

SEN. KUBLI'S BILLS FOR FAIR SEEM DEAD

financing the fair by such means. There was considerable sentiment today that the Bean bill, which provides for an income tax to accomplish financing of the fair, is also dead. Several members of the joint ways and means committee showed palms that itched for an axe to slaughter both measures.

The second fact is the admitted shortness of time in which to arrive at any fair financing decision whatever. Speakers here indicated last night that if a measure was to get action it would have to arrive in the house in concrete form in time to be passed by Thursday night. The temper of the members of both houses indicate that adjournment later than Friday morning would meet with their heartfelt disapprobation.

Compromise Praised.
The Griffith-Kerr plan, which would raise the state tax on gasoline to three cents, is highly spoken of as the best compromise plan which can be effected. This plan, in brief, involves a constitutional amendment proposed by Frank Jim T. Griffith, of Portland, and would divert one million annually for three years into the fair fund and then give back the entire three-cent fund to the state highway fund. A companion bill would provide for machinery for managing and conducting the exposition.

From the revenue derived from the three-cent tax $5,000 would be paid monthly to the state highway fund for maintenance, as the entire revenue now is used, and the balance diverted into the exposition fund until $3,000,000 has been accumulated. After that the entire tax would be diverted to the highway fund.

"Barkis is willin'" was the reply of members of the joint ways and means committee when all four fair financing measures were dumped back into the house's lap today.

But if fair proponents insist on some sort of financing scheme it has to be decided upon at once.

Bills for the regulation of highway stage lines were reported practically ready for action.

State House, Salem, Dec. 21.—One bill and one resolution introduced into the senatorial hopper on Monday, the opening day of the special session, were speeded on their way to the house yesterday afternoon, after having passed the upper house.

The bill was Senator Upton's measure expunging money acquired under the soldiers' bonus law from debts contracted prior to enactment of the bonus law.

The favored resolution was that introduced by the live county delegates, providing a means for the payment of warrants outstanding on December 31, 1921, through the creation of a special levy of 2 mills for that purpose.

Six vetoed bills of the 19 returned to the senate this morning from the last regular session by the way-side this afternoon when the senators, acting upon the recommendations of the several committees which they had been referred, voted to sustain the governor's veto.

The six executed measures were:

S. B. 257, by Upton and Representatives Burdick and Westing, relating to salaries of Klamath county officials.

S. B. 259, by Upton—Providing for the appointment of a commissioner for the co-operative marketing of meats.

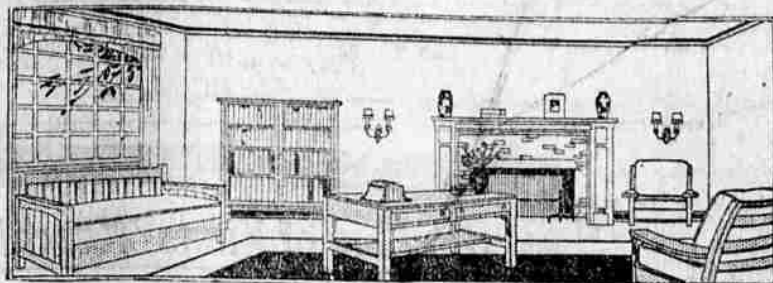

S. B. 268, by Ellis—Relating to salaries of Harney county officials.

S. B. 328, by committee on revision of laws—Amending statutes relating to how conveyance of land shall be made.

S. B. 327, by committee on revision of laws—Amending statutes relating to reports and license fees of corporations and stock companies.

S. B. 374, by judiciary committee—Establishing liability of abstractors, etc.

SAYS AMERICAN WORKING GIRLS HIGHEST TYPE

By CHAS. McCANN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 21.—Business girls in America do not bob their hair nor smoke. That is, if Miss E. MacDonald, British delegate to the International Congress of Working Women at Geneva, obtained the correct impression of American business life from American delegates.

Miss MacDonald has returned to London enthusiastic over the American girl office worker.

"Many American women were at the conference," she said. "They struck me as being more alive than those of any other nation."

"The American girls, I was told, are very difficult to organize into unions because none of them intend to remain as routine workers. A girl goes into a business as a junior typist and before long she is assistant to the head of the firm."

"But it doesn't do for her to bob her hair or smoke."

"I was much impressed by the opportunities of promotion which girls have in America. They are better paid than the clerks here. Many of them came to Europe for a holiday. Their firms gave them leave for the purpose—it is looked on as part of their business education."

"One girl I met, who is employed by an association which disseminates literature among the universities, had been given nine months' leave to come to Europe. The representative of the waitresses of America told me that they are either very badly paid or very well paid. The two extremes often exist in cafes side by side."

"Miss Zung, the Chinese delegate, told me that the Chinese suffragettes have lately been fighting the police. Some of the Chinese girls are now ticket inspectors on the railways, and many are typists."

FANCY NAMES FOR THE GIRL BABIES

Denver, Dec. 21.—The good old names of Lucy, Jenny, Mary and Molly had no favor among young parents of girl babies in Denver.

Future debutantes of Denver will be known as Shirley, Lorraine, Elizabeth and the four species Catherine, Cathryn, Katherine and Kathryn.

Investigation of the birth records of the city shows that the Shirleys and Lorraines have it by a large majority. They even win over the 1800 models of Thelma and Maurine.

The male partners for the Shirleys and Lorraines in 1940 Denver society will be known as Robert and Joseph. These two, the records show, are far out in front of Edward, William, James and Thomas.

Good old John is being supplanted, officially on the records by Jack. Algernon, Hector and Ethelberts are extremely scarce.

GIRL TRADES KISS FOR PLACE IN LINE

Denver, Colo., Dec. 21.—A pretty girl walked into the post office here today and greeted at the prospect of waiting an hour to mail a package when she saw the long line before the window.

"What will Ralph think when I can't meet him?" she exclaimed.

"Well, what will you give me for my place?" asked a man near the head of the line. "One big kiss," the girl said.

The kiss was given, the girl took her place near the head of the line and the smiling man took the last position.

Cardinal Logue Not Friend of Republics

Belfast, Dec. 21.—Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, in an interview published recently is quoted as having made a striking declaration of the attitude of the Church toward republics. The Cardinal is declared to have said he disliked republics because there was too much political corruption in them.

He had expressed this opinion to President Roosevelt in Washington, but ad-ed that he did not regard the United States as a republic, at least in the ordinary sense of the word, because an American president had far more power than any ruler ever had in old Europe except the Czar of Russia.

The Cardinal is reported to have said he was certain the Irish settlement would have the indorsement of the Irish people, because they were sick of bloodshed.
