Winston Churchill Understood To Have Formulated Full Details

Washington Government Is Assuming A Policy Of Waiting On France

PARIS, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Plans for an inter-allied debt conference at Brussels next March to which the United States probably would be invited to send a delegate, are declared to have been formulated by Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, who is due to arrive here this evening at the head of the British delegation to conference of allied finance ministers, which opens tomorrow.

WASHINGTON WAITING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The French debt situation appeared to have resolved itself again today into a waiting attitude on the part of the Washington government for possible further light on the suggestions as to a refunding arrangement presented in the memorandum of French Finance Minister Clementel.

While examination of M. Clementel's "personal and unofficial" communication to Ambassador Herick has not altered the attitude here to accept it as a hopeful sign it has on the other hand, disclosed no concrete proposal for refunding the French debt that might offer a definite foothold for the launching of formal negotiations. It has, in fact, provided no elaboration of French views on the question beyond what already was known to Secretary Mellon through his conversations with Ambassador Jusserand.

With the possibility of more light being thrown on the situation by further advice from Ambassador Herick, it was believed any decision as to a formal request by the treasury secretary for specific details from M. Clementel, on his suggestion, would be held in abeyance. It was said definitely at the state department that the informal nature of the French suggestions did not warrant the calling of a special meeting of the American debt funding commission to take them up.

STATE SHIFTS TO REPUBLICAN WITH ITS NEW OFFICERS

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 6.—The absence of Governor Pierce, who is visiting his ranch, in eastern Oregon, sort of took the edge off state governmental changes Monday, when the state shifted from democratic to republican.

No radical changes in the personnel of the treasurer's office were made by Mr. Kay Monday. George Griffin of Salem went in as deputy treasurer to succeed John Bryant of Albany. Miss Grace Gilliam of Pilot Rock, Unatilla county, and for five years treasurer of that county, will receive a position in the department probably as cashier, where she would succeed Clarence Thompson. Alexander Hamilton of Portland, who was appointed by the late treasurer, O. P. Hoff, and who was retained by Myers, will also be retained by Kay as bookkeeper. Ultimately Neal Boyle, now of Salem, will succeed Dean H. Dickinson as head of the inheritance tax department. Mrs. J. Kurth of Salem takes one of the leading clerical positions.

Both Mr. Myers and Mr. Bryant were at the office Monday to assist their successors in getting started. Among matters discussed by Kay and Myers were the state's remaining over from the Hoff administration, attributed to errors of some sort by employees of the department. Of this $52,257 was a shortage in cash that could not be checked, but which it is believed is an overpayment to some one. The Hoff estate may be called upon to pay this. The remainder represents checks, one drawn on the Sheridan State bank, two on the Lafayette State bank and three on the First National bank of Merrill, Ore., that apparently were lost in transit and on which the state is out. An effort will be made to ascertain who owes the state for the several amounts.

Judge Harry H. Bell of Dallas has taken his place as a member of the supreme court and Edward Osterlander as a member of the public service commission to succeed Newton McCoy.

NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL IS TO BE NAMED NOW

Successor To Harlan F. Stone Is Sought By President Coolidge

Nomination Of Mr. Stone As Supreme Court Member Before Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Coolidge today set about finding a new attorney general.

Harlan F. Stone of New York, selected as head of the department of justice nine months ago, after the retirement of Harry M. Daugherty, was given appointment yesterday by the president to the supreme court—considered by the legal fraternity generally as the highest honor within its reach.

The nomination of Mr. Stone was sent to the senate within a short time after the vacancy on the highest court was created through the retirement of Associate Justice Joseph McKenna, who himself was appointed to the court from the attorney generalship, 27 years ago by President McKinley, Successor Sought.

While Mr. Stone will not leave the department of justice until his nomination is confirmed by the senate, usually in such cases a matter of routine, thought must be given immediately by Mr. Coolidge to the appointment of a successor. All indications of an official nature are that he has not even reached any preliminary conclusion, but immediately after the appointment of Mr. Stone was announced, a dozen names were being mentioned in connection with the office.

Among these were some of those mentioned at the time Mr. Coolidge was seeking a successor to Mr. Daugherty including Arthur P. Hays, chief justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts; Judge Frank S. Dietrich of Idaho and Charles B. Warren, former ambassador to Japan, and joint head of the special American commission to Mexico.

Promotion Mentioned.

The immediate speculation also included the possibility of promotion of James M. Beck, now solicitor general and who will become acting attorney general upon the retirement of Mr. Stone and of the transfer of Curtis D. Wilbur, former chief justice of the supreme court of California from the secretaryship of the navy to the department of justice.

