

NEW RETAIL STORE FOR EUGENE READY TO GREET PATRONS

With a new and modern establishment equal to any of its kind in the Pacific northwest, as far as decoration and appointments are concerned, the new Wetherbee-Densmore store is being made ready for the opening of the new Wetherbee-Densmore store, which is located at Tenth avenue west and Willamette adjacent to the entrance of the new Lowell theater.

Workers are busy putting the final touches to the old ivory colored scheme of the interior and by Monday night it is expected that the establishment will be made ready for the opening Tuesday morning.

"This will not be the formal opening as we have considerable work to do yet so we plan to have the public reception later in the spring," Mr. Wetherbee said today.

Mr. and Mrs. Wetherbee and Maude Densmore recently spent three months in Santa and east and visited many women's wear shops in the larger cities. Each establishment was closely studied and the best features were, as far as possible, incorporated in the new Eugene store.

The store will carry everything in the way of feminine wearing apparel with the exception of footwear. Mr. Wetherbee states. New stock direct from the large state centers of the east has been purchased and is ready to be placed on display for the opening of business Tuesday.

Fixtures Are Walnut. The fixtures are all of walnut, the modern type and design of this form of store furnishing obtainable, and the arrangement of the display space has been made to provide convenience for the patrons and to show to the best advantage the many hundreds of designs of feminine finery, the owner said.

Six commodious dressing rooms are provided in the establishment, each having a full-length beveled French mirror. These rooms are in the rear and on the south side. The north side of the store in the rear is devoted to a long row of glass display cases. The entire balcony will be for millinery in displays, this department being in charge of Miss Alva. Heavy carpets with a dark design in keeping with the walnut store fixtures, are to be placed on the entire lower floor and the balcony.

Windows Attractive. The large display windows on Willamette street and also on the north side on Tenth avenue west will be artistically decorated. Wrought iron grilles, this being one of the few stores on the Pacific coast with this type of window feature, are being made on special order for the store, Mr. Wetherbee states.

The full basement under the store will be used as a storage room for the stock and this is now being placed on the shelves and being marked ready for the opening of business.

"We have absolute confidence in the continued development of Eugene and the increasing demand for good merchandise establishments," Mr. Wetherbee said in commenting on the future of the city. "We know that Eugene women will appreciate the best in the way of wearing apparel displayed in the most refined and artistic surroundings and to provide for this has been our endeavor and we believe that we have succeeded," the owner states.

Power Line Soon Open to Cushman

With the installation of the new power line from the plant of the West Coast Power company at Florence to Cushman, this latter community will have electric and power, being one of the few remaining settlements of Lane county that are still in the oil lamp age, according to George Melvin Miller, local realtor, who has just returned from a business visit in Western Lane. Poles are being set for the new power line and the installation of the new 100 horse-power Diesel engine is under way at Florence. This new engine will increase the capacity of the plant four-fold, Mr. Miller states. Plans are under way for electric wiring in the store and houses at Cushman including the Southern Pacific depot which in the past has had to depend on oil for lighting purposes.

Building Plan for Ninth Avenue Told

Negotiations for the erection of a new building at the northwest corner of Ninth avenue west and Olive street are under way but no definite announcement will be made until later, according to Frank R. Wetherbee, owner of the property. The deal was completed but later the plaintiff states that he found that the property had been sold for $2100 and he is suing to recover the additional $600 and also the $100 paid as commission, alleging that the latter is forfeited owing to the defendant not keeping the original agreement as to the price of the property.

ARMORY SERVICES TO CLOSE SUNDAY

By W. H. HALL

The Victoria Booth-Clibborn Dearest revival will close Sunday with the evening service, according to announcement last night at the armory where the meetings are being held. This afternoon the last of a series of lectures for women only is being held. Tonight the subject will be given over to a story of the life of the evangelist.

Matthew 12:43 and the verses following were used last night for the title to her sermon "Nobody Home" in which she devoted the greater part of her time to a discussion of unclean spirits of which she said, the devil is the author. She contended that unclean spirits take up their habitation within a man and strive as he may to cut them off by the axe method, i. e., good resolutions, there is only one way that will free a man and that is by way of the Lord Jesus Christ, for without Him we can do nothing.

Much of the unrest in the world today, declared the speaker, was due to unclean spirits which she termed temper, pride, love of money, lust, drink, etc. and although there is more light in the world today than ever before, "Man chooses darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil," she quoted.

Speaking of conversions and revival campaigns she stated that it was a mistaken idea that a man could become a Christian by the simple process of resolution to turn over a new leaf.

"How about the old leaf," she cried. "If you don't get rid of the old leaf it will surely bob up to plague you."

Conversions of this type, she explained, thrive during the progress of the meetings, but as soon as they close he finds that there has been no change for the reason that Jesus had not wrought it—that real salvation had had no part and the man falls back into old paths and finally declares, from so-called experience, there's nothing in it.

The spirit of '98 is once again calling the old-time sour-doughs of Seattle, according to Joseph L. Brogan, who is on his way to the Bohemian mining district to renew prospecting ventures.

The former Steamboat creek prospector heard much talk of an impending gold rush which many think will rival in magnitude the old Klondike days.

The particular strike which is causing all the excitement is in the

Bank Agent Holds Farm Work Tardy

Although farm work is rather late in the Willamette valley prospects are good, according to the opinion of George Hilton Jr., appraiser from the Federal land bank of Spokane, who arrived here today to appraise property in Lane on which loans have been asked of the Lane County Federal Farm Loan association. Mr. Hilton will be in Lane five or six days and will appraise seven pieces of property in various parts of the county. The appraiser will next go to Linn county. Since the organization of the federal farm loan bank there have been but very few foreclosures on loans on property in western Oregon. Mr. Hilton states in commenting on the conditions particularly in the Willamette valley.

Reports for Lane County Farm Sent

Twenty-one inmates are registered in the Lane county farm, 10 men and two women, according to the monthly report filed with Judge C. P. Barnard of the county court. During the past four years since Judge Barnard has been in office the number of inmates at the farm has varied only a few from this figure. Although the population is much larger there has been no increase in number at the farm and the judge attributes this to the fact that many aged or those who are still able to support themselves are finding places in the county where in return for some work they obtain their keep. The report on food consumed at the farm during the past month shows 165 loaves of bread, 17 pounds of coffee, four sacks of potatoes, 60 gallons of milk.
