SOVIET AGAINST TRIBUNAL PLAN

The Russian program already outlined in United Press dispatches, namely:

1—That Russia be granted a loan of $500,000,000.

2—Russia will guarantee the safety of foreigners within her borders in exchange for similar guarantees by other countries.

3—Russia will agree to recognize czarist debts, and those of the Kerensky regime, but will ask for a moratorium and for payment of damage caused by attacks of Wrangel, Denikin, Galichak and other commanders, backed by the allies in futile attacks against the soviet.

4—Russia will insist upon absolute sovereignty and will under no circumstances permit allied supervision of her internal affairs.

Tchitcherin today said the allied plan apparently contemplated a regime of capitulations on the part of Russia.

Lloyd George, it was believed, would introduce a plan for guarantees of non-aggression among European states. This while not infringing upon France's stand regarding limitation of land armaments, would give Europe a breathing spell in which nations could turn their attention to matters other than war.

Germany will also object to the allied experts' proposals regarding finances, it was understood. The German reply was to be submitted today.

Finance Minister Hermès, of the German delegation, declared it was impossible for any country to establish equilibrium of internal budget without considering foreign debts. By this, he alluded to the forbidden subject of reparations.

Sir Robert Horne proposed that an international congress of all European banks issuing paper money be called.

The question of inflated currency was fully dealt with in the experts' plan for financial reconstruction of Europe.

President Rakowsky of Ukraine declared his delegation was fully in accord with the allied report on this question.

Swan St., Albany, N. Y., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough medicine I ever used. Two bottles broke a most stubborn lingering cough." It loosens phlegm and mucus, eases hoarseness, stops tickle-throat, helps "flu" and grip coughs. Sold everywhere.
