"The road is in terrible condition, deep ruts and a sea of mud make the going almost impassable," the deputy sheriff reported this morning. Al Hays, deputy sheriff of the Oakridge district, also started from Westfir to Eugene by motor but twice broke down shortly after starting and had to return.

But few cars have made the trip out from Oakridge to Eugene this winter and Mr. Stelmacher is in doubt as to whether he will make the return trip in the near future.

qualifications should go into the record in reply to the charges against him.

After conference with opposition leaders, Senator Curtis said the vote would go over until Monday.

LEADERS DESPAIRING

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP)—Convinced that a second rejection of the nomination of Charles H. Warren to be attorney general is inevitable, administration leaders in the senate today, asked for time and gave some indications of resigning their last hope of victory.

Some of them believed that President Coolidge himself had become convinced Mr. Warren never could be confirmed and was casting about for another to nominate in his place.

The White House, itself, however, gave no sign that the fight had been abandoned, officials there indicating on the contrary that the president remained determined to wage a war to the finish with his opponents in the senate.

Vote Is Delayed

A movement to delay a vote until Monday was initiated immediately after Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, had returned from a holiday conference with the executive at the White House. Some leaders of the opposition agreed to leave the matter go over, but Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, insisted that there be a roll call at today's session.

The understanding among senators who were asked to consent to a delay was that the president wanted time in which to make a new selection. Meantime, they said, the Warren nomination would not be withdrawn but would be permitted to come to a vote Monday because Mr. Coolidge wanted the nominee's qual-

LATEST NEWS OF THE WORLD OF FASHION

The Evening mode can best be described in two words—chiffon and lace. Wool jersey has been restored to favor in the mode especially since it comes in lovely, soft shades. Cuffs on spring gloves are little smaller, but decorative as ever. Feminine fashions borrow much from the masculine mode—witness the tailored suit, the double breasted top-coat, the mannish shirt and even the little bow tie. The hat with its dented crown has made quite a "dent" in the mode.

No Charge Indicated

As the senate assembled, the president held last minutes conferences with Senator Curtis, and Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut. Meantime his lieutenants on the floor were in conference with some of the republicans who previously voted against confirmation, urging them to support the administration in which now has become the first big issue between the executive and the senate.

New polls of the senate were made by the leaders on both sides, but they were said to have shown no change in the situation, with an indicated majority against confirmation of from three to six.
