped into line by federal authorities.

than at any time since the order was promulgated.

MORE EXEMPTIONS MADE

Washington, Jan. 19.—All sawmills working on ship contracts were added today to the increasing list of exemptions under the Garfield industrial suspension order.

The fuel administration made this exemption at the request of the shipping board.

An order permitting theatres and other amusements to operate on Mondays and close on some other day next week is expected soon. Numerous protests have been made to the fuel administration against closing these on days when millions of workers will be idle. The belief is growing that they must be given legitimate recreation on the workless Mondays. The fuel administration has not yet determined the status of laundries on the Monday holidays, though they are being permitted to operate during the five-day period.

Catarrh of Stomach

Mrs. Mary Fennell, R. F. D., Pomona, Missouri, writes: "I wish to say a few words in the praise of Peruna. I have used it with good results for cramps in the stomach. Also found it the very thing for catarrh of the head. My sister was cured of catarrh of stomach by the use of Peruna."

Mrs. E. T. Chomer, 69 East 42nd St., Chicago, Ill., says: "Manalin best laxative on the market for liver and bowels, very good for indigestion and heart burn. Those who object to liquid medicines can secure Peruna tablets."
