Boy Who Was on Tuscania Sends Picture of Big Boat

Edward J. Burge, a member of company F, Sixth battalion, Twentieth Engineers, writes to Henry Stewart, of this city, telling him a little of the sinking of the Tuscania, on which he was a passenger, and sending him a souvenir picture of the big boat as she looked at anchor. The letter, which was written from Morn Hill camp, Winchester, England, March 4, and received today, follows: "Friend Henry—Thought I would drop you a few lines and a picture of the Tuscania, the ship we were on when it was torpedoed. We surely had some experience. Most of the boys had to swim. We lost 37 men out of our company. "I think all the boys from Eugene were saved, but don't know for sure yet. We were surely treated fine everywhere we went. "This climate is about the same as Oregon. It rains every few days and keeps everything green. "We have three football teams in the Sixth battalion. Dale Mumma plays on the company D team, and I am on company F team. They beat us six to nothing last week. It surely was a good game for scrub teams. "I read an Oregon Journal today. It was dated January 4 and is the first I have seen since I came across. "How is everything around Eugene? About the same as usual I expect."

Babb in English Hospital Suffering With Scarlet Fever

Mrs. L. B. Young, of Santa Clara, has received a letter from her son, Sergeant Avon Babb, who is with the 22nd Aero Squadron, stating that he is under scarlet fever quarantine in England. He expected to have been in France by the time he wrote, but was detained by the quarantine. "TO HAVE EASTER SERMON Easter sermons for both morning and evening services are announced for Sunday at the Trinity Lutheran church. "It Sure Does the Work." Changeable weather and wet feet make March a dangerous month for coughs, cold, croup and whooping cough. Be prepared to get prompt relief. Don't let a cold run into serious sickness. Mrs. W. H. Thornton, 3523 W. 10th St., Little Rock, Ark., writes: "My little boy had a severe attack of croup and I honestly believe he would have died if it had not been for Foley's Honey and Tar. Two doses relieved him. I would not be without it at any price." Sold everywhere.—Adv.

HUN WARRIORS ARE STOPPED IN TITANIC BATTLE

gin as soon as Hindenburg's battered hosts can be relieved and guns brought up, however, cannot be doubted. The situation was not materially changed throughout the British line this morning, while the Germans, like frightened moles, their passage over land checked, were digging in like mad in places.

About midnight the enemy put down a heavy trench mortar bombardment south west of Cite St. Auguste, near Lens. (Cite St. Auguste is about a mile due north of Lens, near Hill 70, and about the same distance east and south of Loos).

When a hostile party tried to approach the British lines the British waited until the Germans were fairly close and then turned loose the machine guns, scattering the enemy like magic.

Southeast of Amiens, on the high ground between the Luce and Avre rivers, the Germans succeeded in taking some territory in the neighborhood of Mezieres and Maison-Blanche, which they held in force against a British counter attack, though the British brought back prisoners from under the very noses of the enemy's machine guns. At Rouex, a party of British which held out long after being cut off, was dazlingly withdrawn at sunset.

With the British Armies in France, March 29.—In the last 48 hours I believe Hindenburg's cohorts have been fought practically to a standstill.

Carefully sifted information from widely different sources convinces me that the German war lord's battle plans have signally miscarried.

The present spasmodic thrusts are due partly to re-composition of the enemy's fighting forces and readjustment of its offensive scheme.

From prisoners it is known the Germans expected to occupy Amiens on the fifth or sixth day of the offensive, cutting the Calais-Paris railway. Yet Amiens still stands.

Similarly, Arras, which was yesterday's immediate object with Vimy, remains in the hands of the British. The Kaiser's storm troops were checked by the withering fire from machine guns and artillery.

Further cyclonic fighting is expected along the whole line. The first flush of the enemy's enthusiasm has passed. Prisoners say the offensive is not going as well as was expected. While their losses are high, German discipline will undoubtedly continue the offensive, though their spirits are much lower than at the start.

About 80 enemy divisions (900,000 men) have already participated. Many of these were badly mauled and are unfit to return to the firing line. Before the tide definitely turns, fresh divisions are being hurried toward the battle, while the enemy, though tired, is trying to advance everywhere possible, particularly south of the Somme, in an effort to reach the Amiens-Paris railway.

Against the British alone 41 divisions were hurled the first day of the battle; 11 more the second; four more the third; nine more the fourth; six more the fifth; six more the seventh; one more the eighth and about five thereafter.

Slowly but surely the enemy is steadily losing headway. On the contrary, Hindenburg was expected to gain momentum as the first strongly entrenched positions were passed. Meantime the enemy's main thrusts are in the southward, where the Germans are trying to drive a wedge between the French and British.

