RISLEY—At Mt. Carmel, Ill., April 11, 1918, to Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Risley, of Eugene, a daughter, who has been named Mary Louise.

Women braver than men
Women often do their daily tasks in home, office or factory while suffering pain and misery that would put a man in bed. However, much of women's suffering can be alleviated. Backache, sore muscles, stiff joints, rheumatic pains, dizziness and like symptoms are caused by disordered kidneys and bladder. Mrs. Thos. Davis, Montgomery, Ind., writes: "I doctored several months without relief, when I commenced using Foley Kidney Pills, and got relief. Eight bottles cured me." Safe, harmless; quick results.

POOR HIGHWAYS BRING APPALING WASTES

Judge Landis, of Chicago, hit the nail on the head when he classed the combine of meat packers, who were united in extorting high prices for their manufactured product, with the I. W. W. who are over-enthusiastic and over-zealous in their cause. Each is the cause of waste in national energy, and in time. Waste at this time should be classed as next to treason.

Time and energy are going to waste on our highways to the farms. The power alone that is going to waste on the highways of these United States, it is estimated, is equivalent to the work of 250,000 horses per day. It is estimated that, over the average earth road, it requires a tractive effort of 218 pounds to move every ton of freight hauled. Twenty-eight pounds would move the same ton at the same speed over a hard surfaced road—a clear loss of tractive effort of 190 pounds to every one-ton load hauled over the average dirt road.

Farm tonnage has increased more than 150,000,000 tons a year, in recent years, and is still climbing. And it is apparent that energy-waste and time-waste are growing with the farm tonnage. Only permanent hard surface roads will check this loss. It is doing it to an extent, but not fast enough. And if any check in road building is threatened during war times it should be overcome if possible.

Danger lurks in the waiting for a more convenient time for building hard-surface, energy-saving, time-saving roads.

The energies of the great majority of over 100,000,000 peoples will not cease in these United States. They will pile up crops and other products, tons upon tons, for the big transportation system, the highways, to say nothing of the passenger traffic. Railroads can obviously not haul all of it; the highways must be used.

In the face of the traffic overflowing from the railroads and deluging the highways, increasing in weight, density and speed, it is the sheerest folly to temporize with the energy-wasting, time-wasting roads, when energy-saving roads can be had for less than the difference in power cost.

The war has forced the country roads to become freight lines more than they ever were before. That fact faces every community in these United States, especially the farming communities. Every bit of improvement will help, but nothing short of permanent hard-surface will put these freight lines upon a dividend-paying basis, making them a national asset instead of a national liability.

With energy waste estimated at approximately the combined pulling power of 250,000 horses daily, it is apparent that the present condition of the highways is a tremendous liability.

It has been aptly said that a transportation system is as strong as its weakest link. The country roads are a very essential link in the transportation system that must carry the products of the rail to the armies for democracy, and these roads under present conditions form a weak link.

It is probably a conservative estimate that there are over 1,500,000 miles of poor roads in these United States, and every mile of these poor roads is a danger link because of its wasting of energy and wasting of time. Freight tonnage is growing throughout the nation, and choking railroad terminals through the restricted distribution arising from poor roads. It is obvious that intensified production will have to continue even if the war ends in the next few weeks or months. In the face of these conditions can we justify a continuation of this energy and time waste upon the ground that labor and material may cost less after the close of war (which is doubtful), or that because we cannot get cars we cannot secure the materials?

The government has issued an order for right-of-way for war supplies and munitions over road materials. This order was at once a summons and a signal. It is a summons to aid the government at a time of vital transportation need, and at the same time a signal for the country to do its utmost to proceed by every means at hand to continue the improvement of the nation's highways and stop the awful waste of energy and time on these highways.

And let me say again, that the country road—the road to the farms—owned by the people, operated by the people, improved to sustain the twentieth century traffic—the automobile and the motor truck—is the most practical means by which the problem of economic distribution can be solved for the winning of the war and for the reconstruction that will follow.

WALTER M. PIERCE FOR GOVERNOR

State Senator From Eastern Oregon Announces Candidacy
For Chief Executive.

After due deliberations I have decided to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor at the primary election to be held May 17.

During my 35 years of residence in Oregon I have taken an active interest in public affairs. At present I am a state senator representing Union and Walla Walla counties, and am now an active member of the State Taxpayers' league since its organization. My position upon most public questions is well known and understood. I am nominated and elected governor. I pledge my earnest and unequal support to President Woodrow Wilson and to the great cause of the people.

so will the war. In this dark hour of our national life there is nothing else that counts. We must win the war or the principle that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," after 140 years of existence, must perish.

