WOOL PRICE SAGS ON COAST MARKET

Stagnant Condition in East Causes Drop in Price Along Coast

PORTLAND, Ore., March 12.—A stagnant condition of the eastern wool market has resulted in lower prices in the Pacific northwest. Today local buyers are out with new buying price lists showing reductions from 3 to 5c a pound. Bids now range around a 35c top on valley fine and half-blood with medium or 3-8's blood from 40 to 35c.

Bids for lower grade wool also show a liberal reduction with best offers now for coarse or quarterblood rangings from 28 to 32c. Cottswold and Braid are bringing bids around 25c. Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho ranch clips are down around 20 cents a pound.

Some reports have been received here that Germany is buying freely of Merino and fine greasy cross-breds. Top grade eggs are again higher on the exchange with extras back to 33c and firsts 32c. Other grades are steady and unchanged. Receipts are liberal but well taken. Storage activities here are on a big scale for so early in the season with more than four carloads put in coller during the past ten days.
