Grand Spring Opening

STUNNING VARIATIONS OF THE NEW SLENDER SILHOUETTE.

This is our Grand Spring Opening showing newest coats and suits for the woman who wants something that is correct but individual. All are slender in effect but with smart differences in the details.

You can be especially sure of finding this individuality in our showing of exclusive models. Note carefully the prices and youthfulness of the designs shown here. We believe that nowhere else can you find such a happy combination of youthful style, quality fabrics and reasonable prices as in our Coats and Suits.

Slenderness is the sought-for effect — close fitting sleeves and narrow shoulders — emphasis on long lines — simple but rich colors — these are the important tendencies in Spring Styles. The wanted fabrics are tricotine, poret twills, serges, dovet-de-laine velours, etc.

We are the exclusive agents for the famous Wootex; they are made of all wool fabrics.

It is our pleasure to offer you a wide choice of these exceptional style and service values.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF EUGENE IS DEAD

William H. Gossler Passes Away at the Home of His Daughter in This City.

William G. Gossler, father of Mrs. Frank B. Goodpasture and Mrs. C. A. Wintermeier, died at the home of the latter in Eugene Wednesday, March 20, 1918. Mr. Gossler had been ill for some time. The body is at the Gordon and Veatch chapel and funeral arrangements await the arrival of a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Curtis, of Cherokee, Iowa. The interment will be in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

A TRIBUTE

The time comes to all of us when those we loved, quietly pass through that curtain of twilight we call death. We who are left behind and in life called him father and friend take pleasure in listening to the memories he left behind. And when on the 20th day of March, 1918, the spirit of William H. Gossler was called by its Maker from its material abode, and all that was mortal was laid to rest by true and loving hands, to some it may appear that he has gone forever, but to those who knew him his memory will ever be a living thing.

Mr. Gossler was born at Sunbury, Penn., in 1834. On August 21, 1868, at Lower Augusta, Penn., he married Charlotte Weaver. In the early part of their married life they moved to southeastern Iowa, which at that time was a wilderness. But there came to him now and then a few words of a wonderful country on the Pacific coast. The wonderful possibilities of the Oregon soil and climate found a responsive cord in him, and from that time to his dying day there has never been a more ardent lover of the magnificent Willamette valley. In 1892 he began to prepare for the journey to the Pacific coast, and in the spring of 1898 he started for that country that he loved. And yet, his journey was one of sorrow, for just prior to his departure he lost that true companion whom he hoped to win back to health in this new wonderful country. Mrs. Gossler died on the 22nd day of February, 1893, and her body is laid at rest at Ida Grove, Iowa.

Upon his arrival at Eugene, Or., he purchased a farm. This farm he sold in 1900 and after investing in Springfield and Eugene property he retired from active work. Since 1904 he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. C. A. Wintermeier.

Mr. Gossler started in life without a dollar, but by his fine business qualifications made a success of every enterprise in which he was engaged in.

He loved his wife with a love that is seldom surpassed and his constancy to her memory was characteristic of his love for her, when living and after her death he lived for his children, and no thought that would in any manner reflect upon the welfare of his children ever found itself in his mind.

Mr. Gossler professed the Christian religion and was a life-long member of the Methodist church. He died as he had lived, loving and loved by his children and cheered by their presence at his bedside and trusting in the saving power of Christ he peacefully laid down his tired body and went to rest beside his youngest son, William H. Gossler, Jr.

The funeral services will be conducted at the Gordon and Veatch chapel upon the arrival of Mrs. Curtis from Iowa, by Rev. J. T. Abbott, of Portland, and Rev. George H. Parkinson, of this city.

He leaves to mourn his loss the following children: Nelson B., Philip M., Emory W., Mrs. B. F. Goodpasture and Mrs. C. A. Wintermeier, all who live in and near Eugene; Mrs. D. P. Day, of Bellingham, Wash., and Mrs. M. H. Curtis, of Cherokee, Iowa. Besides the sons and daughters he leaves 23 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He will be laid to rest in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

AMUSEMENTS

ENGLISH OPERA COMING

The Boston English Opera company, which by its excellent work during its four months run in Chicago, has become the talk of the musical world, comes to the Eugene Theatre, Wednesday, March 27.

