

ASK COURT TO VIEW PART SIUSLAW ROAD

A request to take over the second section of the Mapleton-Cushman road, being built along the Siuslaw river by the Southern Pacific company (operator), has been received by the county court from the railroad. The court will inspect the road next week and make its decision as to whether it comes up to specifications.

The second section is three miles long extending from Tom Neely's place to Beck station. The first section, a mile and three-fourths long, was taken over by the county several weeks ago. There are three more sections to the road yet to be built.

Judge W. S. Worden, of Portland, right-of-way agent of the Southern Pacific, is now at Mapleton arranging for the inspection which the railroad expects will mean the court's acceptance.

The Siuslaw road is being built by the railroad to replace the old wagon road used for the Coos Bay branch in 1913. The county is giving $10,000 toward the construction.

Walter Pierce Favors Severance Timber Tax

Corvallis, Ore., Oct. 21.—Advocating a severance tax on timber removed in the future from the state timber reserves, and a graduated state income tax as new reservoirs of government revenue whereby the tax burden now resting on the farmer and others may be more equitably distributed, Walter M. Pierce, democratic candidate for governor, set forth his ideas in a forceful manner in an address here Friday night.

The meeting was the most enthusiastic political gathering held here in years. The court room was filled to capacity with an audience in which both republicans and democrats were represented. Great enthusiasm prevailed and Mr. Pierce was frequently interrupted with applause. A. G. Walter, Benton county democratic chairman, presided and introduced Mr. Pierce.

"Our two biggest items of expense are our roads and our schools," Pierce declared. "Our roads we will not give up and our schools we must not give up; so we must reach out and pipe in the springs of government revenue that should be flowing into the public treasury, thereby lessening the load on those who are bearing their undue share and creating a fund for further development and growth."

"For 17 years I have been coming to Corvallis frequently to meet with the board of regents and help shape the policy that has made the greatest institution of learning of its kind west of the Mississippi. I have been a part and parcel of this institution and have seen the growth from less than 500 students to the 4000 that will be enrolled here this year. The little village with muddy streets, without mountain water and the modern conveniences, has within my time as a member of the board of regents become the charming, novel, progressive, modern city of Corvallis.

Predicts Great Future. "I congratulate you upon your magnificent growth and firmly believe that within a very few years your 800 people today will become 20,000 and this institution of which we are all so proud, with its enrollment this year of more than 4000, will carry a regular attendance of 10,000 or more.

"Conditions are such that we are desirous of continuing to be the leading agricultural college west of the Mississippi river. From a military standpoint we are second today only to West Point. Looking toward the west as the prophetical management of our government, undoubtedly it must see the necessity for the development here of a military training school that will only be exceeded by that of the parent school at West Point. I will remember the day that Superintendent Ackerman said: 'Walter Pierce, you will live to see the day when there will be 5000 students at Corvallis.' It did not seem possible to me, but it is here in the very near future. How are we to care for them? furnish them light, heated buildings, equipment, instructors and all the many things that enter into the cost of such an institution? It is indeed one of the problems of the future where the money is to come from if the demand continues to grow.

Wants More Timber Taxes. "Practically one-third of Oregon's magnificent forests are in timber reserves, contributing today no part to the expense of state government, but costing us many dollars to maintain order and assistance in fire protection. As timber is removed and is shipped to foreign countries and other states, why should it not pay to the state a severance tax that would relieve the overburdened taxpayer and give us money for future development?"

Income Tax Fair Way. "I have always believed in an income tax, and I believe we ought to have one in Oregon. I have written two such bills, one through the state senate, only to see them defeated in the house. I know of no fairer way to collect revenues for public expenditure than to apportion it on ability to pay. If a man has an extremely profitable piece of property and another has a piece of property equally as expensive, the first one a large net revenue bearer, and the second operating at a loss, why should not the burden of government fall heavier on the large revenue producing property than one that is operating at a loss?"

Cafeteria Brides Are Latest Thing

New York, Oct. 21.—This season's brides and brides-to-be are not interested in the stars. If the cooking classes through the state senate, only to see them defeated in the house. I know of no fairer way to collect revenues for public expenditure than to apportion it on ability to pay. If a man has an extremely profitable piece of property and another has a piece of property equally as expensive, the first one a large net revenue bearer, and the second operating at a loss, why should not the burden of government fall heavier on the large revenue producing property than one that is operating at a loss?"

But with the rise in home sewing there seems to have come a decline in home cooking. More brides keep on carrying their own living after marriage and do not have time nor energy to prepare three meals a day, it is said. Besides, the caterers have made eating out very popular.

service in a cafeteria is much simpler and not much more expensive than self service for two from the kitchenette to the table. It may be that the new-fashioned brides believe that cooks are born, not made, or perhaps they are influenced by the health commissioner that delicatessen foods are superior in certain respects to foods prepared from the larder of the average New York flat.

Great Mansions Are Donated to Movies

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—Slamming the door of his luxurious limousine the hero strides up the stately stone staircase. The man, who is also acquainted with southern California, is anxious to see the film star walk as if he owned the place directly into the portals of the exclusive Beekman mansion, home of the gymnasium monarch.

The picture becomes more complicated. Watering across extensive lawns and down into the terraced garden where the fountain plays, the heroine waits. But anyone who recognizes the scenery will know that she is sitting amid the lavish surroundings of the estate of J. Pecker Dulack, who is not noted for entertaining the film colony.

In the explanation of these scenes is disclosed probably the most original charitable system in operation today. Conceived in San Francisco by boosters who wished to lure the film industry northward, the plan gained rapid favor and resulted in what is known as the Assistance League.

It was first started in order to gain the film colony interest in the fashionable estates at Burlingame and San Mateo. From San Francisco the idea spread to Los Angeles.

In their search for attractive "sets" for movie scenes, Hollywood directors often coveted some of the more exclusive places in the locality which they could not possibly hope to "rent" for an afternoon. Someone suggested the San Francisco plan of making it a charity, and solved the Assistance League.

Membership in the league consists in registering your home and grounds and open for arrangement for use in the filming of motion pictures. This service is paid for at very liberal rates, but according to the direction of the property owner, all or a portion of the money is given to the Assistance League fund which is used entirely in charitable work.

The idea at once became popular and most of the big estates and fine residences are open to the movies in this manner. At the same time a large fund for charity is raised. But the idea has enlarged to including not only fine estates and houses, but has extended to include property of any sort, so that it also becomes a means of revenue for people of small means who own a few acres that may be useful to the movies.

A director, being a certain "set" in mind, calls up the Assistance League, described the "set" and is informed if he will accept a "rent" of $100. If he finds it suitable, he may desire a liberal sum paid, the trouble and expense times the expense of building the set.

TELLURIUM, DISCARDED METAL, IS RAISED TO EXALTED VALUE

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.—Unfold wealth awaits the producer of tellurium. A bit of dirty, silver metal discarded in gold mining as refuse, has been raised to exalted value by the announcement that a tellurium compound mixed with gasoline would increase the efficiency of internal combustion engines to a point where every automobile, airplane and motor would have a reborn to stand the strain of the new power.

This discovery is the result of two separate investigations by chemists in widely different lines — the Research Council in an attempt to find uses for telluride and selenium, "useless" metals found with gold, and chemists attempting to find the "kick" of knocking in automobile engines.
