Common garden sage, brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of mess.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger.

Industrial Survey Shows Factories of Lane Lead In Total Sales Volumes

be successful here. The following list of industries needed, were suggested: Furniture factory, sash and door factory, wool shirt and pants factory, tannery and glove factory, meat packing plant, milk products factory, preserve and fruit products factory.

Three Facts to Consider.
When considering a new industry to locate in Lane county, whether or not conditions are right for it to be successful should be of prime consideration, point out managers of plants already here. There are three principal conditions to be considered in selecting a site for a new industry. These are the raw materials, the proximity of the market and transportation. In general it might be presumed, and it is mainly agreed by those already in the manufacturing business here, that new industries dependent upon lumber and agricultural raw products are the ones which will be successful in Lane county. The real problem with nearly all Lane county's present industries is that of marketing. Raw products, power and transportation can generally be had in abundance, but the market is not always near at hand. This is because western population is comparatively sparse and because inland transportation must be transposed and thousands of miles to the dense centers of population where the demand generally is. The marketing situation will gradually become better with increased population in the west and a decrease in the raw products supply in the east.

Table Holds Statistics.
A great deal of good can be done by constructive boosting of the industries Lane county has. That she has many industries with large payrolls and business turnover has been proved by this survey. Following is a table showing the number employed, the annual business turnover of each general line:

	No. Emp.	Pay-roll	Business Turnover
Farming—
Farmers—	3300	$2,300,000	$ 6,000,000
Farm Hired	2500	100,000
Manufacturing—
Sawmills and camps	2000	2,000,000	4,000,000
All Other Industries	1077	770,000	4,900,000
Public Service—
Railroads, Water, Gas and Telephone	650	780,000	3,000,000
Wholesale—
Traveling Salesmen	125	300,000
Live Wholesale Houses	48	90,000	2,100,000
University of Oregon—
Employed	200	500,000
Students Spend	9900	$8,200,000	$21,000,000

An explanation of the items in the above table may clear up any points not readily understood. There are 3300 farmers in Lane county, and it has been shown that the annual income of each farm is $1800. For convenience of this table $1000 has been arbitrarily charged to farmer's wages. That there are employed on the farms 2500 people at a wage of $400,000 is found out from the census, making the total farm payroll $2,300,000. Two thousand people are employed in the lumber industry and 1077 in the other industries with payrolls totaling $2,770,000. One hundred and twenty-five traveling salesmen make their headquarters in Eugene but the amount of their sales are unknown. The University of Oregon was included in the totals of this survey strictly to show from an industrial standpoint how much money it brings into the county. Faculty and other employees draw $500,000 salary yearly and it is estimated that the 2000 students spend $500 each in Eugene increasing the city's income $1,000,000.

SIX WOMEN DRAWN ON J. J. CHASE JURY

Six women and six men, the first half and half jury to set in circuit court, have been drawn in the case of the state against J. J. Chase, indicted on a statutory offense. The last jurors were drawn this morning. Judge G. F. Skirwath overruled the contentions of Potter, Foster and Immel, attorneys for Chase, that the new jury law was unconstitutional. The jury was drawn according to the new law which requires that at least half of the jurors be women in sex cases where the complaining witness is less than 18 years old.

The jury visited the scene on Camp Creek this afternoon where Chase, an elderly man, is said to have committed the crime on a young girl. The jurors in the case are as follows: Ivy Davidson, Nora Plank, Minnie Anderson, Eva Taylor, Minnie Bond, Sue Davis, Elmer H. Ross, Thomas Seroggs, Gilbert Tyson, James Laxton, Charles M. Emery and Arthur Parle.

Six women and one man were excused in the case before the jury was obtained. Eight and a half barrels of flour were donated Thursday by members of the Marion county Realtors association for the relief of starving Russians in the Volga valley.

COMPLIMENTS KLAN
Astoria, Ore., March 13.—Thirty men, shrouded in the robes of the Ku Klux Klan, Sunday night presented themselves at the First Methodist Episcopal church, sending a note asking for admission to Rev. Melville T. Wire, pastor.

Upon receiving permission, the Klansmen marched down the aisle to the pulpit and placed in Rev. Wire's hand a sum of money and a letter.

The procession left the church again without uttering a word. The minister read the letter, which commended him and pledged him the support of the Klan in his stand for "100 per cent pure Americanism."

Rev. Wire acknowledged the gift and praised the work of the Klan.

FLOATING PALACE OF LIQUOR PLANNED

New York, March 11.—Operation of a ship loaded with liquor and lovely women from foreign shores just outside of the jurisdiction of the United States, was the plan of the newly-formed International Ticket corporation. The plan was outlined in four circulars printed by the corporation and which recently came to the attention of Ralph A. Day, prohibition officer in Washington.

