

COUNTY TAX FORCE STARTS PREPARING LANE STATEMENTS

In order to complete the preparation of the more than 18,000 tax statements that are to be sent out in Lane county, three crews of workers comprising a force of 21 are busy at the local office of the tax collection department. The force is working day and night shifts and it is expected the distribution of the statements will be started in about 10 days although all the statements will not be ready at that time, according to Lloyd Howe, deputy sheriff in charge of tax collections.

"Many taxpayers are anxious about not receiving their annual tax statements but we are doing the best we can with a full force working and it is a difficult task to prepare accurately the great number of reports that are necessary," Mr. Howe said today.

Due to a delay of about 12 days, due to the holding up of the tax rolls while awaiting the decision on the suit brought recently to enjoin the county from collecting the tax based on its exceeding the six per cent limitation the distribution of the statements is somewhat behind, is the announcement.

Restaurants Along Great White Way Face Dry's Charge

NEW YORK, March 3.—The shadow of the padlock, nemesis of liquor law violators has eclipsed New York's great white way.

Prohibition by padlock is the watchword of the United States District Attorney Emory Bruckner, who launched a sensational prohibition law enforcement drive last night, just four days after he took office.

Complaints charging violation of the dry laws were made against the proprietors of 14 fashionable restaurants, an evidence gathered by young men who spent $1,500 of the district

The other members of the committee are Harry Hobbs and Jack McKay. Plans worked out by this committee will be submitted to the lodge membership for action, Mr. Magladry states. Although present plans have not been fully outlined it is assured that the Eugene lodge will take part in nearly 100 per cent, Mr. Magladry said.

POSTAL BOX RULES VIOLATED, REPORT

Reports that advertising circulars are being placed in mail boxes in the city by house to house distributors have been received by Darwin E. Moran, postmaster. The postmaster calls attention to the federal law that a mail receptacle is for mail only and that it is unlawful to distribute any form of advertising other than that coming through the regular postal channels on which postage has been paid.

"Although this practice is not widespread in the city we have received a number of reports recently of the misuse of city mail boxes by circular distributors and a warning is issued that this must stop," the postmaster declared.

Charged with burglary, three brothers, I. J. Lloyd, 22; Tom Lloyd, 18; and George Lloyd, 15; were arrested at Cottage Grove yesterday and brought to Eugene and lodged in the county jail late yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Green Pitcher. I. J. Lloyd and Tom Lloyd had an immediate hearing and were bound over for the grand jury while the case of the younger brother, who is of juvenile court age, will be taken up by Colonel J. J. Harbough, county juvenile court officer. It is alleged that the brothers entered an inner room of a barn which was used as living quarters. I. J. "BLINDNESS" IS TOPIC OF SERMON

By H. W. HALL
"Blindness" was stressed last night at the armory revival services by Evangelist Victoria Booth-Clibborn Demarest, who is preaching there each night.

Her text was based on Mark 10:46 which tells the story of a man named Bartimaeus, who was blind and sat by the wayside begging and hearing a multitude passing that way made inquired as to what was the cause of all the commotion and was told that Jesus of Nazareth was passing by followed by a multitude of people.

Bartimaeus, although blind, was not deaf and must have been made familiar with all the reports in circulation regarding Jesus, how he had healed the sick, raised the dead and driven other wonderful things.

He had resolved in his heart, went on the evangelist as she outlined the scenes surrounding this interesting incident between Jesus and the blind man, that if Jesus ever happened that way he would appeal to him for help in his affliction.

The time came and Bartimaeus was so determined to reach the ears of Jesus that he began to cry in a loud voice, "Thou son of David, have mercy on me." The men in the crowd thought Bartimaeus too presumptuous and was making too much of a disturbance and sought to make him hold his peace, but he began to cry all the more, "Thou son of David have mercy on me," and when he knew that Jesus stopped, he "casting aside his garments, rose, and came to Jesus."

In this connection the evangelist said that she would speak of three tests that confronted Bartimaeus.

First—Public opinion, criticism, told to hold his peace, etc. "There are always plenty of people," she said, "to do the same for us, trying to dissuade us, trying to discourage us from seeking the Lord, not realizing the fact that the Lord must deal with each individual separately."

