

THE EUGENE DAILY GUARD

PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING EXCEPT SUNDAY BY THE GUARD PRINTING COMPANY

Office, 621-623 Willamette Street, Eugene, Oregon.

Subscription Rates: Daily, by carrier, per year in advance $5.00

Full Lease Wire Report of United Press Associations.

UNITING ALLIED FORCES

FIGHTING ON THE FRONTS in France and Italy appears to be developing favorably for the allies.

In March hordes of Huns from prostrate Russia, Austrians and Hungarians were massed on the western front for the "Kaiser Battle."

"The first strategist of Europe" is famous as an offensive fighter, but he has a special genius for retreating and striking.

The German offensives have solidified the unity between the allies. The enemy expected to separate the French and British armies.

Another most fortunate thing for us is that the offensives and the U-boats in American waters have stirred the United States to their depths.

WILL FLEET COME OUT?

REPORTS that the German high sea fleet is making ready to venture from behind its mine fields and shore guns.

These indications of a new and more seemly purpose flow in from many and from widely separated centers.

The campaign on the western front. Its failure in objectives and the ordered bleeding to death of Hun army corps, reveal the desperation of the enemy.

A Story of Married Life REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

By Adele Garrison

Is There a Real Cause of Jack's Jealousy of Dr. Braithwaite?

Now, Katherine, dear, tell me all about it.

We were safe from intrusion, Katherine Sonnet and I, in my own room. She had arrived on so late a train in the afternoon I had no time to talk to her before Dicky's arrival and dinner.

It was late when he finally went to his room, but I knew from the look in Katherine's eyes that tired as she was she wanted to unburden her heart to me before she slept.

Katherine's answer startled me. She turned from the mirror in front of which she had been braiding her long, beautiful hair for the night.

"Why, Katherine, I didn't mean to make you feel like this. I never should have asked you that question, but I thought you wanted to tell me all about it."

Her answer came brokenly. "Don't. I do want to tell you, but please let me cry—it's the first time."

I said no more, only held her closer and smoothed the satin softness of her brown hair. The words, "It's the first time," struck a responsive chord in my heart as I gazed down at her.

When she finally dried her eyes, she sprang up with the pretty impetuosity I had always loved in her. "What a fool I've made of myself!" she said practically, going over to a stand in the corner and pouring cold water into a basin.

"Tell me, Madge," she said, "did you ever see a woman who could cry becomingly? I read of them, but I've yet to see one, and I've certainly watched all varieties of weeping females."

"There isn't any such article," I rejoined, and then I drew up a chair near mine, afraid lest the bitterness of her tone meant that she had drawn an armor over intended confidence. But she sank obediently into it when she had finished bathing her face, and she clasped her hands around her knees.

"There's only one thing the matter," she said, "and you couldn't help seeing what it was the other night at Mrs. Underwood's dinner."

Katherine Explains. "You mean that Jack objects to Dr. Braithwaite's work taking so much of your time?" I replied, temporizing, for I did not wish to put my real conviction into words until Katherine herself should give me the cue.

"I mean that he is actually jealous of Dr. Braithwaite himself, imagines that the physician himself is in love with me and that I am more interested in him than I have any right to be."

She stretched her beautiful arms above her head with a gesture of important irritation.

"Sometimes I think all the business and professional world ought to be divided like a Quaker meeting, the men on one side and the women on the other," she said with a tinge of bitterness. "It seems almost impossible for a man and a woman to be associated closely in any business or profession without causing unpleasant comment or actual trouble if there's a husband, wife or a fiancée of either on earth."

"And it's so unjust," she went on. "You see, in this particular case, I happened to do my work in the special way that suited Dr. Braithwaite, and he was kind enough to remark it, and gradually to give me the most responsible work he had."

"Of course you just happened to do your work well," I put in affectionately, for I knew Katherine's reputation as one of the best nurses in the city.

A little mouse was the only indication that she heard my interruption.

"And then Dr. Braithwaite's wife fell ill. Of course you know about that," she continued.

"To My Sorrow." I nodded. Dicky's sister had indeed been taken ill shortly after she had gone to Paris with her big surgeon husband.

I had wondered often how the physician had gotten along without her, for her efficient care of him and his absolute dependence on her had aroused my admiring wonder when they visited us before sailing.

