

FARM CENSUS LIST TIME ENDED TODAY AND REPORTS SENT

With the time for completing the federal farm census today, there are still seven enumerators still in the field. In Lane, Coos, Jackson and Douglas counties, according to Ralph P. Laird, director. Forty-one enumerators started the work in this district and it is expected that all reports will be turned in by Monday, the director said. The census in Josephine county is the first to be completed. Two enumerators are still at work in Coos, Douglas and Jackson counties and one in Lane county.

"The final reports were to have been turned in by today but it will be at least two weeks before everything is cleared up and the mass data from several thousand farms forwarded to the census bureau at Washington," Mr. Laird states.

"All this information obtained by the enumerators is confidential and no figures are to be published except averages for counties and larger units. The farm census will not be taken again for five years and all data filed this time will be the basis for statistics until 1930," the director said.

Lane county will have a slight disadvantage in average crop reports as the figures for last year were not quite up to the standard for the county in past years, it is pointed out by farmers.

VOTING ON WAR URGED BY SPEAKER

War should be declared only by popular vote of the people, Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, N. Y., chairman of the World Peace commission, told an audience last night at the Central Presbyterian church, in speaking on the subject "World Peace and How to Obtain It."

Mr. Howard declared that a lasting disarmament was the only solution of the problem of how to prevent wars. Quotations from the Bible were used to stress his point that the "Christ plan" was the ideal upon which leaders should base their efforts to stop war.

The speaker scathed war profiteers, and spoke on the hesitancy of fathers and mothers toward sending their sons into battle although they realized it is to protect their own nation. Mr. Howard was brought to Eugene under auspices of the ministerial union, and left Eugene today. He had spoken at Albany Thursday night.

mission which he declared should not be treated in a partisan way. He said he would not attempt to answer specifically the speech of Mr. Jones, as he doubted if some of the remarks were "within the rules of the house."

"Our campaign is over," he added, "and its up to this congress to do the best it can." He charged that democratic members of the agriculture committee were "rushing into the house" and attempting to create an unfavorable impression of the commission's report before it could be taken up in committee.

Passage of the Smith-Hoch resolution, he concluded, was worth more to the farmers than the "penny 450,000" that the commission cost the government.

Farm relief through creation of a $50,000,000 government export corporation to purchase surplus agricultural commodities in times of depression was proposed in a bill today by Senator McNary, republican, Oregon.

and she, like her comedian husband, has isolated herself completely up to date.

No one has undertaken to forecast the outcome of the financial confab, least of all the man who has the finances, Chaplin himself.

Family involved The fact that Mrs. Chaplin had joined members of her family in consulting attorneys became known according to the Los Angeles Times, upon the arrival here of Edwin McMurray.

McMurray today is quoted by The Times as admitting that financial negotiations "are in progress" though declaring that "there is no connection between these negotiations and any contemplated action for separation or divorce."

the legal interests of Mrs. Chaplin's grandparents for many years is the other attorney who has represented the bride and her family in the negotiations to date, says The Times, adding that several conferences already have been held with Chaplin's attorneys.

What part, if any, the anticipated arrival of an heir to the Chaplin fortune has played or will play in the negotiations was not disclosed, nor was any hint divulged of the possible terms of the settlement.

FARMERS UNION TO SUPPORT PLAN FOR NEW JAIL BUILDING

Resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the Farmers' Union of Lane yesterday endorsing the plan for a new county jail here will be presented to the quarterly meeting of the Lane Farmers Grange which is in session today at Irving, according to F. H. Harlow, master.

Mr. Harlow will present the resolution and it is expected to be passed by the Grangers, is the announcement.

