HOLIDAY TONE ON MARKET PREVAILS

Trading Volume Is Small, Though Fruit and Produce Houses Act

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 23.—A holiday tone prevailed in the local markets today and while fruit and produce houses were open for business, the trading volume was small.

Receipts of meats, poultry and eggs were light.

Few changes are shown in fruit and vegetable prices at the opening of the week. New arrivals from the south were moderate on the team track, but sufficient to prevent any great shortage.

Onion prices are fractionally lower with most of the houses quoting best Sherwood stock at $3.50. Some firms are still working on stock that cost $4 and are trying to get $3.75. Buying price around $2.75 now at country shipping point.

Lettuce is selling around $4.50 for best stock and celery at $7.50 to $8 a crate.

Potato prices are unchanged with the market about steady.

The butter market is firm with fancy stock extremely scarce. No change is contemplated in print and cube prices.

Egg prices are steady and unchanged. There was no session on the dairy exchange today.

NO HOPS REFUSED

A story came out from Portland Saturday that Jess Seavey had sold 200 bales of hops at 17c, but that 200 bales had been rejected. The story was denied here today by Mr. Seavey, who said that he had sold 200 bales at 17c, and that not a single bale had been rejected.

The Seavey hops were sold to Clifford Brown of Salem.

"The hops were in fine condition," Mr. Seavey said. "There weren't any bales rejected, and, in fact, they even wanted more, but I decided that the 200 bales was enough for this lot."

GRAIN MARKETS CLOSED

LET'S SWAP!

M. S. BARKER
Musical Instruments, Strings and Supplies. Instrument repairing.
512 Willamette St. Eugene, Oregon.
Most of the old Violins around the country are poor. They were made poor and for that reason will always be poor. The theory that your violin is a good one because it is 50 or 100 years old is a very poor theory. Of course if it was a first class instrument when it was bought and has been properly taken care of it is much better than when new. But you cannot make a good violin out of a poor one by keeping it for it is like a scrub horse, it will remain a scrub until its death. Now, however, some of the old cheap violins have good wood in them and I can make them over into good violins, then you have the advantage of an old wood in a good violin the charge for this work is $10 to $15, according to the work, and of course I do not mean that I can make a good violin out of any old thing for I cannot but there is quite a per cent of them that I can, but if when you bring yours in it proves to be a poor specimen I will take it in exchange for another one that you may find here to suit you. I can use a big number of these cheap violins as I have many calls from people who want them to learn on. They ask for violins at from $2 to $7 so if you have an old violin around the house bring it in and trade it in on some instrument. If not a violin some other instrument as I have all kinds of stringed instruments. I am at your service at 512 WILLAMETTE ST. EUGENE. f23
