War Department Announces
407 This Morning and Will
Have Nearly 300 More Ready
Later in the Day.

Washington, Aug. 5.—American casualties from the great Franco-American offensive have begun to pour into the war department. The names of 407 were made public today. In addition, 290 will be ready at 1 p. m. for release to morning papers tomorrow. Many more names, it was said, have reached the war department, but their publication is awaiting the customary 15 hours' notice to relatives.

With a total of 706 names announced today, or ready for announcement, the casualty list today showed that the country must steel itself for the greatest losses suffered thus far in the war.

The early list was divided as follows: Killed in action 203, died of wounds 37, died of disease 9, died of airplane accident 1, died of accident and other causes 6, wounded severely 48, wounded (degree undetermined) 100, missing in action 3.

The entire list of 407 names includes but one Oregon man. He is Lieutenant L. A. Wood, of Portland.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Marine casualties today totaled 10, divided as follows:

Killed in action 9, died of wounds 1.

the Vesle met German resistance everywhere," the communiqué said.

"There is nothing new to report from the battlefield."

With the American Armies in France, Aug. 5.—German artillery has opened up on the American lines and railroads more vigorously than for the past two days, and there is machine gun activity about the region of Fismes—now in the hands of the Americans—indicating the enemy may possibly plan desperate resistance there.

American patrols are across the Vesle. After the Americans took Fismes, other United States troops moved northward in the Marne-en-Dole region.

They marched steadily forward through a downpour of rain Saturday night and Sunday, and spent most of the day feeling out the boche positions, in an effort to establish contact.

Late in the afternoon the German artillery began violently shelling the Americans. Whether the enemy intends to make a stand or withdraw his artillery further, it is impossible to guess at this time, but American officers believe the Germans must now of necessity retreat beyond the Vesle.

The entire retreat was marked by vigorous shelling, just prior to an intended artillery silence. After a great outburst of shell fire the boche artillery remained quiet for two days and the American guns necessarily were less active.

American casualties during the past 48 hours have been amazingly slight, considering the depth of our advance. I saw an advanced dressing station empty, the doctors idle and ambulances lined up with the drivers resting. Everything bears out the statement of officers and men that there hasn't been a battle for the past two days—just a march.

Over the ground of the recent bitter fighting a striking note was that all the German dead lay in valleys, woods and towns, while the American dead were on the roads. This was due to the boche system of establishing machine nests. When in villages or woods the enemy machine guns are carefully placed in hollows 200 yards from the top of a rise or plateau. The Americans have no hint of resistance until they reach the crest of the elevation. The boches are then able to open a surprise fire and the doughboys have to reach the nests.

Devastation Complete.
The entire country from the Marne to the Vesle is now a vast scene of wreckage. Scarcely a mirror, even, remains unbroken, the boches having smashed them with hammers. Every town and village is wrecked. Not a house is intact. All about may be seen typical German signs, from those directing traffic to ones renaming streets. One of the latter bears the name "Kaiserstraße." There are numerous narrow gauge railways built by the boches, with small steel freight cars standing on the tracks and more rails for further construction. I stood beside a battery manned by American youngsters, recently after-dinner while shells were being hurled across the Vesle.

With the French Armies in the Field, Aug. 5.—German resistance is stiffening all along the Vesle.

French patrols which crossed at several points bearing machine guns and large supplies of grenades, reported there are indications that the enemy still has large forces on the river.

The Germans are employing artillery freely to harass the allied troops.

Maison (five miles west of Rheims) was hotly disputed, but the Germans were pushed back and the French threw small forces across the river there.

Violent fighting occurred at Vaux farm and station, near Rheims, but the Germans were unable to recapture them.

THEATRES

Ann Little, winsome heroine of "The World for Sale," a Paramount Picture which has been dramatized for the screen by J. Stuart Blackton, makes an ideal Fleda Druse as she is the exact type described by Sir Gilbert Parker in his well known novel by that name.

Her former screen experience also fits her admirably for the role as she has appeared almost exclusively in parts of this type. Among her best known screen productions are: "The Land of Lizards," "Matchin' Jim," "Immediate Lee," and "The Court of St. Simon." Miss Little in "The World for Sale," will appear at the Oregon Theatre on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Pauline Curley, who is Harold Lockwood's leading lady in "Lend Me Your Name," the Metro All-Star Series picture, which will be shown at the Rex theatre Monday and Tuesday plays opposite the star for the third time in this screen play. Her first appearance with Mr. Lockwood was in "The Square Deceiver" and her excellent work in this picture led to her engagement to play in "The Landlord." Thoroughly convinced that Miss Curley is an ideal leading woman for Harold Lockwood, Manager Fred J. Balshofer has signed the little blonde player as permanent opposite for the star of "Lend Me Your Name."

FOCH MAKING NEW POCKET FOR BOCHE TO NORTH OF VESLE

By Retarding Allied Advance in Center of Salient and Driving on Flanks, New Pocket
Is Being Formed.

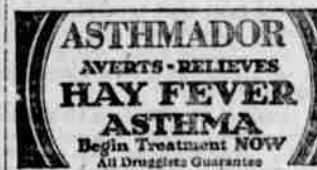

By J. W. T. MASON

(United Press War Expert)

New York, Aug. 5.—Another deadly pocket is being formed by General Foch around the German positions on the Vesle. The sides of the wedge are being forced northward from Soissons toward the Chemin-des-Dames and from Rheims toward Berry-au-Bac, while the Germans on the Vesle, between Soissons and Rheims, are gradually being left in the hollow.