I fear our people do not realize the seriousness of the present titanic struggle. It cannot be the end of free institutions. We shall win—and not a Prussian peace either, but a peace in power cost.

WALTER M. PIERCE

that will insure for all time the freedom of all nations, great or small.

Every citizen in public or private life should give his loyal aid and assistance to the commander-in-chief of our army and navy—our president Woodrow Wilson. This is no time to falsely criticize, find fault or play politics. The Hun, with the dripping blood of murdered millions, is at the door. He would treat our wives and daughters as he has treated the women of Belgium and Northern France, if he could. Our boys wear the navy blue in English waters, and our boys in the olive drab some where in France are as truly fighting a defensive battle as though they were resisting the advance of the Hun up the Columbia river.

I pledge my most loyal support to all our boys who have or may enter the war and who may be called upon to shed their blood, possibly sacrificing their lives for the perpetuity of our free institutions. Thousands of our brightest, bravest and best have gone, and many no doubt will be called upon to make the supreme sacrifice for the triumph of righteousness.

I pledge myself to labor unceasingly to help alleviate the suffering as far as possible and administer to the comforts of our country's defenders.

I believe Oregon should be organized from top to bottom for the winning of the war. No person's time is his own. Every man and woman ought to labor in some occupation that will help win the war. We should so organize that farms, shipyard and factories manufacturing war material should not feel the shortage of labor.

We must work together as a unit, with one purpose and one aim—or perish. Wages should be commensurate with the increased cost of living.

With these beliefs firmly fixed, if I were governor, I would ask all state institutions to limit their money expenditures to the very lowest point possible, so that the state's financial strength may be conserved to be used for our defense and to alleviate the sufferings of our people that must follow this terrible war.

I believe in prison reform so that the unfortunate ones we confine in our penal institutions may return to the walks of life better and not worse by reason of their incarceration. I have been a laboring man most of my life and deeply sympathize with those who honestly toil, firmly believing that opportunity should be given all to earn an honest living in some useful occupation.

My opposition to the American system in this state commenced with the arrival here 35 years ago. I rejoice that the saloon in Oregon is gone, and I believe in the strict enforcement of the law. I favor national prohibition.

I have always favored woman suffrage and am in favor of extending the franchise throughout the nation. I believe in the people's rule—the greatest possible participation by the people direct in all the affairs of government compatible with the practical and efficient administration of affairs.

I am a firm believer in the future greatness of Oregon. Portland should be one of the greatest ports of the world. With her inland waterways developed, steamship lines promoted and rural Oregon developed, her future destiny is assured.

I shall do everything in my power as governor to promote the business growth and development of our state, never forgetting the necessity for constant work for the moral uplift and educational opportunities.

My motto shall be: "Organization of Oregon for the benefit of the people."

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furrowed tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; this cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fine and fit day in and day out.

American fleet to visit Buenos Aires and in many other ways where our bond of sympathy dictated that we give proof of the genuineness and depth of our friendship for America, Argentina has never hesitated. We have cheerfully placed ourselves on record, at times under conditions which risked bringing upon ourselves reprisals and serious difficulties.

Argentina's sympathetic approval has followed the United States, step by step. We have endorsed your course and voiced our approval of the loftiness of your objectives on every important occasion. I have personally followed every move of President Wilson and have read every public utterance by him regarding the aims and purposes of the United States with a feeling of the greatest admiration and respect.

"By his words and deeds, we in Argentina have come to recognize and accept him as one of the world's benign figures."

Asked if he believes the unselfishness and humanitarianism of the United States is understood and accepted in Argentina, President Irigoyen replied: "There is no longer the slightest doubt. Whatever skepticism existed as a result of lack of understanding of first utterances has been eliminated by the consistency of subsequent utterances and the manner in which actions have squared with words."

The entire effect and impression left by the interview, which is practically unprecedented in Argentina, was that there is not the slightest doubt of the genuineness and sincerity of President Irigoyen's personal feelings toward the United States. Like President Wilson, however, he regards his position as president as detached and impersonal. The feeling with which he referred to the various actions and statements of our president, indicated a belief that his position will be better understood by President Wilson than by anyone.

The conversation made evident President Irigoyen's belief that he and President Wilson are in attunement on vital principles, regardless of possible divergencies of viewpoint on minor matters.

Throughout Argentina the admission is frankly made by President Irigoyen's political opponents that he is becoming better understood and more appreciated by his countrymen. Even the strongest pro-ally sympathizers admit the prob-