The following is the resolution passed yesterday by the Farmers' Union:

"Whereas, The business of the present Producer's Market has outgrown its present available space and additional space is now necessary to increase the size of the Producer's Market in Eugene; and

"Whereas, A space is available for an addition to the present Producer's Market north of the present location of the County Jail and adjoining North Park street; and

"Whereas, The present Lane County Jail is inadequate for the needs of the County; and

"Whereas, The present location of the County Jail is on property which in the judgment of the undersigned is too valuable and too attractive to use for jail purposes;

"Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the undersigned are in favor of utilizing the space North of the present jail building and adjoining North Park street for an extension and addition to the present Producer's Market; and that the undersigned are not in favor of using the present location of the jail as a permanent site for the county jail.

"When any change is made in the present County Jail the undersigned are in favor of relocating it in conjunction with the Lane County Court House, under such arrangement as will be advisable and satisfactory or on other property satisfactory to the taxpayers."

FARMERS OF LANE NAME OFFICERS AT ALL-DAY MEETING

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 31. (Special).—Ralph P. Laird of the Mount Vernon local of the Farmers' union, and W. L. Wheeler of the Trent local were re-elected president and vice-president respectively of the Lane County Farmers' union at the annual all-day meeting in Springfield yesterday. The session began at 10 a. m. in the Woodman of the World hall, with over 200 persons present, including 100 delegates from all over the county.

Mrs. George B. Jones, of Monmouth, state secretary-treasurer of the Farmers' union, was a special guest of the county group.

The new county officers, who will hold office for one year are:

Ralph P. Laird, Mount Vernon local, president; W. L. Bristow, Trent local, vice-president; Mrs. Betty Kappana, Coast Forks, secretary and treasurer; H. C. Jackson, Waltherville, conductor; M. A. Horn, Walker, doorkeeper; O. L. Clement, Waltherville, chaplain.

The meeting was a live one, with several resolutions passed. The ladies of the Crewell local served luncheon at noon, and the business was resumed in the afternoon.

Struck by a passing automobile as he crossed the Pacific highway in front of his home north of the city about 8 o'clock this morning, Charles Knopp, 67, was thrown to the pavement and sustained a fractured leg. He was taken to the Eugene hospital and reports this afternoon were that he was resting easily. The car that struck Mr. Knopp was driven by Frank A. Hardie, Junction City, route 2. Mr. Hardie reported to the sheriff's office that he was driving about 25 miles an hour and his view of the road was obstructed by another car.

PRINTING WILL BE LEADING SUBJECT AT MEETING HERE

The art and business of printing in its various phases, commercial and manufacturing, historical and qualitative, will be one of the leading subjects on the program for the seventh annual Oregon Newspaper conference to be held at the school of journalism of the University of Oregon on March 13 and 14. Other leading topics will be in the fields of advertising, editorial problems, and circulation.

To lead off on the subject of quality printing and start the discussion of the market for the highest grade of work, a market in which the rewards to the printer are declared to be more adequate than in any other branch, the program committee has obtained John Henry Nash of San Francisco, who is declared by Dean Eric W. Allen of the school of journalism to be one of the three or four most successful quality printers in the United States. Mr. Nash's promise to come was received today, after the committee had virtually given up hope of obtaining him.

An interesting speaker. "Mr. Nash has more interesting things to say about printing than any other man I ever met," declares Dean Allen. "By his fellow printers of California he is regarded as absolutely in a class by himself. He is, so far as I know, the only printer who has ever been granted an honorary degree for the perfection and effectiveness of his work. Mr. Nash was recently honored in this way by Mills college."

"Mr. Nash's shop is a little one man affair. It is no bigger than the ordinary store room used by the smallest county weekly. Here he works with his own hands without any large supporting organization, yet he has made his name known throughout the world wherever experts discuss the work of great printers. Gutenberg, Jensen, Exequir, Caxton and John of Spire."

