SPRINKLER FACTORY MAY MOVE TO CITY; CONFERENCE TODAY

Eugene may become the seat of a new industry, if plans considered by R. Z. Farmer, general manager of the Near-Rain Sprinkler company, with factory now located in Portland, materialize. Farmer was here today looking over the city and was to have a conference with Chamber of Commerce representatives this afternoon that was expected to lead to steps toward bringing the factory here this fall.

The Near-Rain Sprinkler company factory in Portland is a growing concern that has several patents on lawn and garden sprinklers and field irrigation machinery, General Manager Farmer reports. It is selling already, although a young corporation, to the middle western states and the south as well as to the arid regions of the Pacific west and the Rocky mountain states.

Although the present manufacturing plant is located in two one-story buildings that house machine shop and assembling-shipping departments respectively and now employes 10 workmen, the concern is growing and is expected to have from 40 to 50 men on the payroll before many months.

The management of the concern believes Eugene a good central distributing point for the state and for the west with completion of the Natron cut-off to give most ready access to the interior. While the factory is not so large, now is the time to make a move to a better location, the directors believe.

30 CENT TRIAL WILL RECALL '22 DEFLATION

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 21—Financiers and former cabinet officers will be called to testify or sign depositions if former secretary of agriculture E. T. Meredith's thirty cents libel suit against Senator Smith W. Brookhart comes to trial, Brookhart intimated today.

The entire story of the alleged "deflation" of the farms in 1922, will be dragged into court when Brookhart seeks to prove his charges that Meredith sat in the Wall street game and helped produce the greatest panic in farm prices in the history of agriculture.

Brookhart's reply to Meredith's statement announcing the suit will be made in a speech before the American Legion at Jewell, Ia., Friday.

"And its going to be a good one," the senator said of the speech.

Meredith, who is at Bemidja, Minn., refused to make any further comment but declared he would issue another statement within a few days.

Pembroke to Start Grinding Shop Soon

C. J. Pembroke, superintendent of the Oregon Machinery company shops for the past two and a half years until selling out to another member of the firm this month, will open a cylinder and piston grinding machine shop for automobile work in the Day building now being constructed at the corner of Olive and Seventh avenues about October 1. He ordered the most up-to-date machinery for this work while on a trip through Portland, Seattle and Victoria, B. C., this month. His reputation for machine work is such that he expects to get much of the work for local garages and machine shops that are not especially equipped for this kind of repairing.

Six Liberty motors furnish the power for the Barling bomber and it is equipper with parachute slides by which its crew may escape in case of accident.

The tail piece alone is as large as an ordinary mail plane.

Lieutenants Harold R. Harris and Leigh Wade have been chosen to take the Barling up on its first official flight.

The flight was originally scheduled for 10 a. m. but officers at McCook field postponed the test until 6 p. m. because they believe the air will be smoother at that hour.

PARALYSIS TAKES MRS. P. M. MORSE

A sudden attack of paralysis resulted in the death of Mrs. P. M. Morse, wife of County Surveyor Morse, at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Her departure from the community life in which she took such an active part came as a great shock to the many friends and relatives who mourn her loss and messages of condolence poured into the Morse residence, 991 Eighteenth avenue east, all day long.

The first stroke came at 1:30 this morning, when Mrs. Morse complained of pains in her head and hands. She had a heart attack three years ago, which is said to have resulted in this last illness. Besides her husband, she leaves four daughters, Elizabeth, Katherine, Marion and Margie Lee, all living at home. Mrs. F. M. Carter of this city is a sister, and three brothers also survive. Mrs. Morse, who was 44 years of age, was one of the most active members of the Central Presbyterian church here.

The funeral will be held from the Veatch chapel on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 22, at 2 o'clock. William Moll Case, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will have charge of the service. The remains will be sent to the Portland crematorium.

Albuquerque Editor Bound Over to Jury

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 21.—Carl C. Magee, fighting editor of the New Mexico State Tribune of Albuquerque, recently convicted of libel and contempt of court for editorial utterances in his paper, has been bound over to a grand jury which meets September 10. He will answer then to further charges of libel.

Magee yesterday afternoon appeared before Judge Reed Holloman, one of the "political gang" which, he said in his trials, should be investigated. Judge Holloman refused a motion for demurrer filed by Judge Richard H. Hanna and Fred Wilson, Magee's attorneys.

Charges of libeling Judge C. J. Roberts, prosecutor during the Las Vegas trials, are now faced by Magee. He is charged by Roberts with libel for an editorial utterance on July 26 when he is said to have accused the judge of taking an active part in throwing out ballots that resulted in the election of a republican district attorney.

