

ON GUARD

At this time of the year people feel weak, tired, listless, their blood is thin, they have lived indoors and perhaps expended all their mental and bodily energy and they want to know how to renew their energy and stamina, overcome headaches and backaches, have clear eyes, a smooth, ruddy skin, and feel the exhilaration of real good health tingling through their body. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against all kinds of ailments. Almost all diseases come from impure and impoverished blood. It is to be noticed in the pale or pimply face, the tired, haggard appearance of the listless manner.

Drink hot water a half hour before meals, and for a vegetable tonic there's nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the old-fashioned herbal remedy, which has had such a fine reputation for fifty years. It contains no alcohol or narcotics. It is made from Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Oregon grape root, Queen's root, Black Cherry bark, extracted with glycerine and made into tablets and liquid. Tablets sixty cents, at most drug stores. In order to insure pure blood and to build up the system try this tonic known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Get it now!

Orchardists May Secure Warning of Frost Danger

Fruit Inspector C. E. Stewart, who was in the city Saturday, stated that arrangements had been made whereby the orchardists of the county may secure warning of danger of frost through the "information" department of the Bell telephone company. The warnings will be sent as soon as possible after 5:30 (new time) and can be had only by calling for "information," as the operators will know nothing about it. Call your local exchange and ask for information. The service is free.

STOP THE FARM LEAKS

Every one knows what happens when water is put into a barrel that has stood empty in the sun for a while. The water leaks out between the staves. Many manufacturers hire men to steady out ways of stopping such leaks in their business. It is said that a well known automobile company offers a small fortune to any man who will save a few cents in the cost of building prominent parts of an auto. Just so in farming. The most successful farmer is the one who has the best organized business, which is best adapted to conditions and has the fewest "leaks." Every dairy farmer knows the Babcock test shows how much butterfat is in a cow's milk.

LEADER LECTURE TO BE WONDERFUL TREAT

Oregon Journal Pays High Tribute to Eloquence of Soldier Speaker at Portland.

The lecture to be given at the armory Tuesday night by Colonel John Leader for the benefit of the home guards will be one of the greatest lectures yet heard in Eugene on the European war. Colonel Leader's short talks given from time to time have been heard and appreciated by many, but he has not in Eugene gone exhaustively into the subject in a regular lecture.

He lectured in Portland Friday, March 22, and a vast crowd filled the auditorium there. The Portland Journal gives the following account of the lecture:

Journal Is Enthusiastic.

More than 3000 people were given a "close up" of the Battle of the Somme Friday night, when they listened to first hand details of this and other battles of the war. The lecture was given by Colonel John Leader of the Royal Irish Rifles, whose long experience in military affairs, comprehensive grasp of war problems and the scintillating wit and warm sympathy of the Irish make him an extraordinary speaker. He carried his hearers from smiles to tears in rapid turn as he detailed the incidents of humor and pathos that go to make up a day in the trenches.

He said in part: "Uncle Sam has a 100 per cent record for cleaning up a job and in answer to the query 'when will the war end?' I will answer that it will end six months after America wakes up to its full duty and performs it and that means every man, woman and child performing his full duty 90 minutes of every hour of the day."

"It is left to America to make the final blow and you are going to make it, the time is coming when 'The Star Spangled Banner' will be sung in the streets of Berlin to the tramp of the feet of the American army."

"Unless one has been through it all it is difficult to give you an idea of the tenseness of feeling among officers and men at the Somme. Every regiment of men just before a great battle had high hopes that it might be chosen for the front lines and when mine was one that was chosen, I was delighted, then came the word that all colonels must stay behind. Can you imagine our feeling at sending our men out and not being able to go with them. The minutes were like hours. The battle began with the Boche lines lighting up like fireworks as the men advanced singing some favorite German song, the 25 miles of English regiments like one man went over the top singing their song of 'No Surrender,' that cannot be forgotten, once it is heard and those of those 10,000 who went over only 1000 returned and they were ready to go again the next day."

The evening was arranged by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, with Mrs. Alice Benson Bench and Mrs. George T. Gerlinger heading the committee and to them great credit is due for the distinguished audience which greeted the distinguished speaker. A program of organ music was given by William T. Boone before the lecture. Officers of the United States signal corps sat upon the platform and others acted as ushers. Colonel Leader was introduced by Edgar R. Piper.

Money Is Needed.

The lecture to be given at the armory Tuesday evening at 8:30 (new time) is for the benefit of the home guards, and not only will the lecture be worth much more than the price of admission, but the money goes to a good cause.

The company has to pay for the light and heat and janitor service at the armory for their meetings twice a week, as well as other expenses and later it is hoped to organize a machine gun company and equipment will be needed. This all takes much money. Tickets may be had at the Club or Wallace cigar stores or of any member of the home guards.

AUNT VIRGINIA SAYS.

