BADGES FOR LOCAL ELKS ARE ORDERED

To advertise Eugene among the thousands of Elks from throughout the United States who will attend the annual national convention of the B. P. O. Elks at Portland in July, the local lodge has placed an initial order for 100 badges and this will be increased later, according to J. S. Maglady, chairman of the convention committee of the lodge.

The badges will have an upper oval with the words "Eugene, Oregon, 1925," the number of the local lodge. A sawlog with the Elks head and the symbolic clock of the order between the antlers will also be on this oval. The lower part of the badge connected by two chains will be a representation of the state of Oregon with Eugene prominently marked on the small relief map.

"The badges worn by the visiting delegations at the annual Elks conventions have always been an attractive feature and are appropriate for each community," Mr. Maglady said. The badges are kept for souvenirs and there is much exchanging of the badges between the visiting Elks from various parts of the country, Mr. Maglady states.

Large and Small Light Globes Made

WASHINGTON, March 12.—What are believed to be the largest and smallest electric light bulbs ever made, have arrived here for exhibition at the Smithsonian institution, from the Edison Electric Light company of New Jersey.

The messenger who brought the bulbs yesterday had to engage a section on the train to provide space for the packing cases that contained the 40,000 watt giant. The tiny "crain" of wheat bulb, as it is called, being about that size, he carried, carefully wrapped in the tissue paper and a sealed envelope in his pocket.

COOS BAY TRAINS BACK ON SCHEDULE

No evening service was carried on either direction by the railroad, although the morning train today went out as usual. Night trains will leave on schedule, and will run through to Marshfield without interruption today. It is announced by the Southern Pacific district office.

'The Raggedy Man' Given at Guild Hall

"The Raggedy Man," presented last night at Guild hall by the University Company, is an adaptation of characters, scenes and quoted lines from James Whitcomb Riley's poems about that Indiana country life he so much celebrated. The central theme is of course the contrast between city and country life with country life given much the best of it.

Miss Banfield, who in this production makes her final appearance as a member of the University Company, is altogether and most realistically in the part of Grandmother Squeers. Nearly all the parts are character roles which were in most instances fairly well interpreted and the costumes were designed with understanding or collected from the attics, remnants which have escaped the rummage sales for twenty-five years or more, and afforded much of contrast between the era so recently past and the abbreviated costumes of today.

In criticism it may be said that the play is a little too obviously a kind of dramatized anthology without any inherent plot development, but it is full of funny situations, has many good speaking lines and not a little tender sentimentality.

The first act, staged in a country grocery store is the best and takes one who knows the small town life of the Middle West of that era irresistibly back to cherished memories of days which now seem unreal. The production will be repeated every night this week and a matinee will be given Saturday afternoon.

A record number of books were published in Great Britain last year, the total being 12,700. Fiction heads the list, comprising one-tenth of the total number.

The Only Difference is 15c a quart

So far as their actual lubricating value is concerned, the difference between eastern and western motor oil is about 15c a quart.

This 15c saving is represented in two natural advantages of the western product; volume production, and low freight rates.

Whether eastern or western, authorities will tell you that all motor oils deposit carbon.

But there are two kinds of carbon. One is hard and gritty, an abrasive which scores and scratches metals. You must remove it every few thousand miles at considerable cost.

Not so with Aristo Motor Oil—a product from the finest western crude.

The residue from Aristo is soft and fluffy. Most of it blows out with the exhaust. It cannot scratch or score.

Motors run 10,000—20,000

—50,000 miles without the need of cleaning—so scores of Aristo users testify. Thus to avoid hard, gritty carbon forever, simply use Aristo motor oil.

Aristo—a perfect lubricant—is the product of one of the largest and best equipped refineries in the world. That is quality insurance.

Use Aristo regularly if you want protection and less carbon trouble at a minimum of cost. You can pay twice as much for "Eastern," and not get as good an oil.
