

BABIES MAY ACCOMPANY MOTHERS TO JAIL

Convicted in 1919 of strike picketing in violation of a court order these four Chicago women will be compelled to serve sentences of 30 to 50 days as the result of the denial of their appeal. Since their conviction all have married and have had babies. The babies, too young to leave their mothers, will accompany them to jail.

FRATERNITIES MAKE CHANGES IN HOUSES

With the opening of college an event of the near future, many of the living organizations are making rather extensive repairs. Between the closing of the summer session and the opening of the fall term, few students remain in Eugene, and many organizations are taking advantage of the opportunity afforded to remodel living quarters.

The Alpha Chi Omega house at 735 Thirteenth avenue east was issued a building permit allowing repairs amounting to $1800. Saturday, it is the plan of the sorority to enlarge the house in order that more girls may be accommodated.

Friendly hall, the men's dormitory, is also receiving some attention, and some painting and repairing is being carried on in the upper stories.

Sigma Chi plans to recalculate, and refinish before the return of the students. The roof is to be repainted, and the upper floors are being covered with a cork linoleum.

Several organizations will be in new homes this year. Phi Delta Theta has taken the initiative and is the first fraternity to venture a building proposition. The Phi Deltas are running up a three-story colonial home which is to be ready for occupation by October 1. Kappa Theta Chi purchased the Chambers property at 729 Eleventh avenue east, before the spring closing of the university and will occupy the house this fall. It is being remodeled.

The Delta Zeta sorority recently purchased the house previously occupied by Beta Theta Pi at Twelfth avenue east and Mill street. The Betas will move to the Kincaid house formerly occupied by Phi Delta Theta. Before entering the house the Delta Zetas plan some extensive remodeling.

The Sigma Nu house has been repaired inside and out, and is ready for occupation. Several of the members stayed over the summer to superintend the work.

Alpha Tau Omega has a new place on Thirteenth avenue east near the campus. The house was built for them by Hirschel Taylor of the Campa Shoppe, and they have leased it. The building formerly occupied by the fraternities at 1143 Oak is being changed to an apartment house.

The nearness of the college opening is shown by the fact that the few remaining members of the organizations have been working on the grounds around the buildings, and are getting the lawns green again.

GOUGHAM NINES LEAD TWO MAJOR LEAGUES

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) New York, Aug. 21.—With both the Yanks and the Giants back on their feet and in first place again, it begins to look as though the New York Athletics might do the entertaining again this fall in the world series.

The Yanks, in a two club race, look to be better prospects at the present time than the Giants, who have three clubs right on their heels. Babe Ruth has found his swing and when the sweat king is working the Yanks get there. Huggins is getting his pitchers around in shape and he has plenty of them.

The Yanks played the best ball in the league last week, winning four out of six games. The Browns had a heavy week and succeeded in getting an even split in 10 games. Detroit hit a snag and dropped four out of seven, while the Cleveland Indians picked up a little and won four out of seven games. The White Sox, which threatened for several weeks, dropped five out of eight games and looked to wade from the picture.

New York, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Chicago, and Cincinnati all have a chance to win the National League pennant. They have all taken their turn in looking like the dark horses and right now the Cubs are making a great bid. Chicago won seven out of eight games last week while the Cards and the Pirates were cracking.

Pat Moran says he could win the pennant with some good pitching and the same problem applies to the other contenders.

The chances of the Giants, who won four of their six games last week, depend entirely on what McGraw gets out of his pitchers.

RELIEVES SHIPMENT FEAR OF MERCHANTS

The fears of Eugene merchants that new fall goods would be delayed on account of the railroad and other strikes in the east were somewhat relieved today with the announcement of the Southern Pacific company that it would guarantee shipments from New York by the Morgan steamship line to Galveston and thence by rail in less than three weeks.

With the strike situation in this district seemingly no better in the middle west local merchants were beginning to worry about eastern shipments of new fall goods and other shipments as well. Shipments coming from the Atlantic seaboard might not come for many weeks, it seemed if the strike held on.

The following announcement was made today by the Southern Pacific: The local district freight and passenger office of the Southern Pacific announces that it has received many inquiries from merchants regarding movement of fall goods from eastern cities by rail, which movement is, in many cases, being delayed. It is announced that shipments from New York, Philadelphia, Boston, and other principal eastern cities are moving without interruption via the Morgan line from New York to Galveston, thence via rail, giving from sixteen to eighteen days service. It is suggested that merchants having goods coming from any of those points wire their eastern firms to route their shipments via this route in order to avoid delay.

