Sunday Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hemenway, Mrs. Carrie Hemenway and James Wallace motored to Xenalia by the oldest road south between Astoria and Coquille's valley. The road has been graded this summer and in time will be a splendid highway. There are many fine ranches along the way after Douglas city is reached. Returning a stop was made at the Boswell springs where the Hellwell brothers are building a new hotel. Fred Strom, formerly of the London springs, has charge of the place. It promises to be one of the finest summer resorts in Oregon when it is finished and the water of the springs is of high medicinal value. The doctors of Cottage Grove have assured Mr. Strom their patients will be sent to them.

More than 1500 people attended the camp meeting Sunday. Bishop Shepard preached from the text "A man of rest" and was acquainted with grief. From 500 to 1000 people have been on the camp grounds continuously since the beginning of the meetings.