"Well, then, of course you know how dependent he always was upon her. And the thing that worried her most in her illness was the fact that she could no longer look after him. So she asked him to select a nurse to come to the apartment and look after housekeeping, servants and friend husband especially while she was ill."

"And he selected you?" I asked.

"Yes," Katherine returned soberly, "much to my sorrow."

SPRINGFIELD NEWS

Goes to Portland on Visit. Miss Mable Fandrem, who is employed at McDowell's department store, left Friday for Portland, where she will visit for a few days with friends.

Return From Trip. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bressler, of the M. C. Bressler and Son hardware store, returned Tuesday evening from a trip to Salem and vicinity on business.

Goes to Tacoma. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bennett left here Monday night for Tacoma, Wash., where Mr. Bennett will be foreman at the shipyards. They were here for the past two months visiting friends and looking for a location. Their home is in Seattle, and they are formerly of Alaska.

Returns From Oregon City. Clarence Bally, who spent several days in the vicinity of Oregon City looking for a location, returned Wednesday night.

Springfield Personals. J. J. Browning returned from a trip to Brownsville Tuesday night, where he had been on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chandler and family spent over Sunday at Coburg visiting friends where they formerly lived.

Fred Knox has gone to Oregon City, where he will be employed in the mills.

Mrs. E. E. Lee left Wednesday with her daughter, Mrs. E. D. Ferguson, of Jasper, to visit for a few days at the latter's home.

Mrs. E. M. Duryee and little daughter have returned from a few days visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elgin Hadley, of Yarnell.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Eggmann motored to Walterville Wednesday on business.

J. C. Dim, editor of the Springfield News, has returned from a business trip to Oregon City.

No-Hit Games Fewer in Big League This Year Than Last

New York, June 21.—When Dutch Leonard pitched a no-hit game against Detroit a few days ago, he accomplished something that was thrice turned in to the records by the same time a year ago.

world's champion White Sox, who stepped in against the St. Louis Browns in the first series of the year in St. Louis last spring and turned back the Fielder Jones aggregation with the minimum quantity of hits—none. And a few days later along came Ernie Koon and accomplished the same thing, with the exception that Ernie got into an argument with the official scorer and almost lost credit for the performance.

Then George Mogridge pitched his only real good game of the season when he went against the Boston Red Sox and set down that team without a hit.

Whether this means that the pitching was better a year ago or that the hitting now is better is a matter for speculation and deep study.

There is no doubt that the pitching was some better, for Cicotte has not been so good as he was a year ago, and the Yankees have been unable to help Mogridge to many victories. However, the hitting is no better, for practically the same layout of hitters has been doing the punching, and the averages are no more than normal. In fact, some of the averages have suffered woeful slumps.

But these are the facts—three hitless performances last spring, and one this year. If, as has been argued, the fans like free hitting contests, they have been well served during 1918.

McCall May Buck Weeks in Bay State Senatorial Battle

Boston, Mass., June 20.—Governor Samuel McCall will buck Senator Weeks for the Republican nomination for the United States senate this fall if a can/was being made by McCall's trustees in all parts of Massachusetts leads the veteran to think he can win.

In case McCall goes in, the greatest Republican party fight ever waged in the state for a nomination will take place, as McCall has been out for Weeks' scalp ever since the Boston financier side-tracked his senatorial ambition in 1913 by getting the state legislature to send him to Washington instead of McCall.

At that time McCall did not send Weeks a letter of congratulation and it was the only letter he has taken in a long political career. Nothing would send the Massachusetts governor better than to beat Weeks at a post-war election.

BIG POSTER SHOW.

Ottawa, Can., June 20.—The Canada food board will display a collection of food posters from Great Britain, France, Italy, the United States and Canada at the annual Canadian exhibition to be held this fall throughout the Dominion.

Advertisement for Hampton's department store. Features 'Big June Specials' and a list of clothing items with prices. Includes a circular logo with a stylized 'H' and 'S'.

Advertisement for men's suits. Features an illustration of a man in a suit and hat, and text promoting 'Buy Your Suits Now, Men!' with a list of items and prices.

Advertisement for Hampton's 'Basement Bargain Section'. Announces a sale of various items like hats, pants, and dresses with a list of prices.

Advertisement for 'REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS' listing properties for sale or rent.

Advertisement for 'SPOT CASH' furniture store, offering household furniture at low prices.

Advertisement for 'WOOD FOR FUEL' and 'WILLIAMS FUEL CO.' offering various types of wood and fuel.