

PARENTS ARE HELD AS EVADING DUTIES

Two boys after a hearing before Colonel J. J. Harbaugh, juvenile court officer, have been paroled to the county. One boy was charged with malicious mischief in breaking several windows in the Geary school and the other boy was alleged to have been hit by a car.

Three lads from Marcola, one aged 10, one 8, and one 5, will be here tomorrow to explain to the court officer a charge that they mistreated a little girl of five years of age, tearing her clothes off. The little tot was considerably scratched due to having to walk through the brush although she was otherwise not injured, the juvenile officer states.

"The number of cases of juvenile delinquency that are being reported in Lane is a harsh reflection on the neglect of duty of many parents," said Colonel Harbaugh, who was outspoken in his criticism of this lack of proper home training. "These cases should never have to be taken into the juvenile court. Having to call on the county to take disciplinary measures against children that should be attended to in the old-fashioned way in the family woodshed is a sad commentary on the utter lack of control of some parents over the actions of their offspring," the juvenile officer declares.

Many boys and girls of tender years are allowed to set their own hours of hope-coming in the evening and are otherwise given a freedom that their age does not justify and this invariably leads to delinquency, Colonel Harbaugh voices the belief.

MILL MAY CURTAIL CUT FURTHER HERE

Although no definite plans have as yet been made there is a possibility that the working week of the Booth-Kelly mills and camps in Lane county will be cut to four days if the present production of lumber continues to be above the demand, according to a statement today of A. C. Dixon, general manager.

The company recently started the five-day week in an effort to hold the production down in common with the majority of the large mills of the Pacific Northwest. The mills in the Tacoma and Puget Sound district recently cut the working time to four days a week to curtail production and this plan may spread to other plants in the northwest, it is said.

"Production at the mills is still above that needed to stabilize the market and although the four-day week has been talked of no plans have as yet been made toward that end, but we may have to take the step later," Mr. Dixon stated.

Vicious Bucking of Wild Cayuse Cause Of Jackson's Death

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., March 19.—Thrown to the ground by the vicious bucking of a wild cayuse, Fred Jackson was killed last Sunday afternoon on the main street of Chiloquin. According to authorities, Jackson had been drinking heavily before the wild ride through the Klamath Indian reservation town which ended in his death. Officers confiscated a cache of ten gallons of moonshine from which Jackson is said to have obtained liquor an hour before his death.

Despite that Jackson came to his death through a violent accident, no report has been made to the coroner. Jackson was buried yesterday in the reservation cemetery.

entitled to the soldiers' bonus, is a question that has been asked by members in this branch of service, according to Lawrence Paige, local U. S. army recruiting officer, who is aiding ex-service men fill out their applications for the adjusted compensation.

"Such men are entitled to compensation for the entire period, April 5, 1917, to July 1, 1919," says Mr. Paige, "provided that the applicant was not separated from the service between those dates, and that he was not commissioned in the national army or reserve corps in a grade higher than captain. If his war-time commission was a field grade, the applicant is entitled to compensation only up to the date of the commission."

Mrs. Louisa Moon Dies at Hospital

Mrs. Louisa Moon, 75, died today at the Pacific Christian hospital.

Mrs. Moon is survived by three sons, Averard R. Moon of Indianapolis; Rupert A. Moon of Roseburg; and William J. Moon of Kalamazoo, Wash. The three sons were in Eugene last week, having been called here on account of her critical illness. Thinking she had improved, however, all but Rupert A. Moon returned to their homes.

She was a member of the Christian church, and Rev. E. V. Stivers, pastor of that church, and Rev. E. C. Skanderson of Eugene Bible university will be in charge of the funeral services Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The body will be sent from the Veatch chapel to Kelso, Wash., for burial beside the body of Mrs. Moon's husband, J. W. Moon.

Lorane School to Get Cookery Club

Organization of a camp cooking club in the Lorane school district has been completed under the direction of Arnold Collier, county club leader. B. A. Addison is leader of the club. The officers and members are: Lawrence King, president; Harold Foster, vice-president; John Crawford, secretary; Lloyd King, Callie Smith, Phillips Hiteman, Francis Deeds, Clifton Shortridge. In addition to the more than 40 clubs organized in Lane county this year there have been 37 boys and girls enrolled individually for club work, Mr. Collier states.

Warning Issued on Electrician Trick

Warnings were received today from Corvallis and Albany that a young man of about 20 had victimized several places in those cities when posing as an electrician stating that he had come to inspect wiring. Benton county deputies were here today in the belief that the man had come this way and might attempt to work his game in this city. He is described as five feet seven inches in height, weight 135 pounds, dark hair and eyes.

County Will Sell Two Liquor Autos

Two more cars will be sold at auction by the county, according to stipulations filed today by the district attorney. One car a Winton six touring, model 1919, was confiscated while used in the alleged transportation of liquor by Frank Perchen who was recently found guilty of the charge. The other car is a Star roadster, 1924 model, also alleged to have been used in the liquor traffic. The sale will be held later, it is announced.

AUTO DEALERS NOT TO MAKE DISPLAYS

There will be no automobile display in connection with the style show which opens Friday, according to announcement today of Frank Blade, chairman of the committee in charge of the event. Owing to the fact that the dealers all participated in the recent auto show held at the armory it was decided that a similar event now should not be held and the efforts of the style show committee will now be devoted to other attractions, it is announced.

