

Prominent Contractor Now Gives Out Facts

John Thorn Suffered 10 Years With Stomach Trouble But Feels "Fit As A Fiddle," He Declares, Since Tanlac Entirely Restored Health.

"It certainly was a lucky day for me when I got Tanlac, for it's got me feeling better and stronger than I have in over ten years," said John Thorn, well known contractor, residing at 675 Howard St., San Francisco, Cal. "For ten years or more my stomach was in such a fix that no matter what

I ate or how little, it hurt me for hours. I got so run down I felt tired and worn out all the time, even in the morning, for I was so nervous I never slept well. Nights when I came in I just dropped into the first chair I came to. "But I've taken six bottles of Tanlac now and am feeling fit as a fiddle. I never have a touch of indigestion any more. I sleep like a log every night, and that tired, run down feeling is entirely gone and I am full of energy all the time. What Tanlac has done for me makes me glad to recommend it." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

$36,235 CUT MADE IN STATE SALARIES

Salem, Ore., May 21.—Salaries in connection with the conduct of the various state activities under the governor and board of control for the month of April, 1923, aggregated $102,825 as compared with $139,061 for the month of November, 1922, according to a statement prepared by the executive department here Saturday. The comparative monthly reductions in salaries was $36,235. The statement also shows that the number of employees has been reduced from 2252 in November of last year to 1216 in April, 1923. Probably the most drastic saving has been made in the state highway department, where the number of employees has been reduced from 1442 in November, 1922, to 1046 in April of this year. Salaries in this department for the month of April, 1923, were $24,490, as against $127,731 in November of last year. The saving in this department, based on the months set out in the statement, is $29,241.

Grain Employees Reduced.

A marked reduction in the number of employees in the state grain department is set out in the statement. In November, 1922, there were 57 employees in this department, while last April the number had been reduced to 29. Salaries of these employees last November aggregated $8116, while in April of this year the total compensation had been cut to $4463. The monthly saving in this department is $3713.

There were slight salary increases in six departments, including the state corporation commission, Eastern Oregon state hospital, state industrial accident commission, state home for the feeble minded, Oregon state penitentiary and state training school. These increases ranged from $10 to $95 a month.

Report is Issued.

Further Reductions Urged.

In recognition of the savings made by many of the departments the governor today sent to these superintendents the following letter:

"I note from a report submitted to this office that the number of employees in your department has been materially reduced with a corresponding financial saving. It is pleasing to this office to note the saving to the taxpayers of the state. Is it not possible still further to boil down the expense of your department? Please do everything possible consistent with good business principles to effect further reductions."

To superintendents of the various departments that have failed to show a reduction in expenses the governor sent the following letter:

"I note from a report submitted to this office that the number of employees and the salaries paid are approximately the same as in November, 1922. Will you please explain why reductions cannot be made at your institution?"

before being sprinkled again. Four water on some common ground, leave it for several hours, and then dig into it, and you will see for yourself how long it takes water to soak into the ground. Flooding does not make it soak in any faster. For this reason it is best to use sprinklers for watering lawns."

Dean Hale Writes Book On Press Law

"The Law of the Press," a treatise written by William G. Hale, dean of the University of Oregon school of law, and intended primarily as a practical guide for newspaper publishers, editors, and writers, is off the press. The publisher is the West Publishing Co., St. Paul. The book is not limited to a discussion of libel, but covers numerous branches of the law having special bearing on newspaper practice. In this respect the publication is the first of its kind. A few pamphlets and one or two brief books, devoted mainly, if not exclusively, to the law of libel, have constituted the only specific contributions of American law writers to the field of journalism. The most comprehensive and scholarly work on the law of the press, prior to Dean Hale's contribution, was an English volume by Paterson, entitled, "Liberty of the Press, Speech and Public Worship." It was published in 1880 and is now almost unobtainable. Moreover, it is not adapted to present day needs in the United States. Dean Hale's book is intended to aid in keeping newspapers out of litigation rather than to help counsel to win cases, though it is at the same time an authoritative statement of the law as it exists at present in the various states.

Ninth Annual Meet of 4-L Board This Week

Portland, Ore., May 21.—The ninth semi-annual meeting of the board of directors of the 4-L organization will be held Monday and Tuesday, May 21 and 22 in Portland, Oregon.

The 4-L board of directors consists of 12 employees and twelve employers elected by members of the 4-L in the twelve administrative districts into which the lumbering areas of Oregon, Washington and Idaho are divided.

Problems concerning industrial relations in the northwest lumber industry, such as wages, hours of work, overtime, working and living conditions will be considered.

These matters contain difficulties that ordinarily lead to labor troubles, always of great concern to the public.

The freedom from strikes and lock-outs which has been enjoyed by the northwest's major industry for the last four years, and the comparative ineffectiveness of the recent I. W. W. demonstration is conceded to be largely due to the work and influence of the 4-L organization.

In view of prevailing conditions the coming session of the board of directors will be of unusual concern to the industry and the public.

Special measures will be considered for removal of remaining causes of discontent in logging camps and the fair adjustment of wages in relation to market changes.

Expert Gives Rules For Care of Lawns

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, May 21.—Lawns should be drenched when they are watered and then left alone for a few days, said A. L. Peck, professor of landscape gardening and floriculture at the Oregon Agricultural college. A light sprinkling does the grass more harm than good. "Shallow watering forces shallow rooting of grass," said Professor Peck. The tendency of roots is to grow toward the water. If the water does not soak deeper than an inch or two the roots will grow toward it and as the soil will dry out quickly the roots will dry up and die. If enough water is put on the soil in four or five inches, the top part will dry out but there will be water deeper in to supply the roots. "Water soaks in to the ground very slowly, so to gain the best results put a sprinkler on one part of the lawn and go away and forget it for the watering period. Very few persons have the time or patience to hold a nozzle long enough to sprinkle a lawn correctly. The grass should be watered copiously, drenched, part at a time, and then left alone for four or five days. One good plan is to divide the lawn into sections, watering one section for the entire time allowed for that day. Next day water another section and so on until the entire lawn is watered. If properly soaked each section may be left for five or six days

Be Sure of Children's Health

ARE your children healthy? Are they strong and vigorous? Or, are they frail and delicate—pale, under-developed? These latter signs are indications of malnutrition—a condition that exists in one out of every three children in the schools of our nation.

Such children are starving for want of elements necessary for health—elements found in greater proportion in good bread—in BETSY ROSS Bread—than in any other single food. Truly, good bread is a wonderful food, yet few eat enough of it.

But, there are many grades of bread, and to best serve your family's health you should select a bread containing the health giving properties in the right proportions. You will find them in BETSY ROSS—a loaf of unsurpassable quality. Select your bread wisely for "There's a difference in bread." Don't say "bread," say BETSY ROSS.