"Let God alone," she cried, "he is able to run his own business. To interfere is to do the work of the devil."

Second—Jesus stood still and demanded that Bartimaeus be called. "Why did Jesus stand still?" she asked, "and went on to explain that Jesus will come just so far toward us, we must go the other part of the way."

She brought out the thought that too many people today want to be shown before they will come, or will call, declaring that Bartimaeus was eager to come and to call in his blindness, Jesus would have come in like manner, believe, come just as we are—flinging aside every garment or hindrance that impedes our progress and come to Jesus.

Third—"Jesus said: What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?" Bartimaeus and Jesus," she stated, "stood face to face and Jesus healed him. Men today should be as courageous as this blind man, mean business, get down to brass tacks, Jesus wants us not only to come to him and tell him our needs, but he wants to demonstrate his ability to 'meet them all.'"

PLAN FOR SIUSLAW PROJECT RECEIVED

Reports that active preparations will soon be under way for the dredging of the Siuslaw channel as provided for in the river and harbors bill recently passed have been received at Florence, according to E. H. Hill of the firm of Hill and Cushman, of Cushman, who was a visitor here today.

The port commission of the Siuslaw received word from Captain Mayo, divisional federal engineer at Portland, that the present plans were to bring the dredging from the coast guard to the Siuslaw for the work on dredging out the three shoals, this work being recommended by the board of army engineers who about two years ago inspected the channel.

The shoals at North Fork, Spruce point and one near the coast guard station on the lever river will be dredged and it is expected that this will require about three months. The dredgings from the Siuslaw shoals will be pumped to adjacent low lands along the river and this will be of benefit to land owners near the site of the work, according to those who have interested themselves in the dredging operations.

GLAND PATIENT WITHSTANDS SEVERE ENDURANCE TEST

After suffering from a nervous breakdown, and being subject to dizzy spells, a man of 35 regained his health and strength through glandular treatment. As an extreme test of his perfect health, this gland patient recently ran and won the one-mile and three-mile race in the annual field meet at one of California's State Institutions. Even more remarkable than his speed was the physical condition of the athlete after the running. He exhibited nothing of the distress or labored breathing of the ordinary runner.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, which is prepared in convenient tablet form, for men and women, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. Allen's Drug store and Red Cross Pharmacy will supply you.

JAMES FECHET TO SUCCEED MITCHELL

battle of San Juan in 1898. He also saw active service during the Philippine insurrection and served with the punitive expedition in Mexico in 1914.

Colonel Fechet is a qualified pilot, having served continuously in the aviation service since September 1917. He was appointed temporary lieutenant-colonel, aviation, at the outbreak of the World war, promoted to temporary colonel in 1918, his temporary commission terminating in 1920, when he was permanently transferred to the air service. He stands third in relative rank among the lieutenant-colonels of the army air service.

Mr. Coolidge Approves
The nomination of Colonel Fechet, carrying the rank of Brigadier-General, was sent to the senate by President Coolidge, a short time after he had received the recommendation from Secretary Weeks.

General Mitchell, as chief exponent of the independent air force theory of national defense, as disclosed by himself during the recent congressional investigation, is said to be out of harmony with the war department and administration policy on nearly all matters affecting the air service.

During his testimony he sharply criticized both the war and navy departments with relation to air service matters, and Secretary Weeks and his advisers have taken the position he could hardly be useful in his present position, where he would be required to operate under policies, which he had spent and emphatically challenged.

Statement is Given
General Mitchell was at Langley field, Va., to witness the anti-aircraft gun demonstrations when the announcement of his successor was made, but his office gave out a statement prepared by him before his departure.

"The question of my re-appointment as assistant chief of the air service," he said, "is a small matter. The question of the re-organization of our system of national defense is a very big matter. The people must decide what our national defense should be and to arrive at a conclusion they must know and be told the truth about what we have, what we need and how it should be handled."

Help for Nervous Women
It has often been said that only a woman can understand what nervous women endure. Most cases of nervousness, sleeplessness, mental depression, headaches, backache, fretting and worrying have their origin in some feminine ailment that will readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, which for over forty years has been restoring women of America to health and strength. Merit alone could have stood such a test.