The president decided upon Mr. Stone in making his first appointment to the supreme court because of his confidences in the attorney general since they were long acquaintances, starting with the time when they were classmates at Amherst; his belief that the attorney general was eminently fitted by education, experience and temperament for the work of the nation's highest court, and his satisfaction with his work as attorney general in the nine months he has been in the cabinet.

While Mr. Stone will not leave the department of justice until his nomination is confirmed by the senate, usually in such cases a matter of routine, thought must be given immediately by Mr. Coolidge to the appointment of a successor. All indications of an official nature are that he has not even reached any preliminary conclusion, but immediately after the appointment of Mr. Stone was announced, a dozen names were being mentioned in connection with the office.

CHING DYNASTY IS DUSTED WITHOUT CIVILITY IN CHINA

PEKING, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The signing away under duress by Hsuan Tung, the boy emperor, of the empty title of emperor and the right to preside within the limited precincts of the Forbidden City the pomp and ceremonies of the old Manchu court, brought to a final end the Ching dynasty founded in 1644 by the emperor Shun Ching.

The Manchu reign actually ended with the abdication in behalf of the infant emperor as a result of the revolution in 1912, the founders of the republic agreed that members of the imperial family and the lesser nobility, by whom they were surrounded, would be permitted to retain their titles, their court ceremonials and generally would receive treatment in their retirement such as is usually accorded to a foreign sovereign.

A yearly allotment of $4,000,000 of the country's currency was to be made for their support. A large portion of the old imperial precincts within the quarter known as the Imperial City was set apart for their exclusive use and residence, and there, a virtual prisoner, the young emperor has grown to manhood.

Terms Not Kept

The terms of the agreement for favorable treatment, so far as it concerns the yearly payments, has long since become a dead letter, if it ever was kept. The imperial family today faces impoverishment. The marriage of the emperor two years ago, was probably the zenith of his glory and marked his last emergence into the limelight of newspaper publicity until his eviction by the Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang.

The new reigning cabinet saw fit, according to Dr. C. T. Wang, the foreign minister, to rectify the anomalous situation growing out of maintenance of an imperial court within a republic. Accordingly, without a word of warning, agents of General Feng swooped down upon the defenseless court; presented a new abdication document for the emperor to sign; demanded possession of seals which had been in possession of his family, represented by himself and nine predecessors for 180 years, and forthwith expelled him from the only home he ever had known. He had to plead to be allowed to send back for his own and his wife's clothing.

An investigation asked a commission has been announced whose duty it will be to determine how much of the property seized in the imperial quarters belongs to the ousted Manchus, and how much to the state. There are reports of the existence of antiquities and documents of immense historical value which it is proposed to place in a museum to be established for the purpose. In the future the emperor, as plain Mr. Pu Yi, so designated in the regulations governing the investigating commission, may reside where he will by the letter of abdication agreement, but he must live where the government authorities can keep an eye on him since they reserve the right to "safeguard" him.

Dome of St. Paul's Cathedral Declared In Unsafe Condition

Atlanta Ministers Flayed In Address

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The great dome of St. Paul's cathedral is declared by the city survey to be in such unsafe condition that the municipal authorities, according to the Daily Mirror, have served notice upon the official custodians of the cathedral that they officially regard the dome as "a dangerous structure."

The condition of the dome has caused anxiety for some years, owing to cracks in the supporting pillars, and large sums have been spent in remedial measures.

The dome is in no immediate danger of falling, it is said.

Holland Cherishes Words Of Physician

LEYDEN, Holland, Jan. 6.—(AP)—There occurred last month the 200th anniversary of the death of Dr. Herman Boerhaave, and the city is reiterating for the 200th time the famous message he left to his heirs.

The doctor's executors found among his possessions a sealed book entitled "The Deeper Secrets of Medicine." His fame had been such, during his life, that all Leyden was keenly interested and eager for the promised revelation. The book was sold, unopened, at public auction, for a large sum. It contained in 14 words the doctor's advice to the world: "Keep your head cool and your feet warm. Then you will defy all doctors."

Windstorm Takes Down Wires And Trees in Umpqua

ROSEBURG, Ore., Jan. 6.—Over $3 per cent of the government telephone line up the North Umpqua to Caps Illabe, the old Indian rendezvous grounds, is down, and the trail covered with fallen trees, according to Forest Ranger Fred Asaam, in charge of the North Umpqua district of the Umpqua national forest, who returned to Roseburg today after a hard trip into his territory. Heavy winds carried down hundreds of big trees across the trail, he states, and practically demolished 40 miles of telephone line. Much labor will be necessary in the spring to open the trails, he reports.

