TRAINMEN NAB MAN BELIEVED SLAYER OF BOY

Bonjoni, the boy's uncle. "I was just going to beat him up with a club. I had the club there but when I told him to hold still he wouldn't do it. I shot the boy because they stuck pretty close together," Starin is alleged by officers to have said in his confession.

According to the officers Starin told his story calmly to Sheriff Dycous show little or no nervousness.

"I worked for the old man Bonjoni for two weeks about two or three years ago and he never paid me," said Starin according to the authorities.

"He owed me about $10, so I went there Monday and waited around. I grabbed one of the girls and took her out to the old man. That's all. I would not do any dirty tricks. Then I went around the barn Tuesday night and saw the old man and I told him to stand still and he wouldn't do it."

Olympia Fiend Sought. Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 21.—Olympia citizens who last week were members of the posse that searched for the man who outraged the O'Hara family at Schneider's Prairie, were pressed into service again on Thursday to aid in the search for the fiend who Wednesday afternoon forced Mrs. M. O. Weidman, 25 of this city, into the bedroom of her home, threatening to kill her if she screamed, and poured the contents of a bottle of iodine down her throat when she resisted. The assailant disappeared when Mrs. Weidman cried out her husband was expected any moment. Armed policemen and citizens were making an effort to cut off every possible means of escape, but had failed.

Will descriptions tally in many respects, and the assailant had several weeks' growth of beard on his face, it was doubted Thursday whether the man who attacked Mrs. Weidman was the same fiend who attacked the O'Hara family two weeks ago.

CAPTAIN BELIEVES HE IS PERSECUTED

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 20.—Charges that there was falsification of department of justice records and tampering with the records of the war department and that he could have had the matter dropped last spring by approving of the way the department of justice handled the case, were contained in a letter written to Major Robert Starr Allen by Captain Robert Rosenbluth, it became known today.

According to the letter received by Major Allen, who is a prominent member of the veterans of foreign wars, Rosenbluth believes he is being persecuted. He claims the matter would have been dropped completely if he had signed a statement approving the department of justice conduct of the case.

He also quotes the United States attorney general as saying, "The federal government has no jurisdiction in this case."

Further witnesses in the case were being examined before the grand jury Wednesday morning. Those who appeared Tuesday were:

Dr. C. M. Terry and Dr. E. A. Lupton, of Los Angeles, and Dr. Elmer Seaborg of Peoria, Ill.; W. F. Dunn and James H. Lee, department of justice agents who took part in the preliminary investigation of the case, testified before the jury Tuesday morning.

BASEBALL STARS OF OTHER DAYS IN CHARITY GAME AT BOSTON

Baseball fans of twenty-five years ago would have gloried in watching teams of diamond stars of former years cavorting around Braves field, Boston. In a special charity game played there on Monday, Sept. 11th, dim years were rolled back, and the diamond stars engaged in a game to a few years ago; Jimmy Barry and that was finally won by the old time American leaguers captained by Jimmy Collins. Upper photo: Three old timers who are not entirely strangers to ball fans today. From left to right, are Bill Carrigan, who managed the Red Sox up to 1911, dim years were rolled back, and the diamond stars engaged in a game to a few years ago; Jimmy Barry and

CHARITY CALLS NOT MANY, SAYS MATRON

Times must be better—people must be more prosperous. That is the belief of Mrs. M. S. Ady, police matron, who says that calls for charity are not nearly so numerous as they generally are this time of year.

For the past six weeks this lack of calls for help has been noticed. Hop picking and summer work have provided work for a good many women, she points out. In this way, family earnings are augmented considerably.

Generally, at the time school starts in the fall, her office is flooded with calls, but only 10 have come in in the past six weeks. Ordinarily there are twice that many, she says.

Oriental Will Invade Junction Saturday

Members of Akols sanatorium, Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection, plan a regular booster visit to Junction City Saturday night at which time the big Oriental meeting there, on September 29, will be "talked up."