Did you ever notice that women who are always pretending to be younger than they really are are generally looking more than their actual age?

It hardly seems fair to ask mother to skimp on flour and the children to go without candy while father insists on having his regular allowance of beer.

Doubtless there are many German agents in the country, but I doubt whether many of them went around urging housewives not to sign food conservation cards.

Many a man who could face a German charge unflinchingly might well quail at the sight of a small boy bearing down upon him wildly with a pushmobile.

I suspect that the money spent for all these gorgeous knitting bags would provide sweaters for a whole lot of soldiers.

When every available man in the country who is exempt from military service for some reason has been put to work, it will be time to talk of using girls as section hands and street cleaners. — Farm Life.

"HUNGRY"

"Yes, Sam." "All right, I'll put." Two British soldiers went into a restaurant in Salonica and asked for Turkey in Greece. The waiter said, "I'm sorry, gentlemen, but I can't serve. Whereupon the Tommies shouted, 'Fetch the Bosphorus!' When the manager arrived, he said, 'I'm sorry, gentlemen, I don't want to Russia, but you can't Rumania.' And so the Tommies went away hungry. — Boys Life.

BANKS TO SELL BONDS ON INSTALLMENT PLAN

Investors May Buy on Deferred Payment Plan Through Local Institutions.

The banks of Eugene have all agreed that they will purchase Liberty Bonds of the third loan and resell them to individuals on installment plan in order to allow people to purchase bonds and pay for them out of their salaries of income over a period of time not exceeding nine months.

Under the banks' plan the purchaser would be required to pay one-tenth of the amount of his purchase at the time of his application, paying the balance in not less than nine monthly installments, with interest on deferred payments at the rate of 6 per cent. The interest on the bond that would accrue from the date of its issue would belong to the purchaser, so that the net cost to him on account of the interest would be very small.

The low rate of six per cent is given as a further inducement on the part of the banks to encourage people to subscribe as liberally as possible to the bonds.

It is not necessary that the above plan of ten equal installments be adhered to, and anyone wishing to purchase bonds and scatter the payments over any other period of time—so that it comes within a limit of nine months—will be entitled to the 6 per cent rate.

Many Automobiles Needed for Liberty Loan Campaign

There will be many automobiles needed for the Liberty loan campaign and the general committee has appointed a committee on transportation with W. E. Powell, of Brawner and Powell, who will be glad to have the offer of the services of any automobiles for the transportation of speakers or canvassers. Anyone having a motor car which they can contribute the use of can call 'phone 67, and the cars will be gratefully received.

exchange of artillery fire.

On Easter Sunday, the day of resurrection, the thoughts of the men in the American army turned more than ever to the grim business of killing. Easter was a day of new hope for democracy and the freedom of mankind. Religious services were held in the various rest camps. Men who were clerks, merchants and engaged in every kind of occupation a year ago, surrounded by their families and who are now ready to lay down their lives in the greatest battle of history, attended the services.

It was a wet, rainy Easter. There was no fashionable parade. The entire front was mired. Mud-soaked couriers dashed about on motorcycles, automobiles splattered mud in the mud on the roadsides, while dough boys plodded cheerfully through the mire.

In an ancient church in a town close to the lines I saw American soldiers and French police kneeling at the same altar rail. They bowed their heads and silently kissed the same crucifix.

One of the potous laid a brotherly hand on the shoulder of a doughboy and looked him silently in the eye. There was no word spoken, but the silence spoke more than volumes.

FRIEND OF STUDENTS IS DEAD IN PORTLAND

Death of Mrs. G. O. Wold Came Unexpectedly; Glowing Tribute Paid Her.

Following a brief illness from pneumonia, Mrs. G. O. Wold passed away at her home in Portland late Saturday night. Death was entirely unexpected, and came as a great shock to the immediate members of the family and friends.

Mrs. Wold had been a resident of Portland for about eight years, and before that was for many years a resident of Eugene, where her home was a center of social life among the students of the University of Oregon. She was born in Norway, and after first coming to America had lived among the Indians in Nebraska, to whom her husband, the late Ivor Peter Wold, was a missionary teacher.

She was the mother of Misses Emma and Joan Wold, of Portland; Miss Cora Wold, now of Chicago; Miss Clara Wold, now in New York; Mrs. R. R. Boyer, of Evansville, Ill., and Dr. P. Irving Wold, of East Orange, N. J.

Of Mrs. Wold, L. R. Alderman, superintendent of the Portland schools, said Sunday evening: "Many former University of Oregon students will recall the woman who, at the head of a household of children, did not forget that young people away from home have a hunger for the companionship that can come only in a home of refinement. She had a faculty of encouraging conversation, and in her presence many a young man, without any feeling of self-consciousness would express his life's ambition and thereby get a stronger hold upon his resolution to do something worth while. She seemed to understand the needs of all young people as well as her own. Her home was an intellectual center in the college town. She held high ideals of life and with them a real love of young people."

