ALLEGED FLEECER SAYS HIS CLIENTS WILL GET MONEY

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 23.—Raymond J. Bischoff, held here for Chicago authorities on charges of larceny and embezzlement involving the fleeing of hundreds of investors in oil and mining projects, declared that 4900 of his 5000 clients still have confidence in him and that these 4900 will get their money back. Bischoff stated that dispatches giving the amount involved in his transactions as $2,000,000 were conservative, and placed the correct amount at between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. "The 4900 are going to get their money back, though," he said. "They have my personal notes for the amounts they were losers and these notes do not fall due until 1926." However, he admitted that at present his account in a Los Angeles bank shows only about $2 on deposit. BIRD BILL TALKED STATE HOUSE, SALEM, Ore., Jan. 23.—The federal migratory bird refuge bill now pending in congress would take away from Oregon and other states their rights over game control and at the same time would insure less protection for wild fowl than now provided by state law, Captain A. E. Burghoff, state game warden, and others declared at a hearing of the game committee last night. The game commission's room overflowed with sportsmen from many sections of the state to support the Kirkwood memorial which would call upon congress not to enact the proposed law. William L. Finley, nationally known bird expert and W. S. Raker of the Isaac Walton league of Portland were the only representatives on hand to oppose the memorial.

SAID NECESSARY

Finley declared that passage of the migratory bird refuge bill was necessary to provide breeding reserves in various sections of the country. Burghoff explained that Oregon now has 114 refuges for game with a total area of 14,200,000 acres. Approximately 2,000,000 additional acres will probably be placed in reserves, according to Burghoff. "The biological survey of the federal government since 1913 has had the power to cut down bag limits," declares the state game warden. "It has not done so. Under the federal law one could take 100 birds a day were it not for the state's own protective measures."

Remember this about food—mere nourishment isn't enough—It must be balanced

Why do food authorities keep insisting that variety is a most important essential in a health-building diet? Simply because without variety in your food your body may be over-nourished in some respects and under-nourished in others.

That's why SHREDDED WHEAT with milk is universally recommended by people who know food and food values.

Children and grown-ups alike thrive on SHREDDED WHEAT and milk, because this combination supplies every element needed to sustain the human body, and it supplies them in the right proportions. It's a well-balanced ration.

So why experiment with food fads? Eat the food that keeps you fit—SHREDDED WHEAT—a full meal in two biscuits. And serve it often to your family for breakfast, lunch and even for dinner in made-up dishes.