Mr. Day has said he would study the circulars and confer with his colleagues in Washington about them. The Recreation Ticket corporation, in which Captain James V. Martin is the moving spirit, took out articles of incorporation on January 23, but, according to Captain Martin's own statement today, it has not desired any publicity. With Captain Martin, who is engaged in building aircraft at his own plant in Garden City, the incorporators are Edward A. Kelly, also an aviator and now connected with the Aerial Transport corporation of 505 Fifth avenue, and Charles W. Brewster of 614 West 157th street.

Capital to Be $100,000
The concern is to have a capital stock of $100,000, consisting of 10,000 shares of common stock at $10 each, and the articles of incorporation state that it begins business with $1000 capital. Captain Martin has 60 shares, it is said, and Kelly and Brewster ten each.

One paragraph in one of the circulars reads as follows: "By arrangements with the federal prohibition enforcement office, the vessel's police and patrol service will co-operate with the United States authorities to prevent any intoxicating liquors from passing from the recreation vessel to United States territory; and in all matters affecting the vessel's status, she will be entirely law-abiding and conducted upon such a high plane of wholesome amusement that no reasonable person will be able to take offense."

Arrangement Is Denied.
It is this paragraph which particularly interested Commissioner Day and caused him to take the circulars to Washington. Commissioner Day declared that no "arrangement" as alleged by the circular had been made with his office here.

Foreign Flag to Be Flown.
The vessel itself, said Captain Martin, while flying the flag of some foreign nation, will be owned and operated by a second corporation, yet to be incorporated, but the expense of purchasing, outfitting and operating the craft is to be borne by American capital. There are, he said, five guarantors, all Americans, for this project, men of wealth and wide business interests. Captain Martin said that he could not divulge their names for the present, "because their interests are so wide that they cannot afford to be humiliated by the 'dregs' who will probably object to the plan."

A third corporation, said he, is to be formed for the purpose of owning and operating the fleet of tenders that will take to the dream ship, the millions who thirst for physical and spiritual recreation. This concern, he said, will probably be headed by Captain James McAlister of McAlister Brothers, lighterage contractors of 21 State street.

Name of Ship Not Disclosed.
While refusing to disclose the name of the "floating palace of delight," the country in which it is to be registered, Captain Martin asserted that the vessel has already been selected and that its register is upwards of 20,000 tons. When its rose garden, dancing floors and recreation halls have been completed, its cost will have reached $10,000,000, he asserted. He admitted that he had not the $10,000,000 himself, but asserted that his anonymous associates could easily supply it.

"We are not going to have any bedrooms on that boat," said he earnestly. "Of course, there will be staterooms in which anyone who is taken ill on board can be attended, but no other visitors can get rooms. The ship will be policed better than the best hotels."

ENGLISH LACKING IN SPORT ETHICS

By R. P. HOLLAND, Vice-President American Game Protective Association.

Every gunner has his own idea as to what constitutes sportsmanship. He knows of means that the other fellow employs in killing game that he does not believe are sportsmanlike. At the same time, he may use methods looked down upon as unfair by other shooters. We know many waterfowl shooters who think it perfectly fair to take the first shot at ducks upon the water. We do not think so. To us it is simply putting them with no element of sport attached. It only means a few more birds in the bag and certainly does not require any skill. There is but little possibility for a miss and the game is not given a fair chance.

We have been wanting to look upon the Britisher as always fair in all games and sports. When the United States recent by defeated them in polo they made heroes of our players. They are what we call good sports. In view of all this, how can they tolerate and enjoy the legal methods of hunting waterfowl on the waters adjacent to the British Isles?

We have recently been reading a book on wildfowl written by two British sportsmen. This book describes the different methods used by gunners in Great Britain and lays emphasis on the wonderful sport to be obtained in hunting waterfowl with a punt gun. In the United States, punt guns were formerly used on Chesapeake Bay and other tidal waters, but always by market shooters. We do not believe that any American gunners ever classified this form of shooting as sport.

The authors of this book tell of the sport and exhilaration in sealing upon a flock of resting waterfowl. The gun, which is nothing more or less than a cannon, is fastened to the bow of the boat. Some punt guns are equipped with swivels and so constructed that they may be raised and lowered at will. This permits the gunner to aim the weapon and elevate it for long shots. Other types are fixed to sweep the water at a certain range and the boat instead of the gun is aimed at the ducks.

These guns vary in size and have a bore of 1 inch to 2 1/8 inches in diameter. They weigh from 50 to 200 pounds and are 6 feet 8 inches to 9 feet 6 inches in length. They are loaded with from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 ounces of powder, mark you, not drams—ounces—and they throw from 8 to 40 ounces of shot. Three B's are recommended as the sized shot most effective.

The authors go into much detail in describing the various methods of shooting.