With the French Armies in the Field, March 29.—French bombing planes have dropped 65 tons of explosives on German communication lines and depots during the enemy offensive.

French aviators also bombed troop concentrations both on the fighting line and in reserve.

every combat, constantly pouring machine gun fire into enemy convoys filling the roads from St. Quentin, Ham, Chauny, Neale and Guiscard.

Prisoners assert the German army is accompanied by special "ghoul squads," whose duty it is to strip allied and German dead of all clothing, shoes and equipment, which are extremely scarce in Germany. Some of these ghouls, taken prisoner, admit their surprise at the small numbers of French dead and wounded.

With the American Army in France, March 29.—Secretary Baker revisited general headquarters and spent the entire day there today.

The secretary stepped into a garage and asked the chauffeurs how they were "getting on." None of them recognized him and when he had left, asked who the "inquisitive civilian" was.

Five Americans crawled across No Man's Land last night and rushed a dug-out in which were six Germans. Two of the enemy paused long enough to exchange shots and are believed to have been wounded. The raiders returned to the American trenches unharmed through a German barrage.

Americans on the Toul front, in a silent raid without artillery preparation, took four German prisoners last night.

Artillery action was heavier on this front during the night, the Germans putting down a barrage on the American positions.

BRITISH CAVALRY ENGAGED

London, March 30.—"We were pressed back at Demuin and Mezieres, south of the Somme, but at the latter village we counter-attacked and took a number of prisoners," Field Marshal Haig reported today.

"Only local actions have taken place north of the Somme during the past week."

"Our cavalry has fought with great gallantry, both mounted and dismounted, and has repulsed the enemy with heavy losses in numerous engagements."

"At Demuin the enemy's attempts to recapture the village broke down after sharp fighting throughout the afternoon."

$135,000 Is Offered for Willard-Fulton Contest

New York, March 30.—The Willard-Fulton scrap is slowly settling down to talk of an eastern location. New Haven promoters have offered $135,000 for the privilege of staging the affair there and the offer may be accepted at once, provided the promoters can give assurance that there will be no official interference with a 20-round go. Western cities are still clamoring for a chance to be heard, but Col. J. C. Miller, who holds the signed agreement of the principals, favors the big eastern centers.

Bryan Is Summoned as Witness in Hindu Trial

San Francisco, March 30.—A second subpoena demanding the presence of William Jennings Bryan as a witness in the Hindu revolt trial here, was telegraphed to Chicago today for service. The second subpoena was issued on demand of Ram Chandra, one of the defendants, after Attorney George McGowan had recalled a subpoena he had previously secured.

Chandra declared he expected Bryan to testify as to the treatment of Hindus in India under British rule. The defense already has in evidence Bryan's book, "British Rule in India."

the British reserve at 800,000, other estimates today when as high as 1,000,000 men.

New proof that the drive was forced by internal economic and political pressure in the central empire, came today in a dispatch to an embassy, saying:

"Intervention had been attempted on the part of the social democratic deputies of Austria, who declared that it was impossible for the workmen to endure another diminution of the potato and fat ration. They added that no measure would be effective, and that the proletariat saw but the one way of remedying things—in other words, an immediate and general peace."

German Desperation Explained. The premier, von Seyditz, could only promise some vague and partial ameliorations and affirm that the Austro-Hungarian government would make every effort to arrive at peace as quickly as possible.

Commenting on this information, the dispatch continues:

"These facts throw curious light on the internal situation of the central powers. They help explain why Germany, without regard for risks and losses, wanted at all costs to reach a decision. When the allies stop the offensive, as they will, the central empires, who have killed off hundreds of thousands of men, will face accrued difficulties."

With an Austro-German offensive against Italy still possible, the Italians are hurrying preparations to meet it, said Rome diplomatic advice today. Italy is confident as to the west front and as to any new drive against her, said the messages, which added that the "fronte interno" writes:

"The offensive against Italy has been postponed, but not abandoned. It is necessary to prepare the spirit of our nation for the great trial which is impending. The Austrian offensive will find both army and country equally prepared."

QUEBEC HAS RIOTING OPPOSITION TO DRAFT

Anti-Conscription Mob Wrecks Office of Newspapers and Set Fire to Building.

Quebec, March 30.—Order was maintained here today by troops, following a night of rioting. Anti-conscription mobs wrecked the office of the newspaper L'Evenement and the Chronicle office and set fire to the auditorium building, in which records of draft cases were kept. The records were destroyed.

