

FOREST FIRES ARE HELD MAN-CAUSED

"A good reason why the Cascade forest is concentrating its attention on forest protection work by educating the young people of Eugene and Lane county in forest behavior is seen by the annual report of the district forester," says Nelson F. Macduff, supervisor of the Cascade forest.

"The greatest proportion of forest fires are man caused. Campers, smokers, brush burners and loggers are in the list of 197 court convictions for criminal forest fire law violations on the national forests of Oregon and Washington. The district forester's report shows that 222 cases were brought to trial. Of these, 197 were convicted, nine were freed, and the rest are still pending.

"Fines and costs were assessed in the amount of $3,096.25 under the provisions of 197 court convictions. In addition 33 civil cases were settled and damages collected covering government timber destroyed in the amount of $17,615. The greatest damage came from fires caused by loggers. Of the total $56,621 damages under the closed and pending civil cases, more than 80 per cent was due to logging fires."

James Mott, representative from Clatsop county, assailed the argument of Brown, whom he charged was a representative of the merchants and manufacturers association. "There is no valid reason for not giving congress the concurrent power in child labor legislation that the states enjoy," he declared. "The supreme court will outlive any excessive or unsound legislation, if congress were to be so foolish to pass any."

Old License Plate Leads to Trouble

Still operating his truck with a 1924 license plate, John Mason, was cited to appear today when halted by Earl Humphrey, state traffic officer. Mason was fined $5 for failing to have a mirror on his truck and was given a few hours in which to make application for a 1925 license. This is the first case where a motorist with '24 plates has been stopped and who has failed to have either a receipt or check stub to show that application for the new plates had been made. "There are very few of the red plates to be seen now and it looks as though all drivers have the 1925 license or have made application," the traffic officer states.

Great areas of lemon and tangerine trees in the Ratum district have succumbed. There are three feet of snow in the Tiflis and Baku districts, and all the oil wells are idle. Anxiety is felt for the effect of the continued freezing up on next year's wheat crop.
