Coast League

The leadership of the Pacific Coast league will be at stake in this week's series between the San Francisco and Salt Lake clubs in the Utah metropolis. The Bees jumped into second place in the pennant race last week by taking five out of seven games from the Vernon club, which flopped down to fourth position.

San Francisco is three full games ahead of the Bees; and, judging from the form being displayed by the Bee sluggers, they have a chance to overhaul the leaders.

The Seattle club passed Vernon in the race, but taking five out of the seven games from the Oakland club, the Indians being but two games behind the Salt Lake club and a half game ahead of the Tigers. Portland is two and a half games behind Vernon and just a game and a half ahead of Oakland.
