FIRST CHRISTIAN
Oak and Eleventh Streets, E. V. Stivers, pastor. Sunday closes the evangelistic meeting. We are confidently expecting this to be our greatest Sunday in every way. The day begins with the Sunday school at 9:45. We will be disappointed if a single member fails to attend Sunday and we are urging our friends and those not members elsewhere to enjoy the Sunday school with us. Mr. R. Claude Gray, the superintendent, on behalf of the school, extends a most urgent invitation. The sermon theme at eleven o'clock: "You will want to hear this thrilling sermon. The evening subject is "A Telegram from God." In connection with our musical program, Mr. Alex Bankevitz, the Russian tenor, will sing "Mother McCrea." This is one of the numbers broadcasted from Portland in his concert there a few days ago. You will want to hear this splendid young singer. Sunday should be, and we are sure will be, a most wonderful day in every way. Let nothing keep the members and friends from attending the services of the day.

Special choir numbers at this service will be an anthem "Sing Alleluia" (Hudley Buck) and Mrs. Julia Parth (Hudley Buck) and Mrs. Corvalla's solo "Twilight and Dawn" (Oley Speaks). Classes in the school of service meet for study at 7 p. m., considering various religious problems under strong leadership. The opening session of the school last Sunday evening was marked by an unusually large enrollment, and it is expected others will join the classes this evening. The school of service is merged into the worship period at 7:45, at which time the pastor will give the second of the series of addresses on "What Is There in Religion." The special choir number at this service is "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus" (Ambrose). This service closes at 8:15. Christian Endeavor and Westminster league meet

"WIDE WATERS"
By Captain Dingle

The clouds rush down to greet the sea out there—and the wide green waters roll to the thundering melody of wind and rain. . . . There were two strong men—and the one loved a woman and the other loved the sea. The one stood on the rain-swept deck and watched the fury of the skies. The other sat in a cabin and read the love in a woman's eyes.

It was for beautiful Mary Manning to chose—Mary Manning, trueblood daughter of the ocean mists. Great, lusty, southward there were on the clipper Orontes, brute-ward-bound.

And Mary Manning—a madman's plaything. Thrill follows upon thrill in this greatest of modern sea stories!

Starting February 2 in The Guard at 6:30 for devotionals, and at 7:00 will join classes in the school of service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30, led by the pastor. Topic "Victory Over the Tempter;" lesson, Matt. 4:1-11. The theme of the morning will be "Jesus Method of Presenting the Way of Salvation." The church school meets just previously at 9:45. The Epworth league meets at 6:30. At the "Fire-side Hour" of 7:30 the Springfield orchestra will play and some of our girls will sing. The sermon of the evening will be on "The Simplicity of the Gospel—the Wayfarer." Though Fool, All at "The Church of the Cordial Welcome." F. L. Moore, minister.

President Favors Barring Insurgents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—President Coolidge approves the course of republican leaders of the house in excluding from the party caucus all members except those who remained regular as to party organization during the campaign.

Such action is believed by the president to be the only means whereby the party can carry out its pledges.

MAGDALEN AND MILLIONAIRE JOIN FORCES

Purses of Agnostic And Devout Believer, Jew and Christian, Open For Building Cathedral of St. John.

BY GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—From the purses of Magdalen and millionaire, agnostic and devout believer, Jew and Christian are coming the dollars that will build America's most magnificent church.

"A shrine of worship for all people"—that will be the cornerstone for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, destined to rank with Cathedrals of St. Peter, Seville, Notre Dame, Rheims, Canterbury and Westminster Abbey.

High above the roaring, scurrying city will stand this sacrament in stone to remind the feverish, milling hordes of the goals higher than their daily ambition.

At a cost of $15,000,000 it is to be built this most democratic of cathedrals.

There will be no rentals, no locked doors, no reserve rights of caste or rank; no denominational demands, such as the cosmopolitan influences of a city such as New York.

"Our democratic age demands a place of worship that will not disregard the teachings of the Founder of Christianity," declares Bishop William Manning, head of the New York Episcopal diocese who now is leading the financial drive to make possible this combination of the grandeur of the old world and the democracy of the new.

"In that section of the church already built there have been services in Italian and Spanish; occasional services in Armenian, Japanese, Chinese and even Welsh. On Kossovo Day, a Serbian Archimandrite celebrated the liturgy of the Holy Orthodox church at the cathedral's high altar, and a choir of Russians and Jugoslavs sang the responses—such are the cosmopolitan influences of a city such as New York."

"When, at the end of ten years, this great shrine is completed the cathedral will be one-tenth of a mile long, the sides will be ribbed with spired buttresses and spire upon spire will rise to a central tower 500 feet above the foundations.

"The spiritual imagination of the people will be aroused," the bishop continues. "In the old days church towers and spires were conspicuously in view. Today they have disappeared. We have hidden them behind our great buildings and apartment houses.

"The cathedral will bring the church once more into view. Standing on the heights, where nothing can obscure or hide it, this great building will bring the church back into the place which belongs to it in the sight of the people."

French Gothic architecture will be used in its building. The plan is cruciform and so oriental that the priest standing at the high altar faces the east. From the apse radiate seven chapels, known as the "chapel of the tongues." In area it will be the third largest in the world; St. Peter's at Rome being the largest.

Probably no church in the world is built on such a varied collection of donations—three hotel bellhops, an organization of reformed gamblers, a newsboy, a Wall street millionaire of international repute, a school teacher supporting an invalid mother, a street walker, a lady of society, all the elements of a great city's society go into the stones and columns.

"And it is such a church that we seek," concludes the bishop. "Of all peoples, for all peoples. A shrine for the worship of all mankind."

Thomas Marshall Tired of Changes

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 31.—"I am not the prohibition amendment and I never was, no democrat ever was." Former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall told the national retail furniture school at a banquet here. "But now it is here, let's maintain it or else get rid of it by due process of law.

"I'm getting tired of all these additions to the constitution. It's got so it is as easy to amend the constitution of the United States as it is to draw a cork. Anyone can go down to Washington and make enough noise and get any amendment he wants tacked onto the constitution. I like English way best. They don't make laws until they know the people want them. I'd like to repeal all the federal and state laws and reenact the ten commandments and the golden rule."

DEBATE IS HELD
PORTLAND, Jan. 31.—A team made of two Oxford students and one student of Reed college of this city, defeated a team of one Oxford and two Reed men here in a debate on the parliamentary as against the presidential form of government. The winning team defended the presidential form. Judging of the coactees was done by the audience.
