PRUNE SHIPPING AT SALEM STOPS

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 21.—With instructions issued to the growers from whom they have bought prunes, to cease picking Wednesday and deliver only such fruit as was already picked, Denny and company, principal operators in the green prune deal in the Willamette valley have withdrawn from the field, and all of the shippers from this point are agreed in the prediction that the deal will be of short duration because of the rain of the past few days, and the rapid ripening of the fruit.

No explanation of the withdrawal of the Denny people from the market was forthcoming this morning. Local dealers simply received orders to stop buying and to notify the local growers to halt picking operations.

The appearance of blue mold in the fruit was given to growers as the reason for suspending operations, but other operators here said that they had seen no indications of mold and would continue to receive fruit as long as it remained in good condition.

Select Prunes Are Sold at Roseburg

ROSEBURG, Ore., Aug. 21.—A few prune sales to independent packers were reported today. Buyers contracted a few select crops, it was stated, making prices, however, only on prunes above 50 in size. It is estimated that Douglas county, which has a normal prune crop of 12 million pounds, will produce about nine million pounds this year. The sizes are good, and on the river bottom orchards, it is thought that nearly 75 per cent of the fruit will run 50 or better in size. Local packing houses report that they will dispose of all of last year's crop before this year's harvest, and that their store rooms will be clear for the first time in several years.

COLONIZATION TO FIGURE IN COMING IRRIGATION PLANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Adoption of a carefully planned policy for colonization of irrigation projects to be constructed in the future was urged by Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, in a special report submitted to Secretary Work yesterday upon his return from a 9000-mile inspection trip in the west. He visited projects in Utah, Nevada, California, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming and Nebraska.

"In each proposed new project, an economic survey has been organized under the direction of G. C. Krentzer, director of the division of farm economics," said the report.

Colleges Are Helping. In this survey the co-operation of the state agricultural colleges of Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho has been secured and these institutions have generally extended the services of experts on soils and farm management. These experts are now engaged in working out the problem of what water for irrigation is worth in the districts of their states where the proposed projects are located and what it will cost settlers to change raw land into improved form. When the experts have reached their conclusions on all of the proposed projects, they are to be submitted to local committees of bankers, farmers and business men for their suggestions as to costs and methods of development.

Expense Is Considered. Every factor that would lessen expense and hasten development of income must be considered. While water charges must, in the end, come from irrigated crops, irrigation works that are not followed promptly by irrigated agriculture are a financial burden to land owners. Long delayed agricultural development has wrecked more of these enterprises than all other causes combined. The costlier the work the more important it is that this fact be recognized.

Dr. Mead pointed that hereafter attention must be given to where and how money needed in agricultural development is to be obtained; where and how settlers must be aided and directed to enable them to use their money, effort and time to best advantage.

Superintendent Suggested. "In order that the farmers may succeed, a practical business superintendent who has a knowledge of farm conditions should be employed to plan settlement and advise settlers," said Dr. Mead. "For the past six months I have been studying the causes for increasing arrears of payments on federal irrigation projects. One reason has been extreme agricultural depression, which, however, is temporary and may be ignored. There are other reasons which we must consider. One of these is the terms on which settlers have bought farms and

Printing Press 125 Years Old Features Pacific Exposition

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 21.—A weather-beaten, but sturdy hand press, constructed in New York city 125 years ago, and still in shape to print newspapers similar to the first copies of the Seattle Weekly Intelligence in 1852, is a feature of a pioneer Seattle printing firm at the Pacific Northwest Merchants' exposition which is being held here.

The press was shipped to Mexico City in 1815 and transported inland on the backs of burros. In 1834, it was taken overland to Monterey, Cal., where it was used by Mexican officials for printing orders. After California became a territory of the United States, the press was unearched and the first California newspaper was printed on it in 1848.

In 1850 it was taken to Portland, Ore., by covered wagon and used in printing the state's first newspaper, the Weekly Oregonian. Two years later it printed Washington's first newspaper, the Columbian, at Olympia. From there it was taken to Seattle and has since been kept by local printers.

Dundee Weighs Too Much; Loses Crown

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Johnny Dundee, veteran of 13 years in the ring, yesterday forfeited his world's featherweight title because he can no longer make the 126 limit. Dundee, who said he would continue to fight in junior lightweight ranks, announced his decision to the state athletic commission, which he asked to take custody of the featherweight crown until a new wearer is found.

Dundee, whose sudden withdrawal from featherweight ranks caused a sensation, won the 126-pound title from Eugene Criqui last summer.

The commission announced it would conduct a tournament to determine the successor to Dundee. The commission also announced it had lifted the suspension of Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, and Kid Norfolk, negro pugilist, after similar action had been taken by Massachusetts ring authorities, who suspended the two boxers after an unsatisfactory match in Boston last April.

Tom Gibbons' Trip Is Financial Fluke

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Tom Gibbons' trip to Europe was a financial failure, his manager, Eddie Kane, said last night when he and the fighter returned aboard the White Star liner Olympic.

Gibbons, who recently defeated Jack Bloomfield, light-heavyweight champion of England, in the third round of a scheduled 12-round bout, received only $12,000 for his share of the proceeds of the bout, Kane said. He had been guaranteed $50,000, according to Kane, who charged poor management on the part of the British promoter. Both the fighter and his manager expressed themselves as pleased with the treatment accorded them by British sportsmen.

It Certainly Was Good News!

NOT all the good news is in the news columns. Women, especially, find important events—important because they solve her personal problems—in space such as this:

For here she learns of the remarkable new starch discovery, LINIT—the same starch which the great fabric manufacturers have long used to give that soft and pliable finish to garments and fabrics you admire so much in goods fresh from the store.

LINIT is a new scientific starch for household use, distinctly different from old-fashioned starches. It penetrates and preserves fabrics and makes inexpensive cotton or mercerized garments look and feel like linen. Since LINIT eliminates lint, fabrics stay clean and fresh longer.

LINIT is sold by all grocers—10c.

PORTLAND'S CLAIM DISPUTED, REPORTS FROM SEATTLE SAY

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 21.—A claim by Portland, Oregon, that her geographical location entitled her to preferential rail rates to and from "territory south of the Snake river" in Washington state, was attacked and denied by farmers of that territory in a brief filed with the interstate commerce commission.

The brief was filed by the Walla Walla Farm Bureau and the Farmers' Union of Walla Walla, complainants in a second Columbia basin rate case asking abolition of a preferential rate system and was made public here today by the Seattle chamber of commerce.

The brief read: "Nature did not make Portland a seaport and if she is a seaport it is merely because the people of the United States made large expenditures to open for her a channel to the ocean."

The brief was prepared by T. P. Gose and W. F. Crowe of Walla Walla, and Scott Z. Henderson of Tacoma, attorneys for the farmers' organizations.

It urged restoration of a rate parity that existed in Eastern Washington from 1887 until the original Columbia basin case was decided four years ago.

The farmers asked that this parity be restored by reducing the rate to Puget sound 10 per cent, but said that they would be willing just to abolish a differential, to see it re-established by reversing the process by which it was created when the Puget sound rates were raised 5 per cent and the Portland rates lowered 5 per cent.