In spite of the many attempts during recent years, it remained for this organization to prove that opera could be presented by a capable company, and performances of the standard operas given in so creditable a manner as to leave little to be desired. It has shown that proper business arrangement, combined with the art of knowing how, can give the public real performances of opera at prices they can afford.

With such artists as Joseph F. Sheehan, John W. Warren, Hazel Eden, Florentine St. Clair, Elaine De Sellem, Alice May Carley, Arthur Deane, Francis J. Tyler, W. R. Northway and many others, there can be no doubt as to the excellence of the performance, particularly when augmented by a chorus such as one seldom hears nowadays, it is not surprising that the advent of this organization in the west has proved just as welcome, and is the talk of theatrical circles here, as it was in the east, during its four months season in Chicago.

The press and public of San Francisco endorsed the verdict of the east and proclaimed the Boston English Opera company America's finest singing organization.

The Compensating Effect.

Since May, 1917, our customers have subscribed and paid for more than $40,000 worth of Liberty Loan Bonds. This amount has been taken from their accumulated savings and from their current earnings. Since May, 1917

OUR DEPOSITS HAVE INCREASED $26,814.05.

Our Total Resources Are Now $469,373.98.

What is the explanation? At last the people are practising thrift and economy. We are doing without non-essentials. We have come to the realization that we can't "eat our pie and have it too." By cutting out non-essentials we will be able to buy our proper quota of Liberty Bonds and meet necessary living expenses. Keep up the good work.

Montana Judge's Knowledge of U-Boats Causes Suspicion

Helena, Mont., March 21.—That former District Judge Charles L. Crum of Forsythe, was possessed of unusual knowledge of the German submarine campaigns—announcing lists of ships several days before they appeared in the press despatches—was testimony produced at today's session of the impeachment charges against Crum, being conducted by the Montana state senate.

Efforts are also being made by the senate to indicate Governor Sam V. Stewart broke faith with Crum, the allegation being that Stewart agreed to terminate the impeachment proceedings against Crum's resignation as district judge. Stewart denies entering into such an agreement.

Crum tendered his resignation, but this was not followed by a dismissal of the proceedings. The trial is based on allegations that Crum was a German sympathizer and charged malfeasance in office.

reading, but which make corking picture plays. "A Man's Man" is no exception. It has been adroitly adapted to the screen by Tom Geraghty.

The story carries one to South America, where a one-cylinder republic demands the attention of a Yankee like Kerrigan. He gets mixed up in any number of fights, and shows himself a scrapper. Indeed, the first thing in which it appears a man should qualify nowadays for screen work is a course in athletics. Mr. Kerrigan knows how to fight in more picturesque ways than even Douglas Fairbanks, and he has something of that gentleman's cheery insouciance while doing it.

But most of all, "Jack" Kerrigan has at last an opportunity to prove himself the actor he really is, virile, forceful, yet conveying a fine sense of the dramatic. We shall look forward to great things from Mr. Kerrigan. Lois Wilson is the charming heroine, daughter of the president of the South American country.

The story is full of strong situations, amazing climaxes, real originality of plot. In fact, no fan can afford to miss it. It is told with wonderful clearness, and the photography demands a paragraph all to itself.

The cast is an excellent one, and includes Kenneth Harlan, Ed Coxen, Ida Lewis (who does some really wonderful work as "Mother Jenks"), Harry von Meter, Eugene Pallette, Ernest Pasque, Arthur Allardt, Joseph J. Dowling, John Stepping and Wallace Worsley. To be seen at the Eugene theatre Friday and Saturday, March 22-23.

Illinois Man Is Convicted of Small Child's Murder

Urbana, Ill., March 21.—Walter Robbins was found guilty today of the murder of 14-months-old Wilfred Chesley and sentenced to 80 years in Chester penitentiary. Mrs. Goldie Chesley, mother of the child, whose testimony convicted Robbins, now goes on trial for the same murder.

Evidence presented to the jury showed
