

EDUCATIONAL PLAN OF TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION IS OUTLINED

Every apprentice seeking entrance into the printing trade should be examined as to his general fitness for the work, and failing to show promise of becoming a credit to the craft, should be gently but firmly directed into some other line of endeavor.

The International Typographical union, with headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind., is planning to conduct a series of courses for apprentices and journeymen in the printing art.

Under the laws of the Typographical union graduation in this course is compulsory for all apprentices before being admitted as journeymen members of the union.

CITY GAINS $6389 FROM LAWBREAKERS

Lawbreakers swelled the Eugene city treasury $6389.90 in 1925, it was shown today in the survey of fines assessed by Judge George A. Gilmore in municipal court during the year.

Other items under this heading included: dance permits, $15; auctioneers' licenses, $15; solicitors' licenses, $48; bill posting, $25; stock licenses, $36; soft drink licenses, $12; sprayers' licenses, $2; sale of dump wagon, $100; sale of fire wagon, $20; fire insurance recovery—City hall, $87.32; sale of asphalt and labor, $10.40; refund on sidewalk payment, $7.65; sale of rubber gaskets $1.50.

The telephone franchise tax and show permits were the highest money getters under the head of miscellaneous licenses and permits. Shows brought $213, and the telephone franchise netted $250 during the year.

ALL REPORTS SENT IN ON FARM CENSUS

More than 11,000 farms are listed in Lane, Jackson, Coos, Josephine and Douglas counties, according to the figures obtained for the federal farm census which was completed today in this district, according to the report of Ralph P. Laird, director.

The increase in number of farms is due to irrigation, drainage, clearing and the cutting of larger farms into smaller divisions, the director gives the opinion.

The office of the director will be open in the courthouse until word is received from the census bureau, Mrs. I. O. Loughary, assistant director, will return to her home at Corvallis.

VALE IS FLOODED WHEN DAM BREAKS

bridge which parallels it across Bully creek were washed away, but the main span was still standing this morning.

No reports of fatalities had been received here this morning, but the property damage will be large. A great many sheep and cattle were reported drowned in the valley west of Vale.

BRIDGES OUT
ONTARIO, Ore., Feb. 5.—The town of Vale, county seat of Malheur county, Oregon, was flooded today, two bridges were washed out, buildings were lifted from their foundations, and other damage done as the result of the breaking of an irrigation dam on Bully creek, according to reports telephoned here today from Vale.

Possible loss of life in the flooded district near Vale was indicated but not confirmed in first reports.

The information from Vale came in a telephone call from Winn Brown, of the Malheur Enterprise, who said he was sitting on his desk completely surrounded by water. A stream a foot deep was running through the streets of Vale, he said. The Oregon Short Line bridge and a wagon bridge near Vale were reported washed away, and others jarred loose.

A crew of men working at the dam were reported to have been caught in the rush of water, and the first report did not indicate whether they had escaped.

The house which was swept away at Vale was occupied by a family named Scott. The Scott baby was caught by the waters and was being carried away when it was rescued by Harry Kinnard, Malheur water master.

Mayor Robinette declared over the telephone that Vale was "flooded but fighting." "We have enough water now to care for the Vale irrigation projects," he said, "but there is no need for outside assistance."

The Bully creek dam was built for what was to be known as the Bully creek project. The dam was never completed and the project was abandoned. It is now within what will be known as the Vale project. The dam is located fifteen miles east and south of Westfall.

San Bernardino county, Calif., with an area of 20,175 square miles, is the largest county in the United States.

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES
Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narcotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND EAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough, why not try it. Refuse substitutes. TH.(Adv.)

Clear Lake Water Assembly Tonight

Waldo Anderson of Albany, promoter of the Clear lake water project, and J. N. Devers, attorney for the state highway commission, will speak at a meeting of Eugene men this evening at the chamber of commerce, on two bills before the state legislature concerning the project.

The bills were studied at a meeting of 14 Eugene business men, including members of the chamber of commerce legislative committee, city council and water board, last night. One of the measures would set aside the Clear lake watershed for water and electric power; the other would provide machinery for forming a development corporation.

Congress is now appropriating more than $405,000,000 annually for the Veterans' Bureau.