As the display of cars will not be held there will be no restriction of traffic on Willamette street during the opening of the event Friday night. All other features, including the carnival and the prize giving will be retained for the style show, it is reported.

W. H. Melby Denies Charge of Stabbing

Emphatic denial of the charge that he stabbed Fred Gaegers in a street fight yesterday was made this afternoon in police court by W. H. Melby, building contractor, who voluntarily appeared before Chief of Police Judkins and asked to clear himself.

As no charges had been filed against the man he was released until further notice by Mr. Judkins. The battle was alleged to have arisen over the removal of some dirt on a lot where the contractor is building a house.

FOUR MOTORISTS FINED

A $5 fine was assessed by Judge George A. Gilmore against Tom McCollum for driving an automobile without an operator's card, in municipal court today. The other car owners paid $2 fines each for parking their automobiles on city streets all night. They were Jack Barrett, Carl J. Miller and the Lane Auto company.

Flax Growing Held Opportunity Here

Opportunities for Lane county and the Willamette valley in the flax growing industry were outlined by D. M. Sanson, linen manufacturer of Canada and New York, at today's luncheon of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Sanson, who is president of the Dominion Linens, Ltd., of Guelph, Ontario, which operates large flax farms and three linen factories, and vice-president of the Donegal Linen Mills, Inc., of Lockport, N. Y., indicated in a conversation with local business men that he would be willing to invest $50,000 in the flax growing industry in the valley in order to get the industry under way. Willamette valley flax makes better linen, he says, than that grown in Canada.

Mr. Sanson was introduced by R. O. Snelling of Salem, manager of the Associated Oil company. Musical selections consisted of two tuba solos by Frank Gilstrap, accompanied by Miss Maude Dismore, and a soprano solo by Miss Mildred Baldwin.

Weather Changes Noted by Visitor

Quite a change from Eugene weather is word received today from Mrs. A. C. Dixon who states that she had arrived at Chicago and that a snow storm was the chief feature of the weather there today. Mrs. Dixon is on her way to Boston where she will visit with her son Richard Dixon and later will return to Chicago to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hollenbeck. Mrs. Dixon left Sunday and expects to spend about two months in the east.

'COME DOWN' IS TOPIC OF SERMON

By H. W. HALL

At the conclusion of the sermon last night in the armory where a revival is holding forth, many were noticed making their way to the inquiry rooms on either side of the platform where the speaker stands. The title of the sermon was "Come Down" and was found in the 19th chapter of Luke, who tells the story of the meeting of Jesus and Zacchaeus, the latter being up a tree because of his inability to see the man who was attracting such multitudes of people wherever he went. Upon seeing the little man up the tree Zacchaeus had called to him saying, "Zacchaeus, come down, for this day I must abide in thine house."

The evangelist discussed at some length the man who was "small of stature" and climbed a tree to be above other people, and Naaman, the man of valor who had gone to Elisha, the prophet that prayer might be offered for his cleansing. One of these characters, she explained, although rich and influential among his fellow townsmen was a sinner, while the others man although a great general in the army and much honored by the king was a leper. Both needed the salvation that brings healing for sin and sickness and which God alone can bestow.

She brought out the thought that there are certain men who climb trees of good works in hopes of gaining salvation thereby, relating a story to the effect that a man had mistakenly tried to do that by building a church, had presented the congregation with a piano, was much given to charity, but when at the end of his life had found that he was still a sinner in spite of his good works. "Our works are dead," she said. "God's works are living works and God will never mix dead works with living works, because the first essential to salvation is to 'come down.'"

Original Costumes Win Legion Prizes

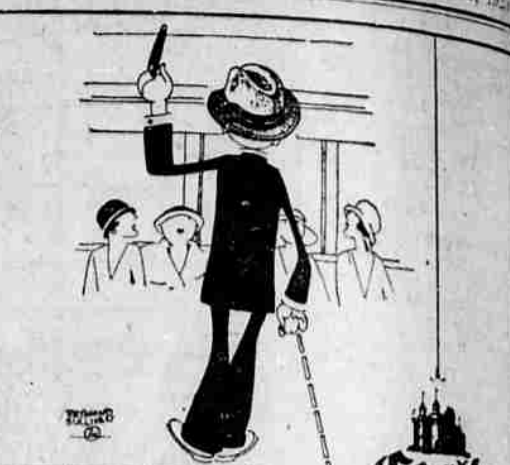

Wearing the picturesque Spanish costumes of Argentine republic, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Chamberlain drew down the first prize at the American Legion masquerade dance last night for the most original costumes. Mrs. Sherman Marshall, garbed as an old woman, and Van Svarverud, dressed as a Russian Cossack received the prizes for the best character costume.

More than 100 dancers attended the party, and promptly at 9:30 o'clock masks were removed. Dinner was served at 11 o'clock. Honorable mention in the costume judging went to Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Chesson and Mr. and Mrs. Rieger, for couples, and K. F. Love, Miss Ruth Borin, and Mrs. Frank Bennett for individuals. Another potluck dinner and dance will be given in the next few weeks, the dance committee announces.
