John Grab, 2539 Jackson Ave., New Orleans, La., writes: My kidneys were weak and had a soreness and dull pain across my back. I felt dull and languid and my kidneys didn't act right. I began taking Foley Kidney Pills and they soon put my kidneys in a sound and healthy condition. Foley Kidney Pills help the kidneys rid the system of acids and waste and cause lameness, backache, sore muscles, swollen joints and rheumatic pains. Tonic in effect, quick in action.

TAXPAYERS FAVOR STATE INCOME TAX

Portland, March 21.—After debating the subject all Monday afternoon the state convention of Oregon Tax Reduction clubs adopted by a vote of 56 to 28 a resolution endorsing a graduated income tax and creating a committee of three to work with the state grange which is preparing an income tax law to be voted on by the voters of the state at the November election.

The negative vote did not represent opposition to an income tax but rather that it was inconsistent with the purpose for which the convention was called, namely the reduction of taxes. Opposition to the resolution would have been stronger had it not been represented that safeguards would be thrown around an income tax law which would insure that the amount raised through the income tax would be deducted from the general property tax, thus relieving the tax burden.

Leading advocates of the resolution were C. E. Spence, Walter M. Pierce, George A. Mansfield, A. I. Mason, Dr. Temple of Umatilla county and Chris Schuebel. Opposed to it were E. Hofer, P. H. D'Arcy and A. B. Leeds, who objected to the principle and others who thought it not the proper time and place for its consideration.

During the debate on the resolution, which did not strictly follow parliament rules, there were many references to the millage taxes. To the defense of these were Walter Pierce, who wanted to know where they could be cut.

Legislature Unpopular.
A lack of confidence in the legislature was also shown by Chairman Cooper and others, who said that it was the purpose to initiate measure of tax reduction rather than depend upon securing it through the legislature.

Opposing the income tax Hofer said "we want no new taxes, we want no new offices. We are suffering from experimentation. Quit playing moonshine politics, quit running in legislatures. Leedy advocated that it would not be necessary to impose a tax on personal incomes if property were assessed at its full value no exemptions except for debt allowed. During his talk some impatience was manifested and an attempt made to shut him off, but he persisted, saying "this has been rankling in my breast for 30 years and if I can get it out of my breast I can go home and get a good night's sleep."

Replying to the argument that if an income tax were put into effect capital would be withdrawn from the state, Mansfield said that if a man with $1,000,000 income should withdraw his capital for that reason the state would be better off without him. Mansfield suggested the appointment of a committee of seven which would cooperate with the state tax investigation commission in securing necessary tax legislation.

Protests Are Heard.
When Dr. Temple of Umatilla, said that the people were responsible for voting high taxes a few protests were voiced among his auditors, who, however, agreed with him when he said that he was in favor of an income tax to catch some of the beneficiaries of high taxes. He advocated a flat instead of a graduated rate.

Endorsing of Marion, was among the opponents of the income tax. He said he thought it was backed by the millage tax interests. "The more money collected, the more will be spent," he said.

Another opponent was Watson of Tillamook, who said he was neither a lawyer or a politician but just a plain ordinary citizen. It was no time for radicalism, he thought. The purpose of the convention as he saw it was not to devise new methods of taxation but to reduce. "If this motion is adopted," he said "we will be a joke."

A. I. Mason of Hood River thought if the present is not a time for radicalism he never expected to see the time during the rest of his life.

"We are here to reduce taxes not to create more," said P. H. D'Arcy. "Why should we mix up with the grange?" He attacked the state millage levies for higher education but disclaimed not being a friend of education.

Schuebel Wants Action.
Chris Schuebel of Clackamas said that the situation demanded action in two directions, first cutting out unnecessary expense and second equalizing taxes.

Defending the millage taxes Walter Pierce justified the salary of President Kerr of the Oregon Agricultural college by comparing it with that of presidents of similar colleges in other states. As to reducing the state tax, he thought that possibly $1,500,000 might be eliminated.

Organization Effected.
A temporary organization was effected at the morning session by the election of J. C. Cooper of McMinnville as chairman and Thomas A. Hayes of Multnomah county as secretary. Before the meeting there was talk of opposition to Cooper, but it melted away when Glen Holman of Dallas, who had been nominated to run against Cooper, withdrew and moved that the election be made unanimous. Holman was made vice-chairman.

The report of the credentials committee showed that 21 counties of the state are represented by approximately 150 delegates.

THANK CRESWELL WOMEN
We wish to thank the women of Creswell for their gracious hospitality. It seems especially wonderful to us because of the small number of members in their society but numbers seem to be of no consequence to them, we have been cared for just as graciously and wholeheartedly as if they had a hundred members. We especially appreciated the use of the children, which shows unusual missionary zeal. We thank you all and wish that we could come again.

As the World Wags

RADIO DEVELOPMENTS give us a new surprise every day. The imagination is fired to make all sorts of forecasts. We can find facts upon which to base prophecy of a time when an occasional telegraph pole will stand as a relic of the past because the ether waves laden with wireless messages will make unnecessary the network of wires which are now such a nuisance in thickly populated places. Probably laws will be made to confer rights to the use of certain wavelengths of ether and that the household will be able to talk at will with those near or far and can at certain hours listen to digests of the day's news from central agencies and hear the living voices and the original performances of great orators and musicians. Already speeches and sermons are broadcast over thousands of square miles to those equipped with receiving instruments.

THESE THINGS become possible with the extended use of the radio because the most important events would be broadcast over the earth to be picked up the next instant by people everywhere. It would seem to leave no field for the artist of mediocre talents because everyone could have the power of hearing grand opera, or great orations or perhaps the debates in legislature or congress. Truly the poor politician never likely to get into the limelight as never before. And churches and preachers would seem to have little excuse for existence.

AND YET the wonderfully perfected phonograph has not destroyed the patronage of musicians and it becomes clearer every day that the motion picture has not destroyed interest in the living and speaking actor. Radio development will compel changes and adaptations but we need not fear that anything will ever destroy the vital need of humans for direct personal relations. Radio comes to supplement our power of communication. It will only destroy that which in itself lacks real vitality.