OUTDOOR CLUBS USE NATIONAL FORESTS

News comes from both Oregon and Washington of outdoor clubs starting on hiking and camping trips into the high mountain country of the national forests of these two states.

The Mountaineers of Washington, 90 strong, are now in the Mount Adams region of the Columbia National forest, where they will spend several weeks exploring the glaciers of that region as well as the interesting Goat Rocks region of the Rainier National forest and the Yakima Indian reservation.

The Mazamas of Oregon just returned from the Three Sisters country of the Cascade and Deschutes National forests, where they enjoyed the wonders of that region.

Each summer the several well known mountaineering clubs of the northwest spend several weeks in camping and exploring on some national forest or in scaling some mountain peak. Other well known outdoor clubs of the northwest are the Cascadians, and Pine and Sagebrush clubs of Yakima, the Klallam club of the Olympics, Washington; the Trails club of Portland, the Grizzlies of Medford, and the Angoras of Astoria, Oregon.

The members of these clubs, forest officers say, are doing a fine work in spreading the gospel of the outdoors and the doctrine of being careful with fire in the woods as well as the safeguarding of the public health. The accepted slogan of one of these clubs is "Leave a Clean Camp and a Dead Fire", to which all users of the forests could well subscribe, forest officers say.

SUMMER BRINGS FEW FIRES INTO CASCADES

N. F. Maduff, supervisor of the Cascade forests, returned from Oakridge today to make an airplane trip over the forests of his districts. Owing to the cloudy weather he postponed his trip until later.

Few fires of importance have been found in Maduff's district this year, he says. Five were the result of lightning, and two resulted from carelessness. The largest had an area of an acre and a half when it was discovered.

The chief work of the department this year has been that of trail making, and sign posting. The trails are covered on cyclometers, and at each mile a sign is posted. This is an advantage in the use of men who do not know the country when making fires, according to Maduff. By the end of next summer the signs will be posted on all trails near Eugene.

Much trail building has been accomplished this summer. The men working on the Hill creek trail finished last Saturday. This was the third year of work on the trail. It now extends from Kitson springs to Diamond lake, a mile and a half from Yoran mountain. The Alpine trail has also been completed, and branches are being built to connect with it from the north and south forks of Winberry creek. The Echo creek trail and the Foley ridge trail are also well under way.

A party of three men under the direction of Large Weonsted is working in the eastern Cascades near the Three Sisters gathering data for a new map to be issued next summer. They will work down into the Umpqua region next.

NEW PROGRESSIVE PARTY ORGANIZED

Portland, Aug. 21.—Despite persistent efforts of hecklers to prevent it, the progressive party of Oregon shed its swaddling clothes Saturday and blossomed forth as a political child, promising to take an active part in future political activities in the state.

Permanent officers were in charge of the meeting Saturday, having been appointed at a meeting some weeks ago. A committee empowered to call county and state conventions, such call to be made within ten days, had also been appointed.

A membership list was thrown open and about 75 of the 300 who were present signed on the dotted line, thus insuring for themselves a voice in the conventions to be held.

Treasurer to Be Nominated. While the new progressive party plans to endorse candidates already nominated for state and county officers for the November election, one exception will be made, that of the office of state treasurer.

Norman S. Richards, state chairman of the new party, announced that he could not give the real reason why the committee had decided to pick a man to run on the progressive ticket for state treasurer, but that within a few days all would know.

Failure to let the folks gathered at the meeting "in on the secret" did not please H. D. Wagoner and Sanford Macdonald, two political warriors, who made remarks throughout the meeting that did not harmonize with the program outlined by the committee.

Matter Held Personal. Chairman Richards explained at some length that the reason for choosing a candidate for state treasurer was a personal matter that could not be revealed to the public at this time.

"You'll all know, if you know what I did you wouldn't ask that question?" Indorsement of the compulsory school bill and prohibition of alien land ownership in Oregon are two planks that will be inserted in the progressive party program, according to an announcement made on the floor by Fred L. Gilbreath, state head of the clan, one of the speakers to the call for the meeting. His announcement was greeted with loud and prolonged applause.
