

EUGENE REALTORS DISCUSS LISTINGS

To discuss the question of land values in Lane county in order that there may be a standard basis in listing by local realtors, an invitation has been extended to the Eugene chamber of commerce to meet with the realty board in the near future.

This action was taken at the noon meeting of the realty board today. A series of talks on the need of this standardization was held. Melvin Hansen stated that he believed that valuations should be based on production.

Frank L. Kinney pointed out that in some areas some farms under successful management would produce more than others. Poor management and stated he believed that this basis would be inaccurate.

Loyal Hugh voiced the belief that living conditions being better in some localities than others that this would be a factor in valuation. The need of organization in order that standard values could be listed by the realtors was told by Lawrence G. Bradley.

The Portland chamber of commerce is supporting the movement to have state realtors list their properties at the Portland office and also at the Los Angeles office of the chamber for the benefit of prospective residents.

HAND IS LOST AS RESULT OF SHOT

As the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun yesterday, Orin Cummins, resident of Goodpasture island had his right hand amputated at the wrist yesterday afternoon at the Pacific Christian hospital. Mr. Cummins had been hunting rabbits and stood the shotgun against the house when it was discharged. Friends took him across to the east side of the island where a boat was obtained and he was then transferred to an automobile and brought to the hospital. A tourniquet was employed to stop the flow of blood as it took quite a while to get the injured man across the river and into the city. Mr. Cummins has a wife and small baby.

Big Spotted Cat, While Not a Confirmed Vegetarian, Isn't Really So Bad as He's Sometimes Said to Be

This big spotted cat, who can't change his spots, is certainly an elegant looking fellow. While, frankly, he's not a vegetarian, he isn't as black as some have painted him. It is easy to see that whatever his faults may be, he's a perfect gentleman; something on the order of the mildest man that ever scuttled a ship or cut a throat.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FARM LOANS MADE

Walters' Asked. Holders of prior liens upon the crops to be mortgaged to the state must execute proper waivers thereof in favor of the state before any application for loan is finally approved by the board. This rule, however, does not apply to leases of land held in trust by the United States government for its wards.

Proper waivers must be executed by holders of mortgages, judgments or other incumbrances upon the land proposed to be re-seeded.

In all cases where the lands proposed to be re-seeded are held under lease or contract of purchase providing for crop payments to the vendor, the lessor or vendor must join in the execution of the crop mortgage to the state.

Insurance Necessary. Before any loan can be approved by the board satisfactory proof must be furnished by the committee that the crops mortgaged to the state are or will be insured against loss by fire.

Upon the approval of a loan by the board of control the state treasurer will promptly remit the amount thereof to a bank in the county and designated by the committee and the committee shall be responsible for the proper disbursement of the proceeds of such loan.

Upon the delivery of any mortgage crop into the warehouse, the wheat receipts therefor shall be issued by the warehouseman in the name of the Oregon state board of control, and the same shall be immediately transmitted to the board, and thereafter the grain represented by said receipts may be sold by the board at such time and for such price as it shall deem for the best interests of the state, and the proceeds of such sale, less all proper deductions, shall thereupon be applied on the mortgage debt.

WOODEN LINE AT JUNCTION SOUGHT

JUNCTION CITY, Feb. 13.—(Special)—The promoters of the proposed wooden railroad which may be built to the Lake creek country are in Junction City to interview business men and citizens. If enough encouragement is received, the road may be built, it is said. Junction City hopes to be the terminal of the road. All the sawmill men affected seem enthusiastic over the prospect. Mr. Horton, who owns the Horton mill at Horton, has been to Portland to see the train which runs on the road, and has announced that he is in favor of the proposition.

Red License Plate Leads to Trouble

Still driving a car with a 1924 license plate led to the appearance in court of L. E. Palmer who paid a fine for his tardiness in obtaining the new yellow signs. Palmer was cited to appear by Earl Humphrey, state traffic officer. This is the first case of a driver being cited in the local court for having the 1924 tags. "Only a few of them are left now," the traffic officer states. R. T. Gilbert paid a fine of $10 for speeding on the highway.

Government Inspected Meats

Have Big Advantage

Government inspected meats have one big advantage as far as the public is concerned. That is, you know you are getting something superior when you get meat at a government-inspected shop. With the stringent rules the government has set forth for us to observe, but the best inspected meat market can not sell anything but the best. That is your protection and your advantage.

The shop must of necessity be a business increasing and complied with all the laws and our business is increasing. This government inspected meats is another one of the many