General Foch's present purpose is to move his east and west flanks northward faster than his center. By this maneuver a condition similar to that which existed when the Germans were on the Marne will again threaten von Hindenburg. The longer von Hindenburg clings to the Vesle the more time will be given to General Foch to drive his flanks northward, thus deepening the new Vesle salient.

Von Hindenburg can overcome this strategy only by withdrawing from the Vesle or by throwing an immense number of reserves into defensive positions north of Soissons and Rheims. If he thunders up his reserve for defensive fighting, von Hindenburg will be playing General Foch's game. Every German reserve unit thrown into the present fighting weakens the force with which the kaiser must defend German territory against America's forthcoming offensive.

The possible danger to the Germans in the present trap is greater than existed at the Marne. If General Foch can move his flanks northward for a short distance before von Hindenburg starts to retreat from the Vesle, the allies will begin to close in behind the Aisne river five to 10 miles north of the Vesle and, in general, parallel to it.

When the Germans then commence to retreat, a disastrous flight across the Aisne under fire of the enemy's artillery might well be the best they can expect. The Aisne is now in high flood. That means serious difficulties in getting heavy artillery across. A day's delay may thus turn out to be fatal to von Hindenburg.

Don't Let Catarrh Drag
You into Consumption

Avoid Its Dangerous Stage.

There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyance caused by the stopped-up air passages, and the hacking and spitting and other distasteful features.

The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dreaded consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by sprays, inhalers, atomizers, jellies and other local applications.

S. S. S. has proven a most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh because it goes direct to its source, and removes the germs of the disease from the blood. President P. L. Campbell, president of the University of Oregon, who is now in Washington, D. The body is the successor of the American Emergency Council on Education, organized for the period of the war, of which President Campbell was also secretary. The organization has been made permanent that the benefits of much of Working Men!

Just now you are earning bigger wages than ever before. Just how when you spend your dollars you are getting less for them than ever before.

Why not save some of the easy money you are making now and spend it a few years hence. A few years hence you will be able to buy twice as much food, twice as much clothing, twice as much pleasure with the same number of dollars. One hundred dollars saved now will have the purchasing power of two hundred dollars a few years hence.

And then, too, after the war there will likely be a surplus of men and scarcity of jobs. There are many reasons why you should save and many reasons why you should bank your savings with us.

the work which is now being done shall not be lost with the return of peace.

Probably the most important work the council now has under way is an exchange student plan, under which students from America will be sent to European colleges and those from Europe will come to American institutions.

With the war in progress, this exchange for the present promises to be unobscured. Many of the colleges in Europe and especially those in France have been closed. Efforts are being made just now to bring to the United States from France a large number of young women that they may be enrolled in American institutions. These students, after completing their education here would return home carrying with them the influence of American ideals.

HUN DEFEAT AT MARNE BRINGS 'DEPRESSION'

Newspapers Declare People of Berlin Utterly Discouraged and Downhearted

Berlin, Aug. 5.—"The Marne defeat has produced unspeakable scenes of despair in Berlin," the Tagblatt declares. "Such outbreaks of utter discouragement and downheartedness never before were witnessed."

The Frankfurter Tage Post depicts the wild rumors that the kaiser and von Hindenburg have been assassinated and that von Hindenburg was killed in a duel with the crown prince as betraying the most dangerous nervousness.

The government threatens severe penalties for the ones responsible for spreading the rumors.

Rotterdam, Aug. 5.—The German people are beginning to feel restive under the effects of the defeat at the Marne. This is evidenced by statements from Ludendorff and von Hindenburg to newspaper correspondents tending to bolster up the spirits of the public. The Frankfurter, copies of which have been received here, report riots in the market with the police unable to cope with the situation.

Rumors are current that Hindenburg will strike all on a final blow against the allies in September with three points his objective—the Champagne, further north along the coast and Verdun, with Paris the ultimate goal.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS OPENED

Amsterdam, Aug. 5.—Russian and Finnish peace delegates have arrived in Berlin and opened negotiations according to advices received here today.

SELF DEFENSE

DEFEAT BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE WITH ANURIC.

Many people in this section have suffered from rheumatism and kidney trouble and have found Anuric to be the most successful remedy to overcome these painful and dangerous ailments.

The lucky people are those who have suffered, but who are now well because they heeded Nature's warning signal in time to correct their trouble with that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's called An-u-ric. You should promptly heed these warnings, some of which are daily spells, backache, irregularity of the urine or the painful twinges of rheumatism, sciatica or lumbago. To delay may make possible the dangerous forms of kidney disease, such as Bright's disease, diabetes or stone in the bladder.

To overcome these distressing conditions you should take plenty of exercise in the open air, avoid a heavy meat diet, drink freely of water and at each meal take Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets (double strength). You will, in a short time, find that you are one of the firm believers of An-u-ric, as are many of your neighbors.

Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10 cents for trial package.

Berlin, Wash., Aug. 5.—I was troubled getting up at night for two years. Finally I took a trip to Florida, and while there I sent to Dr. Pierce for some Anuric Tablets and two dollars' worth of the Golden Medical Discovery Tablets. I took them as he directed and have not been troubled with my water for some time. I have been well now for months. I think the Anuric Tablets are all O. K.—W. J. GOOD, Washington Vet. Home.
