

Here's a Thought on Advertising

Some people think that when a store advertises, it costs them money and so they believe that in order to advertise a store must charge more.

This isn't so. Advertising SAVES us money.

And here's the logical reason. Anything that can be sold in quantity, can be sold for less. We can sell a dozen coats for less money per coat than we would have to sell for one. And in order to sell a dozen coats we must advertise.

Our advertising saves YOU money.

HERBERT WILSON TAKES STAND AT ROBBERY HEARING

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—Herbert Wilson, ex-clerkman, mail bandit and murderer, still occupied the witness chair as testimony was resumed today in the federal court trial of the Wilson Brothers, Herbert and Frank, and two other alleged members of the so-called Wilson gang, on robbery charges growing out of a mail truck holdup here March 3, 1921.

Wilson's direct testimony was completed late yesterday and defense counsel was expected to subject him to searching cross-examination today, for it is upon the former minister's words that the government's case largely depends.

Guarded by the bristly weapons of nearly a score of armed deputies, this man who once lived on a preacher's salary told jurors a tale of the inner conferences of a nation-wide ring of criminals whose "jobs" involved millions of dollars.

His testimony was richly interlarded with estimates of loot ranging from a few thousands of dollars to $1,000,000, according to the "size" of the always carefully plotted crime. His gang, he said, took weeks to work out the details of the 1921 mail truck holdups in Los Angeles, in which approximately a half million in cash, gems and securities was seized.

He touched also on a $300,000 jewel robbery in New York, a contemplated $100,000 department store safe blowing here, which was frustrated, and a number of "sawyer jobs," such as a $10,000 gambling resort holdup in Los Angeles. Disposal of stocks, bonds and other securities taken in the 1921 mail robberies was a task superintended by Jack Elerick, a co-defendant with Wilson, the latter testified alleging that Elerick arranged to have the bonds "floated" in New York by a Tom Riber, in Chicago by a Mike Sullivan and "Chicago Whitey" and in Reno by a friend of Elerick's who could dispose of securities through Nevada banks.
