FIGHT FOR LIFE LOST BY EBERT

other person present aside from the doctors and nurses. The political attacks upon the president which culminated in the Magdeburg trial, and the efforts to connect him with the Barmat loans scandal, added greatly to the burdens imposed upon him as chief executive of a new republic.

Putsches and threats of putsches and the jibes of the monarchists who could not bear the idea of a working man succeeding the Hohenzollerns and helped to undermine his once rugged constitution. But the firmness with which he managed the political crisis arising from the tangled party system and the simple dignity with which Frau Ebert met her duties as first lady of Germany disarmed many of their sharpest critics. There was probably not another leader in Germany, his enemies admitted, who could have succeeded where he did, and his death four months before the presidential election produces more confusion in a political situation already badly muddled.

Forgot Party Lines

President Ebert was the first of all the patriotic Germans to forget party lines when it became necessary to check the extremists either in the radical or conservative camps. He frequently brought curses upon his head from the one side or the other by approving measures which they, according to the viewpoints deemed either reactionary or too radical.

His attitude won the confidence of the ambassadors and ministers accredited to Berlin and he was a powerful factor in bringing about acceptance of the Dawes plan which promised to calm the storm that has raged about reparation payments for so many years.

Was Saddlemaker

President Ebert started life as a saddlemaker, but years of experience as a labor organizer and official of unions, together with his wide training in practical politics developed him even as his admirers pointed out, the late Samuel Gompers was developed in America. His lack of early opportunities was compensated for by the training he won in the world of affairs. He was described as no dreamy theorist, but a hard headed, tactful leader, who made a gallant fight in behalf of the German republic and the German masses under heartbreaking conditions.

Death came to the president in the West sanitarium. The public received its announcement through the half masting of flags on the foreign office, the American and British embassies and the government building along the Wilhelmstrasse.

The news came as a shock to the Berliners, as the morning newspaper published bulletins indicating a marked improvement in Herr Ebert's conditions and the crisis was supposed by many to have been passed.

Cabinet Is Called

A meeting of the cabinet was called for today and the Reichstag will be convened on Monday when it will probably arrange a new election date in advance of the one scheduled for June. The choice of a regular successor to Herr Ebert will relieve Chancellor Luther of the responsibility of carrying on the presidential duties in addition to his own office. The president's death comes on the eve of the national day of mourning set aside to commemorate Germany's losses in the World war. There will be memorial services in all the churches of Berlin, and all the church bells will be tolled.

President Ebert lost two sons in the war.

Coolidge's Cabinet Is All Completed

Team Which President Will Use About Hitched Up

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—With the confirmation of Charles B. Warren as attorney general, the cabinet has been completed that President Coolidge will take into office with him on March 4.

Frank B. Kellogg and William M. Jardine are also yet to be confirmed respectively as secretaries of state and of agriculture, but it is understood there will be no opposition to either of them.

Warren may have to wait until after noon on March 4 for his confirmation.

If the democrats and progressives, combined, stand pat, they can beat him in the present senate.

President Coolidge, however, already has called the extra session of the new one, which it is customary to hold directly after an inauguration for the especial purpose of confirming new appointments, such as an incoming chief executive usually has to announce and wants acted on as promptly as possible.

This is not to be confused with a regular extra session of congress. Only the senate meets and it can transact only such business as can be disposed of without the acquiescence of the house.

Republican Majority

At this senate extra session there will be a clear republican majority and it is a foregone conclusion that it will vote favorably on the Warren appointment.

The cabinet then, from March 4 will consist of:

Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury.

John W. Weeks, secretary of war.

Charles B. Warren, attorney general.

Harry S. New, postmaster general.

Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy.

Hubert Work, secretary of the interior.

William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture.

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce.

James J. Davis, secretary of labor.

However, this is not the cabinet the president is expected to have by Jan. 1, 1926.

More Resignations Likely

Secretaries Weeks, Work and Davis are expected to retire in the course of the spring or early summer.

Today's Cross-Word Puzzle

The seven and nine-letter words in this puzzle add interest to an otherwise average makeup. There are few unkeyed letters, so that on the whole the puzzle should be easy to solve.

Postmaster General New and Secretary Wilbur probably will do so before the end of the year.

Secretaries Kellogg, Mellon and Hoover and Attorney General Warren, barring unforseen accidents, undoubtedly will hold their portfolios throughout President Coolidge's term.

Secretary Jardine's tenure will depend on the qualities he shows and perhaps, to some extent, on luck. His job, just at this time, is recognized as the most difficult and ticklish that any of the presidential advisers are required to hold down.

Agricultural conditions are in such a ferment that the department head who has to deal with them must have, not only extraordinary ability, but the "breaks" as well, if he is to last long.

KNUTE ROCKNE IS DUBBED VIOLINIST

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. — Knute Rockne, football coach at Notre Dame university was called a "Norwegian novelist," a "violin player," "A Scandinavian Jockey" and "a member of the League of Nations," in a test given 250 University of Chicago co-eds, who were asked to identify prominent men. Seventy-five per cent answered correctly.

Charles Evans Hughes was believed to be vice-president of the United States by one of the incorrect 25 per cent.

Benito Mussolini, Fascisti premier of Italy, was described as a "Bolshevist statesman," and an "Irish radical."

Adam Smith, founder of the modern system of economics was identified as an "attorney for W. E. D. Stokes" and as "one of the Smith brothers, cough drop kings."

One of the girls called Charles Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, "a column conductor for a Chicago newspaper." Another thought Professor A. A. Michaelson, distinguished astronomer and discoverer of the Star Betelgneuse, was "a famous trick star." Feodor Chaliapin, the famous Russian opera singer, was thought to be the nickname for Charlie Chaplin.

Rum 75 Years Old

BREWER, Me., Feb. 28.—A bottle of rum, said by old settlers to be at least 75 years old, has been dug up along the beach here. A special testing committee decided the liquor was entirely unlike anything available now. Diggers are seeking other quarts in the sands.

Snub for Soviet

PARIS, Feb. 28.—Former members of the Russian aristocracy, now working as mannequins in Paris shops, were all set for Madame Krassin, wife of the new soviet ambassador, when she started on a shopping tour. Despite threats of dismissal, they refused to display gowns for the soviet lady.
