Feed Your Glands

For health—for youth—for beauty

Some of the greatest discoveries in modern medicine relate to glands. When glands fail, extracts or secretions of like glands are used. The liver is our largest, most important gland. Ox gall is now used to stimulate it. Thus countless people may get results which drugs have never brought. Aid For Millions Turbid liver means more than constipated. The liver supplies bile. That bile checks germ development in the intestines. When bile is scant, germs multiply. They feed the blood a constant stream of poison. Bad complexion may result. Or falling hair. Heart and kidney troubles are often due to poisons. So is high blood pressure, so is premature old age. The new way to check those poisons is to cause the liver to supply its quart of bile per day. And ox gall is the substance now employed. Check the Poisons There are countless conditions which an active liver would help. Conditions which result from germ toxins. Results are often prompt; sometimes they are priceless. Anyone who suffers from such troubles should learn what ox gall does. But get genuine ox gall. Ask your druggist for Dioxol tablets. Each one contains ten drops of purified ox gall. Yet the tablets cost but two cents each. Remember the name—Dioxol. Those tablets will show you what ox gall does. Perhaps it is just what you need. Guarantee: Anyone not satisfied with results from the first box of Dioxol may return the empty box to the makers and receive his money back.—Adv.