"Mrs. Wold was early left a widow with six children. She held them together and stimulated them to prepare for service and to serve. Her sympathetic interest took in many young people who will say with me, 'She understood me and helped me when I needed help.'"

Woman Killed at Tigard by Oregon Electric Train

While going out to their little war garden in the country, Mrs. Anna Eschman, aged 32, of 928 Thurman street, was instantly killed, and her husband, Albert G. Eschman, aged 38, a meatcutter, was seriously injured shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday morning, when their machine, a light car, was struck by the Eugene limited of the Oregon Electric at the road crossing at Tigard.

Mr. and Mrs. Eschman were on their way to Firwood. According to eyewitnesses they were traveling at about 12 miles an hour.

Mr. Eschman was able to give but a brief account of the accident Sunday evening. He said he saw the electric train approaching but, not knowing it was limited, thought it would stop at the Tigard station.

When he saw the train was not slackening its speed he made a futile effort to avoid the crash, but his light machine was struck almost squarely by the train, which was traveling at about 35 miles an hour, and both he and Mrs. Eschman were hurled from the machine for a distance of several feet.

The car was reduced to total wreckage, pieces of it being scattered along the right-of-way for more than 100 feet.

GRAND JURY TOLD TO INVESTIGATE FIRES

Judge Skipworth Also Instructs Body to Examine Accounts of James C. Parker.

The Lane county grand jury which was recalled today was specially instructed by Judge G. F. Skipworth to investigate the burning of several buildings in Lane county in the past two years, the circumstances surrounding which were such as to raise suspicion of arson. He also instructed the grand jury to carefully investigate the charges that J. C. Parker, who resigned as sheriff a few weeks ago was short in his accounts.

There are two parties at present in jail awaiting the action of grand jury are M. N. Crow, charged with a statutory crime against his own daughter, and Floyd Barnett, who was taken at Junction City Friday last with 20 gallons of whiskey in his possession.

Judge Skipworth, in his charge to the jury read the statutes bearing upon the matters which he instructed them to investigate.

The members of the grand jury are: Foreman, Lawrence Heitzman, Irving; Harrison Russell, Thurston; A. G. Pirtle, Coburg; E. A. Schwering, Creswell; C. A. Swaggard, Eugene; Dan Spores, Springfield No. 1; G. G. Stone, Creswell.

stories of the heroic work of American engineers, who dropped picks and shovels and grabbed rifles, helping to hold the line at a threatened point. They were "on the job" several days.

British odd units likewise were unable to keep out of the fighting, joining the ranks of riflemen. The enemy is reported concentrating at various points. The present comparative quiet may be broken at any time.

Hindenburg promised the German war correspondents he would be in Paris on April 1. He is far behind schedule and has got to hurry.

ALLIES PUSH FORWARD

London, April 1.—The latest official reports from the battle front, contained in Sunday night's war office communiqué showed the allies had pushed forward at four widely separated points, while holding the Germans in check elsewhere.

The most important of these allied successes was the recapture of Moreuil, ten miles north and west of Montdidier, and only an equal distance southeast of the vital center of Amiens. Moreuil was taken by British and French troops, operating jointly. With it they captured the dense wood to the north of that city. Canadian cavalry participated in these sections.

Next in importance was a forward thrust by the French on a line from a point south of Montdidier to a point east of Lassigny, in which "several villages," lost by the French Saturday were retaken. Demuin, five miles northeast of Moreuil, was also won back by the British.

On the northern flank, the British counter attacked south of the Scarpe and advanced their line to the east of Fenchy, two and a half miles east of Arras, thus relieving the enemy pressure against this important city. Haig's men held this gain despite desperate attempts to retake it.

The French war office reported the decimation of a German battalion, which crossed the Oise near Chauny.

The Berlin night report merely described "local successful battles" between the Luce and the Aves, and declared French counter attacks west and southwest of Montdidier "failed with heavy losses."

Women Prisoners in Seattle Smuggle Tobacco and Drugs

Seattle, Wash., April 1.—Women quarantined in the public safety building for medical treatment have been smuggling in tobacco and drugs, according to health authorities today.

Police discovered a stocking hanging down the side of the building from a window and by watching it have arrested several men attaching "presents" to it.

MILITARY MORALS

One of the uses of the proceeds of the Liberty Loan that will appeal strongly to the great mass of American people is the care and attention given to the moral welfare and protection of the American soldiers.

Heretofore with the American army and even now with some of the armies of our allies, the moral welfare of the soldier was and is a matter largely ignored. In the German armies provision is even made for immorality.

It is to the glory of American arms and American national character that of the men who wear the United States uniform a high standard of conduct is expected and demanded, and provided for. Kipling's "Single men in barracks" are not to find their prototypes in the American army.

General Pershing says there is no cleaner-living body of men in the world than the American army in France.