ARCHBISHOP DIES IN CINCINNATI AT AGE OF 75 YEARS

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 6.—Archbishop Henry Moeller, fourth bishop of Cincinnati and the third to attain metropolitan rank, since the creation of the diocese approximately 100 years ago, died last night.

Archbishop Moeller was one of the first students to the American college at Rome, where he completed his course with great success, winning the highest distinction in a competitive examination with the students of the Propaganda, the Irish and the Greek colleges. He won the first three prizes in theology, was awarded the gold medal, and given the degree of doctor of divinity.

Archbishop Moeller was born in Cincinnati, December 11, 1849, and after finishing his preliminary education in parochial schools, he matriculated at St. Xavier's college, where he was graduated with high honors in 1870. He went to Rome almost immediately and entered the American college.

The young student was raised to the priesthood in 1876 by Monsignor Lenti in the Cathedral of St. John Lateran at Rome, and upon returning to Cincinnati, he was appointed by the then Archbishop Purcell to be pastor of St. Patrick's church, Bellefontaine, Ohio. A few months later he was made a professor at St. Mary's Seminary, Cincinnati. In 1877 he was called to the chancellorship of the Indianapolis Diocese and in 1880 made chancellor of the Archdiocese of Cincinnati. In 1890 he was called to fill the vacant See at Columbus, Ohio, and in 1903 was promoted to the Archiepiscopal See at Arcopolis and made coadjutor to Archbishop William Henry Elder, with the right of succession. He became Archbishop of Cincinnati in 1904.

Mrs. Ross Takes Up Her Duties As Wyoming Governor

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Wyoming's first woman governor, today got down to the tasks that face her as executive of the state of Wyoming.

Her routine called for an early appearance at the executive chambers where she will continue her work on her message and budget recommendations to the state legislature which convenes January 13.

While Governor Ross has refused steadfastly to reveal just what the nature of the budget recommendations will be, it is generally understood in Wyoming political circles that they will hold out for a policy of sharp retrenchment in state expenditures, the axe falling most heavily on state house employes and salaries.

Throughout the night telegrams of congratulations from the governors of many states and from persons in all walks of life continued to pour into her office.

And so today, Wyoming, the trail blazer in the matter of women's rights, will settle down to a two-year period during which the executive reins will be held by one of those recognized by statute more than half a century ago.

Allocation of Waters Talked

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 6.—Plans for the allocation of the waters of eastern Washington and Oregon, northern Idaho and western Montana, expected to provide a source of supply for the Columbia basin irrigation project in south-central Washington, were discussed in a conference held here, between representatives of the engineering departments of the four states, the federal department of the interior, the federal power commission and the war department.

Rhea Luper, state engineer of Oregon, took little part in the discussion, as the interests of that state are expected to be affected but little in the allocation of the Columbia basin headwaters.

STATE ENGINEERS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO BASIN PLANS

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 6.—After an all day conference on plans for the allocation of water rights of the Columbia river and its tributaries above the confluence of the Snake and Columbia rivers, state engineers and United States reclamation and power commission representatives adjourned their session last night to meet here again January 19.

The engineers said that when they meet again they hope to draw up a "Columbia river compact" that will be acceptable to the legislatures of the four northern states.

In the meantime the state engineers of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana will confer with their respective state officials and civic bodies interested in irrigation and hydro-electric power to accurately determine the water requirements of their states from the Columbia river system. It was announced.

All of the state engineers pledged their support to the development of the water needed by Montana to care for vested water right of citizens of that state and the setting of the storage limits for Priest and Bend O'Leary lakes in northern Idaho were the only main questions to be determined when the conference adjourned it was said.

Marvin Chase, Washington state hydraulic engineer, detailed the water requirements of the Columbia basin area. Rhea Luper, state engineer of Oregon, declared his state would have to be a party to any agreement but that it would be little affected by the allocation of the water.

Farm Loan Bank Heads Add Data On Farmers' Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Views of presidents of the federal farm loan banks on possible means of assistance to the cattle industry through increased financing facilities, has been added to the wealth of data today before the president's agricultural commission.

The bankers appeared before the commission late yesterday to discuss proposals for aiding the cattlemen, which commission is considering through the four channels of finance, tariff, transportation and marketing. It hopes to recommend a relief program for this branch of agriculture within two weeks.

Later in the week the commission plans to invite leaders of the national council of farmers cooperative marketing associations, now in convention here, to discuss with it plans for assisting the cattlemen through centralized marketing.

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until She Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan.—"After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders, would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand." —Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.
