HORRID MURDER DISCOVERED BY PORTLAND COPS (Continued from page one)

The story as told by the woman related how she had met Weir and then Earl, his son, and became friends with both men. About seven o'clock the night of September 23, Mrs. Leary said she went to the Weir boathouse and heard the older man talking to a young girl whom she had noticed on the boat earlier in the day. He was coaxing her, she said, and a scene followed. She watched the entire proceedings through a knot hole in the side of the boat shack. She claims she saw the girl die.

Took Body in Launch

Later the son, Earl, who is 25 years old, came to the boathouse and he and his father tried ineffectually to rouse the girl. They then wrapped her body in a blanket, loaded it in the Weir launch and disappeared in to the river darkness. Later Mrs. Leary told officers, she accused Earl of the deed and he threatened to kill her if she told.

Police said today that they would make every attempt to break down either the woman's story or the man's claim to innocence, and in the absence of the corpse would be forced to resort to strenuous grilling to effect this end. Five detectives were assigned to the case today to make an investigation. Police were holding both Mrs. Leary and Weir today, and were seeking the son, Earl Weir, to obtain his version of the ghastly mystery.

Mary Pickford has voluntarily come forward to help Will H. Hays, movie mogul, make Hollywood the world's model city.

Mary has accepted the position as head of the city planning commission, under the direction of the Hollywood art association. The move is sponsored by the Hollywood chamber of commerce and other civic bodies. Mary today declared that she would fight "to prevent commercial vandalism from settling down in Hollywood."

"The eyes of the world are on Hollywood," said Mary, who for the first time since the war lent her influence and name to a public movement. "During our last trip abroad we heard more about this little unpretentious suburb resting against the California hills than we did about any other American city. And for that reason, if no other, we should do everything possible to make Hollywood a model city."

Will H. Hays, head of the motion picture industry, has lost his way again because of his garden of Roscoe Arbuckle, the Hollywood Citizen, the daily paper of the movieland town, declared editorially today.

The work of Will Hays in improving conditions in the motion picture industry came to an end yesterday in his announcement that Fatty Arbuckle would be put back on the screen again.

In Los Angeles, however, and in the movie colony back Arbuckle's return to filmland was generally greeted with approval, and the opinion expressed that he deserves a chance to work out his own destiny. No ban will be placed on the showing of his films, when they are again put on the market, either in Los Angeles, or Hollywood.

It was reiterated today that no attempt will be made by producers to take fresh storage and put on the market the three pictures Arbuckle had made prior to his arrest, a little over a year ago. Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, district president of women's club said that the executive committee of the Los Angeles federation had reiterated its original position, condemning Arbuckle.

She declared, however, that no further action will be taken but that the club women will wage a "silent campaign" against Arbuckle when his pictures appear on the screen.

"Following a suggestion made by Mr. Hays some time ago we now have a committee which pre-view pictures, and sends out reports to all women's clubs in the country. We only mention the pictures which are good and urge our members to see them. The ones of which we disapprove we refrain from mentioning in any way."

"Our idea is to make box office receipts for the good pictures and to enable every woman for the first time to make up her own mind as to whether or not she will see a picture which is being shown with Arbuckle. The producers see that the pictures are financial failures, they will give him but scant attention."

Portland Undecided

Portland, Dec. 21.—(Westland movie fans and the local censor board shall decide what reception will be accorded Arbuckle's films when they appear on screens here, Mayor Baker told the United Press this morning.

Pennsylvania Open Movies. Philadelphia, Dec. 21.—(The Pennsylvania will open to Fatty Arbuckle's films as far as the state board of censors is concerned, Harry Knapp, the president of the board, said today.

Milwaukee Opposes Pardon. Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 21.—(Fatty Arbuckle's reinstatement as the result of Will H. Hays' pardon yesterday with cold response here. Milwaukee citizens were overwhelmingly against the pardon.

San Francisco Indifferent. San Francisco, Dec. 21.—(San Francisco, where Fatty Arbuckle met his temporary downfall and three times was tried for manslaughter, received news of Arbuckle's "pardon" with comparative indifference. Here and there was a note of condemnation for "Fatty" and there was as much said in his defense.

"I think such action is breaking faith with our children," declared Mrs. Torrey Conners, president of the California Writers' club.

"I am greatly pleased with Mr. Hays' action," said Gavin McNab, who defended Arbuckle. "Roscoe Arbuckle never was guilty; he has suffered much and now he again can give to the world the clean type of films for which he was noted."

"It is no concern of ours," was the announcement from the district attorney's office. "This office merely did its sworn duty in prosecuting Mr. Arbuckle."