Loves His Work. "This printer, who is bringing honor to the west by the workmanship and labor for the love of the work, but he is in no sense an impractical dreamer. Judged even by commercial standards, his little shop is a greater money maker than many a great plant with 20 times the equipment. Mr. Nash has a vault in his shop and in this he has collected a 'printer's working library' as he calls it, consisting of copies of famous books, examples of the finest printing the world contains, and books about the technique and history of printing. He often pays $800 to $1500 for a single volume, for such books are rare and are eagerly competed for by collectors. He himself does not look at this as a museum or an exhibition collection; it is part of his working equipment, and upon his knowledge of the best work of the past he has built up his commercial success. He has up to this time paid out over $40,000 for working specimens, every cent of which he declares was earned in his shop, and every book of which will prove in turn a profitable investment.

Is No Faddist. "Mr. Nash has never had any special type set for himself, nor any special borders or ornaments. He prints as he is a printer, not a faddist, and he will use no type that cannot be bought by anybody on the open market from the regular foundry. Mr. Nash makes occasional trips to Europe, where he spends his time among the high-grade printshops of Antwerp, Leipzig, Paris and Venice and in libraries where famous old models are stored. He sometimes buys type in Europe, but only that available to any printer."

"Mr. Nash has promised to bring to Eugene to show to the Oregon publishers some of the choicest pieces of printing, some of them, that a printer does not ordinarily get a chance to see at less cost than a trip to the New York library or the British museum in London. Mr. Nash is to be cited in much the same cases as Bruce Rogers, D. G. Updyke, and the very small group who are showing how twentieth century printing can be raised in quality to a level of excellence that has not been touched since the end of the sixteenth century."

Commercial Side Touched. The commercial phase of the printing program will be opened by an analysis of competitive methods by H. W. Buse of Roseburg, by a stenographic presentation of advertising typography by various editors and teachers of advertising who are co-operating, and whose names will be announced later. The program committee, appointed by Edgar McDaniel, of the North Bend Harbor, consists of Dean Allen, H. L. Gill, of the Woodburn Independent, George Putnam of the Salem Capital Journal, W. Arthur Steele of the Clatskanie Chief, and E. P. Hopwood of the Oregonian.

The advertising, editorial, and circulation programs will be announced in about a week, together with the speakers for the various sectional meetings to be held in conjunction with the conference, which will include the State Editorial association, the Pacific Northwest Circulation Managers' association, the Trade and Class Journal association, members of the Associated Press, clients of the United Press, and the Ben Franklin club of the Willamette valley.

Hogged Fuel Found To Reduce Expense

If the Eugene school board is considered use of "hogged fuel" as a means of cutting down heating expense, the method is worth while, according to Richard Shepard, manager of the Terminal hotel. Mr. Shepard recently changed the heating system for his hotel to "hogged fuel" and already reports an important saving as a result.

"Most people think that the furnace must be replaced for this purpose," says Mr. Shepard. "On the contrary, but few changes are necessary, including the installation of a new patented feeding system, by which the fuel is carried automatically through the grate. Any persons interested in this system are welcomed to inspect our furnace. From the saving made in the few weeks we have had it, I'm sure hogged fuel will be a success."

Fred E. Schmidt, for six years a teacher in the science department of the Penellton high school, has resigned the position to accept the office of deputy district attorney.

PROGRAM FOR FAIR RACE EVENTS HERE WILL BE ARRANGED

Arrangements for the annual Lane county fair race program will be taken up at the annual meeting of the Northwest Racing association which will be held February 3 and 4 at Aberdeen, Wash. W. W. Branstetter of this city will represent the Lane county fair board at the meeting which will be attended by representatives of fairs throughout the Pacific northwest.

The dates for the Lane county fair will probably be set at the race association meeting as at that time the programs for all track events are scheduled in order that there will be no conflicts.

A meeting of the new Lane county fair board will be asked for the near future to talk over preliminary plans for the annual event here, according to announcement today of W. R. Robertson, secretary. The building of a rest cottage at the fair grounds is one plan that will probably be taken up this summer before the opening of the fair in September. Mr. Robertson states.