About 10,000 were in the crowds, but most of these were spectators. The rioters for a while held possession of upper town. The Ontario battalion and the eighth and ninth militia regiments were called out. After dispersing the mob, most of the soldiers returned to barracks, where they remained subject to call. They are armed with ball cartridges.

in the plan, the greatest of the many great changes the war has brought to America's routine.

Director-General McAdoo has ordered the national railroad to go on the new clock schedule. Trains scheduled to leave between 2 and 3 o'clock tomorrow will be held until 3 o'clock.

The food garden fans announced today they are ready to war on baseball magnates if the ball games are not advanced an hour with the clock.

"Slackers of the worst type," was the brand placed by officials here today on baseball magnates who take advantage of the extra-hour of daylight to "reap extra dollars for their tills."

COUNTY CLOCK WILL BE CHANGED TONIGHT

The big clock on the court house won't be like grandfather's clock in the song and strike 24, but it will strike 10 within the minutes tonight.

At 10 minutes to 9 Carl W. Oung, the caretaker at the court house, will put the clock ahead and it will strike nine. Then it will be advanced so as to strike 10 on the old 9 hour.

People hearing the clock strike twice within 10 minutes will be reminded forcibly of the change and can then advance their own time pieces. The railroad will make the change at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

No doubt many of the young people will make this an occasion for seeing the old time out and the new time in, so if father doesn't want to sit up till early morning to turn the clock ahead, he can have daughter's young man do it just before he goes home.

troops in large numbers in the present combat will probably depend on the magnitude of the counter assault that is planned against the Germans.

If the allies decide to attempt to bring the war to an end by overwhelming the German armies in western France, then every possible source of strength must be thrown into the battle, and General Pershing's full force will participate. But if a counter-offensive, with strictly limited objectives, is considered the wisest course at this time, General Foch may think it inadvisable to use the American army for the present.

The American troops now in France and those fast arriving are the finest offensive fighters left in the world. This is true not because they are Americans, but because America is the only great power left whose first classes of picked men have not suffered the casualties of nearly four years' fighting. If the allies' major offensive in answer to the present German thrust is not to be delivered immediately, General Foch may desire to keep the Americans for the principal role at a later date.

A major American offensive toward the Rhine, for instance, instead of in western France, might not only carry the war into Germany, but at the same time compel von Hindenburg to shorten his western line by abandoning much, if not all of the territory he has just won. Such a retirement under threat of an American invasion of Germany, would certainly have a far more depressing influence upon the Kaiser's subjects than a limited counter stroke by the allies along the Oise, Somme and Aisne.

Questions such as these must be fully considered by General Foch before he makes his decision, which ought not to be influenced by impatient and nervous home demands for immediate action.

Von Hindenburg is now concentrating what is left of his offensive strength for the capture of Amiens. His blows, however, are greatly weakened and may come to an end automatically through General Foch's pressure against the German southern flank. If they do not, Foch's first work of prime importance will be to save Amiens by a direct counter-offensive against the German pressure to the east of that highly important railway center.

TO COMMISSION TAFT'S SON.

With the American Army in France, March 29.—Sergeant-Major Charles Taft, son of former President Taft, has been recommended for a commission, it was learned today.

The recommendation, made through the routine channel, reached the chief of staff of a certain corps. It states that although Taft is still under age, he has served a year and shown qualifications warranting a commission.

NEW YORK PREACHER QUOTED BY GERMANS

Rev. John Haynes Holmes Denies Statement Dropped by Hun Airmen on West Front.

With the British Armies in the Field, March 29.—Pamphlets quoting Rev. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah, New York, as stating there is nothing to justify the war of America against Germany, were dropped today by German aviators who flew over the British lines. The pamphlets also attributed other unpatriotic statements by Dr. Holmes.

The hope of Germany in distributing these pamphlets undoubtedly is to weaken the British opposition and pave the way to destruction of France and England and incidentally America.

The only effect that pamphlets have had on Americans who have seen them has been to anger them against Dr. Holmes, who is represented as trying to aid Germany against his own people.

HOLMES ENTERS DENIAL

New York, March 30.—"I have made no such utterance," Rev. John Haynes Holmes told the United Press today when a cable describing German pamphlets which were dropped over British lines in France was read to him.

"Before the war I, as a pacifist, expressed the hope that the United States would not go to war," said Dr. Holmes. "Since the United States entered the war I have made no such statement. Those Germans probably have twisted my utterances previous to the war."

Jones was 18 years of age, enlisted December 2 of last year and had but recently completed his training as a flyer.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

Any inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Adv.