WOULD-BE ROBBERS BOTH IN CUSTODY

Redding, Cal., Aug. 21.—Two men who held up a poker game at Pit number 2 near here Sunday night were both in custody today and will be charged with the murder of Joseph Bodgan, who was shot and killed during the melee which accompanied the robbery.

Al Audrey, who claims to have been an automobile painter in Salt Lake city, the smaller of the pair, was captured near Bartley yesterday and after being held over night in Sisson was lodged in the city jail here today.

William Slater, formerly a blacksmith in Oakland, Cal., was captured near McCloud last night weak from loss of blood. Neither of the two men offered resistance to officers who surrounded them.

Police today were of the opinion that Audrey will be charged with the actual murder of Bodgan. According to information learned from the participants in the poker game, Slater fired but one shot, which went wild. Audrey, they said, fired several times, and fled when he saw Bogdan fall, shot through the side.

Audrey bore no marks of punishment but Slater, who sustained the attack of nine infuriated workingmen after Audrey has escaped with $200 loot, was badly battered. A physician at McCloud dressed his wounds following his capture.

The men are not permitted to communicate, Slater being held in the county jail. No date has been set for their preliminary hearing. The cash obtained from the robbery was recovered.

S. S. "America" Enters Big Cooking Contest For Championship of the North Atlantic.

Chief Stewart and Chef of the S. S. A.

New York, The culinary department of the big steamship America, of the United States lines, is out to take the "palm" away from the George Washington, of the same fleet, for serving the best meals on the North Atlantic. The America, reconditioned and refurnished throughout, went back into commission a few weeks ago, just after a group of well-known bon vivants had declared that the George Washington "set the best table" on the ocean.

While the America was being refitted at the Brooklyn Navy yard this news was conveyed to Chief Steward Paul Schickle, and Chef Teddy Bonsett. They immediately vowed that they would see the title transferred to their craft or know the reason why.

Long before the America went back to Hoboken to re-enter the service, Schickle and the chef were on the job putting together a kitchen crew worthy of preparing meals not only "fit for kings," but for His Royal Highness the American Tourist. When the America sailed there was little doubt in the mind of the Chief Steward and Chef that they would win the laurels from the George Washington. They worked out many new menus and conceived several new recipes for food to be served passengers on the America, which they declared would tickle the most jaded palate.

As a preliminary appetizer an elaborate cold buffet was prepared and placed in the dining room sailing day, which attracted a huge audience among both passengers and visitors, causing the former to wish that luncheon was ready and the latter that they, too, had booked passage. When Schickle and Bonsett saw the interest taken in the preliminary work of their culinary staff they went on deck and shook hands on a promise to "show the world" what real cooking is.

This rivalry between the head stewards and chefs of the various steamships of the United States lines has lead to the fleet attaining an enviable reputation among tourists. With the stewards striving to render a perfect service and the cooks endeavoring to outdo each other in the preparation of meals, the traveler in every instance benefits.

When Col. George Harvey, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, recently arrived here on board the George Washington, of the United States Lines, he declared that the service on the liner could not be improved upon, nor the food excelled. As a veteran traveler on the Atlantic, Col. Harvey's word meant a lot to personnel of the big liner, who are redoubling their efforts, in order to make all passengers on the vessel concur in the opinion.

Now that the America is again "in the ring" the fleet has one of its hardiest contenders in the contest once more and passengers may look forward to meals better than the very best that they have been served in the past.

This liner, long favored by ocean travelers because of her speed and steadiness, has practically been rebuilt as far as her passenger quarters are concerned. The America is now a one class ship, capable of accommodating 692 cabin passengers and 1,056 third-class passengers. She was originally a "three cabin" vessel.

All of the fittings and decorations on the America, designed by B. D. Pender of the U. S. Shipping Board, tend to bring that atmosphere of "homieness" to the liner which is so dear to the American heart. Those who inspected the vessel prior to her re-entering the service are of the decided belief that the efforts spent to make the America the finest cabin ship on the ocean have been distinctly successful.

The America is exceptionally well equipped for the entertainment of passengers. In addition to the usual deck games there is a big gymnasium with apparatus of every description. A skilled instructor is in attendance to help teach passengers "gym stunts" and aid them in keeping in trim. Athletes crossing to engage in various contests in the British Isles or Europe find this gymnasium ideal to train in. There is also a children's play room on board the America where the kiddies can pass delightful hours under the supervision of a matron.
