EUGENE NINE WINS, HARRISBURG BEATEN

Eugene's win and Harrisburg's loss of yesterday will make the game to be played here next Sunday a championship contest. If Eugene wins the contest next week, the two leading teams will again be tied for the first honors in the Willamette valley league.

The Eugene nine yesterday met the Goshen team here and won the game by a 4 to 1 score. The game was tight and fast throughout. The Goshen men put up a hard fight, and the game was not sewed up until the last period. The batteries for the day were: Eugene, Holman and Holman; Goshen, Knight and Gilbert.

Harrisburg lost to Roseburg in a hard fought 7-6 contest, played at Harrisburg.

The game scheduled for next Sunday is slated as that last of the season mixes, but if Eugene wins, a tie in the standings will result. It is very probable that if this happens, a post-season game will be arranged to settle the championship.

The Harrisburg-Roseburg game was hard fought throughout with Roseburg getting a three-run lead in the first inning. Harrisburg players made seven errors which were largely due for their defeat. Batteries were: Harrisburg, Blevins, Roe and Smith; Roseburg, Taggert, Street and Devine.

Sutherlin won from Yoncalla by a score of 2 to 1 in a ten inning game played at Sutherlin yesterday in which the Sutherlin pitcher struck out 19 men.

S. P. Man to Talk on Methods of Farming

A lecture on the development of the Imperial valley, Yakima valley and other irrigation projects and the application of agricultural methods used in these sections to the Willamette valley will be given by E. F. Davis, at the regular membership meeting of the Eugene Chamber of Commerce next Monday. Mr. Davis is in the train service department of the Southern Pacific and while he travels extensively and spends most of his time in the southwest he maintains his residence in Lane county where he has a small farm on the McKenzie river.

Mr. Davis is in possession of interesting crop production figures in the Imperial valley since it was reclaimed from a desert 22 years ago and also many ideas on what conditions go toward making real agricultural development in the west.

Victims of Wreck Reported Very Low

Seattle, Aug. 21. — Bravely holding their own, Patrolmen Fred Mills and F. H. Davey, injured in Saturday morning's crash between a police auto and a street car, remained in the hospital today. Both are in the same condition as when they were taken there. Patrolman G. C. Jensen, and Investigator Robert Kernan are recovering. Mills and Davey are possibly fatlly hurt having sustained fractured skulls and internal injuries. In a moment of consciousness, Saturday night Mills admitted to Chief of Police Severns that he was driving too fast, in a hurry to get home after a vigil on Lake Union to catch a booze smuggling gang.

FAIR BOOSTER FLEET GOES THROUGH CITY

On the last leg of their 1400 mile journey through the state of Oregon, the Portland automobile caravan of 1925 Fair boosters arrived in Eugene Saturday night and held a meeting in the east park.

George L. Baker, mayor of Portland, and George L. Rauch, president of the Portland Ad club, made the principal speeches, and asked the people of Eugene to cooperate with the rest of the state in putting over the 1925 fair. Cooperation is the essential thing, and without it the state cannot hope to carry through the great project, according to Baker.

The people of the state do not realize the undeveloped resources of the outlying parts, said Mr. Baker. The members of the caravan were astounded to see the possibilities in Oregon. The only way to develop the country is through bringing others here, and that is what the fair will do. "We must sell Oregon to the world," said Portland's mayor.

Rauch emphasized the fact that it was the duty of the young men of Oregon to aid. The young men will reap the benefits and they must pull together to make the celebration a success, he said.

The members of the Fair caravan are not asking for money, according to Baker. They merely ask that the state assist them to pass a constitutional amendment at the next election which will allow the city of Portland to tax itself to pay for the fair. They ask moral support and the granting of this measure.

The caravan ran on schedule time all through the state. One car acted as pilot to select the proper roads. The car following was the pace maker, and set the speed for the party. Next in order came the mayor's car, and the other nine followed in line. Two motorcycle policemen kept ahead to clear the road. The caravan carried a radio broadcasting outfit, and the speakers talked into a receiver which carried their messages over the state as well as to the individual audiences.

Cameras were carried which took both moving pictures and still views during the trip.

The party was met at Cottage Grove by L. L. Ray, president of the Eugene Chabmer of Commerce, Eugene Chadwick secretary of the organization, Melvin Hansen, president and Robert Morse of the Realty board. The caravan left Eugene at 9:30 a. m. Sunday morning.

Fiddle Creek Opens First Fall School

The first fall term of school in Lane county opened today when Miss Mary Moore opened the school in the Fiddle Creek district No. 170. Miss Moore is a last year's graduate of the University of Oregon. The Fiddle Creek district is in southwestern Lane county and because of poor transportation which makes it hard for the children to attend school during the winter months the directors opened the school early.

From now on rural schools will open every week until all districts have schools running.

YOUNG STICKELS ALMOST ARRESTS HOTEL MANAGER

Sheriff Fred Stickels and young son, Emerson Stickels are in Los Angeles today where the sheriff is attending a hearing in the fight of Katheryn Estell Emmons, "the bandit queen," to resist extradition. The woman is wanted here on a grand jury indictment of robbing the W. H. Jewett home and the Standard Oil station. If she fails in her efforts to resist extradition Sheriff Stickels will bring her back to Eugene for trial.

That young Stickels is making his authority felt in California is evident from the following article, printed in around the lobbies column of the San Francisco Examiner:

Elbert Emerson Stickels, the world's youngest police officer," a fair-haired, handsome blue-eyed youngster of seven years, yesterday almost arrested Harry Annan, assistant manager of the Palace.

It was through Annan's promise "to be good," made with a "bribe" of a piece of gum, that the hotel man escaped imprisonement.

Annan misstepped when he approached young Stickels, son of Sheriff Fred Stickels of Lane county, Oregon, with a mild censure for a bellboy who was playing with the youngster.

An hour passed and Annan was sitting at his desk, where young Stickels approached him and made himself known.

"Say,' the lad began, "did you know when you started to scold a while ago you got in the wrong pew?"

"No, I didn't,' Annan commented. "What is wrong?"

"I just want to tell you," young Stickels continued, "that I am deputy sheriff, speed cop and private detective of Lane county, Oregon."

Somewhat startled by the lad's announcement, Annan asked what was to be done to rectify his mistake.

"I haven't quite made up my mind,' said young Stickels. "You'll have to keep out of the wrong pew, but if you'll promise to be good for a week I'll give you a piece of gum."

So the promise was given and the gum handed over.

At this juncture the boy observed the approach of a man, and announced:

"Well, Mr. Manager, I'm through. Here's the sheriff."

The episode closed with the departure of the sheriff and the deputy sheriff, speed cop and private detective to their room.

BOY FINDS REAL PARENTS; FAIRY STORY IS ENDED

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The end of the fairy story was near today for Robert William Ross with the promise that he would live "happily ever after."

Ten years ago Robert was left on a doorstep in Joliet, Ill. He was turned over to the St. Vincent's orphanage here. For a time he was placed in the custody of Mrs. Ethel Hand.

Mrs. Hand discovered her husband and went to San Francisco where the waif was turned over to Police Captain William Ross and his wife. The chubby boy won the hearts of the couple and he was legally adopted and made heir to their $50,000 estate.

A year ago St. Vincent's located him and brought him back to Chicago, alledging that the adoption was illegal and Mrs. Hand had no right to take the boy from Illinois.

A few weeks later the boy's "really, truly" parents found him and took him east.

The end of the story was written yesterday when Judge Timothy Hurley denied a writ of habeas corpus instituted by Mrs. Ross.

Today Robert was on his way home again. Identity of the real parents was withheld, at the orphanage.
